In place of a sermon last evening the reverend gentleman sketched briefly his experiences in many lands, and was most emphatic in his conviction from contact with many peoples, of the truth of St. Paul's utterance in the Acts of the Apostles "that God hath made of one blood all nations of men." Paul loved all men, emphasized Mr. Grobb and he recognized the great essential factor of uniting all nations in one common bond of fellowship, notwith standing differences in race and inherent characteristics. Travel, the speaker asserted, gives one a larger sympathy with others and instils in one an appreciation of conditions in common. During his absence, he had visited ten countries in the Old World, travelling at night, and sight seeking and information gleaning during the day. And he had returned with a keen sense of an essential bond of sympathetic union between all men, which realization had developed from conversation and discussion with them—in England, Scotland, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy Egypt Switzerland, Palestine.

Not Responsible for War

Turning to Germany its people, government and conditions, the reverend gentleman found much to esteem in the Germans, the average man of whom he was convinced, had been no more responsible for the past world-devastating war than are we in Canada. His heart went out to the rank and file of that race in sympathy for suffering and distress he could not speak of. To the military clique which still finds place in Germany to-day, although its domination may be weakened. The average German, however, man and woman he considered pacific, entertaining no designs whatever, upon us, and simply seeking opportunity to earn a living and to enjoy home life. Politics and monied interests in the speaker's mind have made war, the horrors of which are reflected in the sufferings by those altogether innocent of belligerent intent.

Eloping Pastor Freed to Return To Nine Children

DAYTON, O., Oct. 2.—The Rev. W. W. Culp, former Spring Valley pastor, who eloped to a Michigan summer resort several months ago with a 19-year-old member of his congregation, deserting his wife and nine children, was freed from prison under bond and is en route to Napanee, Ind., to join his wife and nine children.

Freedom was secured after he had served in four penal institutions in Dayton and Xenia. While in the Dayton workhouse he cracked rocks and drove a garbage wagon.

The father of the girl with whom he eloped is said to have interceded in his behalf in securing his freedom.

WIFE CAN'T FIND HOME.

ELKHART, Ind., Oct. 2. — Mrs. W. W. Culp, residing at Nappance, issued an appeal for assistance in finding a home for herself and nine children. She said there was no house in the town that she could rent and she had no funds to buy a residence.

POPULAR PASTOR PASSES SUDDENLY

Rev. Dr. Byron Stauffer One of Canada's Best Known Preachers and Writers.

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—(Special.) — Rev. Dr. Byron Stauffer is dead.

The pastor of the City Temple, one of the best known preachers and writers in Canada, passed out at 2 o'clock this morning, the victim of a heart attack.

He was to have preached at the regular City Temple service in Massey Hall last night on "Northcliffe and Will Power," a sermon specially prepared for students, but at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon he was suddenly taken ill.

Steadily he grew weaker, and it was realized that he could not possibly take the service at Massey Hall. Then arrangements were made for Prof. McMillan, of Winnipeg, to take the sermon.

Death came to him with practically no pain. He was unconscious when the end came.

The last words that he said to his wife and sister and daughter, who were with him, were cheerful and optimistic.

He had spoken during the morning of feeling a little ill. He consulted a doctor and told him the symptoms. The doctor suggested that it might be angina.

Later as he lay on the sofa in the living room of the home at 1402 King street, Dr. Stauffer remarked that he had looked up the encyclopedia and he was sure it was not angina that was bothering him. Then he said: "But I want you girls to know, whatever happens, that I have a philosophy of life worked out, and I am perfectly happy and contented."

ROTARY HEAR ABOUT SUMMER CAMP PROGRAM

Dr. Cameron Tells the Club About the Activities of the Health Association.

BALL PLAYERS THERE

The members of the Peterboro Rotary Club at their luncheon today heard some very interesting information from Dr. G. S. Cameron in regard to the activities of the Peterboro Health Association in its summer camp for children, Jackson Park. Dr. Cameron whose public spirited work on behalf of the Health Association in which recognized covered the subject concisely and pointedly and the Rotarians followed his remarks with great interest.

President Crane occupied the chair and there was a ninety per cent. attendance of members. Among the guests were Stan Covaleskie and Leslie Nunamaker, famous battery of the Cleveland American League baseball club H. Miller of Cleveland and T. H. Hooper and Orville Moore of Peterboro.

It was announced that Rotarian R. A. Browne will succeed Rotarian J. McHardy as musical director. Rotarian Asa Huycke will continue as pianist.

Rotarian Dr. A. W. McPherson referred to the splendid victories won by the Peterboro Junior baseball clubs, calling attention to the feat performed by the Maple Leafs and Adanacs on Saturday and to the fact that the Canadian General team was still in the running. He suggested that the Rotary Club show its appreciation of the winning of the Midget championship by the Maple Leafs by inviting the youngsters to luncheon.

Dr. Cameron in begining pointed out that the work of the Health Association was divided into four departments, general nursing service, the care of the tuberculous poor, the summer camp at Jackson Park, and the care of crippled children. He intended to deal only with the activities of the summer camp. Although in connection with tuberculosis cases he wished to draw the attention of Rotarians to the fact that Peterboro was probably the only city in Ontario without a sanitarium for the care of such cases.

The services of the Kiwanis club in providing a dining room and of the boys of the public school manual training classes under Instructor Hope in building a rest bungalow were highly praised by the speaker. The Association now had a plant equal to the needs of the work for some time to come.

Dr. Cameron explained that the summer camp activities had brought the Association into touch with some 220 children. The camp was operated for nine weeks, three lots of children being maintained for three weeks. The Association kept a cook and an assistant to prepare meals for the youngsters and a qualified nurse was in charge. The children were collected each morning on motor buses, brought to the camp, where they were given breakfast and allowed to play until noon when dinner was served. An hour's rest was insisted upon afterwards and then bathing and play until 4.30 o'clock when the little ones were given supper and then taken to their homes. This routine was carried out every day, the children ranging in age from 6 to 14 years.

It was proposed during the autumn and winter to conduct a follow-up-campaign and every child who attended the summer camp would be visited by a member of the Association. Free milk would be provided when found necessary and if clothing were needed an effort would be made to supply them.

The question of food was a serious one as Dr. Cameron explained in conclusion that it cost approximately $1200 to operate the camp for nine weeks during the past summer.

The address was thoroughly appreciated by the Rotarians, many of whom were not familiar with the work being carried on.

RUSSIA SENDS NOTE.

MOSCOW, Oct. 2. — (Canadian Press.)— The Soviet government of Russia has sent a note to Britain, France and Italy insisting upon the removal of all restrictions to free passage of trading ships through the Straits. The note claims that Britain is showing indifference to the interests of Russia and other Black Sea States.

Grim Reaper Had Busy Month Here

The Grim Reaper took a soul every day during the month of September, just as he did last year. Thirty deaths during the month was the total in 1921 ad 1922. The stork was not quite so busy as last year for September of 1922 saw only 35 small new arrivals in the city, as compared with last year's September total of 50. Cupid also, was not quite so busy. This year's marriages totalled 24, as against last September's 32. Down in Ottawa, the clerk of the Carleton County Marriage License Bureau is lamenting that September is taking the palm from June in the matter of brides, and Peterboro is evidently following the same route. In June of this year, there were 21 brides led to the altar, while September had a total of 24.

Indecent Assault Case Enlarged — Two O. T. A. Delinquents.

A married man with a family of five children appeared in the police court this morning in answer to the serious charge of unlawfully and indecently assaulting a young married woman.

The complainant was too ill to appear in court to-day and the case was enlarged until Thursday next, the accused neither electing by whom to be tried or pleading one way or the other.

New Intoxicant (?)

Two O.T.A. delinquents told Magistrate O. A. Langley a remarkable story of the intoxicating effects of indulging in beef, iron and wine. His Worship extended sympathy to the extent of $10 and costs—$21 in all—for one man, and $25 and costs—$36.50 altogether—to the other. He also held out visions of jail for the next offence.

The War Clouds Lift as Turk Retires From Chanak Zone; To Meet British on Tuesday

DIFFICULTIES REMAIN

HOLD KEY POSITION

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—The Kemalists have evacuated Eren Keui, and the British now control the whole coast of the Narrows from Chanak to Kara Bournou. The latter point possesses an excellent key, enabling warships to anchor in deep water.

LONDON, Oct. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—With the virtual acceptance by Kemal Pasha of a conference at Mudania Tuesday, or as soon as possible thereafter, the whole Near Eastern situation is considered temporarily easier. However, the fact that Turkish troops are still concentrating in the Ismid zone, notwithstanding that they have retired slightly in the Chanak zone, would indicate, according to remarks made after the British cabinet's second meeting Sunday, that "Kemal is still playing a game."

Harrington Silent.

While the members of the cabinet appear to be much gratified at the happy conclusion for the moment of a difficulty which might have necessitated the use of forts in the Chanak zone, there are other bridges to cross. Up to the present there is no information from Gen. Harrington, the British commander at Constantinople, that Kemal will attend the Mudania conference, although General Harrington's despatches indicate that he might.

After several cabinet meetings Saturday, one of them running into one o'clock Sunday morning, information from the Near East was considered not altogether satisfactory and two additional meetings were held yesterday. It is possible that others will be held Monday, though Premier Lloyd George went to Chequers Court, his summer residence, late Sunday afternoon.

Allies Represented.

The Mudania meeting will be a purely military affair ,to arrange, according to the original allied note, to Kemal Pasha, that the neutral zone shall be respected, and also to agree upon lines behind which the Greeks are to withdraw in Thrace, both points pending the general peace conference. There will be present military representatives of the three allied powers, as well as of Greece and Turkey.

Turk Parade Suspended.

It is pointed out that the very basis of this conference is respect for the neutral zone ,and before it begins, the Turks will be expected to evacuate the Chanak area entirely. On this point there had been quibbling until the British cabinet permitted Gen. Harrington to send a virtual ultimatum to the Turks to clear out. Although the Turks have not yet withdrawn completely, they have evacuated the heights of Eren Keui, and have desisted also from parading before the British wire entanglements.

TEXT OF KEMAL'S REPLY

Orders the Cessation of Military Movements But Asserts Turkey's Rights to Thrace and Demands Its Restoration.

PARIS, October 2. — Canadian Press. — The text of Mustapha Kemal's reply to the allied joint note of September 23rd, was made public tonight by the Foreign Office.

The reply is dated September 29, and promises immediately to stop the military operations which have been developing toward Constantinople and Chanak, in pursuit of the Greek armies. It accepts the proposal for an armistice conference at Mudania next Tuesday with representatives of the entente, and nominated General Ismet Pasha to act for the Turks.

Dealing with Thrace the reply is worded by marked firmness. It credits the entente with sentiments of justice toward Turkey but demands that Thrace shall not be left one day longer under the Greek army, saying it is indispensable that Thrace shall be evacuated immediately and restored to the Angora government up to the west of the Maritza River, including Adrianople.

MAKE FORMAL REPLY.

The note, which is signed by Yussuf Kemal, Minister of Foreign Affairs, begins by saying that a formal reply to the ententes' note will be sent in a few days by his government.

"Confident in the assurances which M. Franklin Bouillon has given the commander in chief of the Turkish armies, in accord with the representatives of the entente powers meeting in Paris, and persuaded that negotiations will at once be proceeded with to establish a joint peace." the note continues "An order has been given to stop immediately our military movements which have been unceasingly developing in the direction of Constantinople and Chanak Kaleh in pursuit of the Greek armies.

WANTS GREEKS OUSTED.

"The assurances given by M. Franklin Bouillon have established the sentiments of justice with which the propositions of the entente are truly inspired, with a view to assuring the rights of Turkey. Nevertheless, as the maintenance of Thrace, if only for a day more, under the administration and occupation of the Greek army is a cause of danger of every kind and grief to Turkey's peoples, it is indispensable that Thrace to the west of the Maritza River, with Adrianople, be evacuated immediately and restored immediately to the government of the great national assembly of Turkey."

The reply, in conclusion, accepts Mundania for a conference on Oct. 3rd, and named Ismet Pasha, commander of the armies on the west front, as Turkish representative, and asks to be informed as to the name of the generals representing the entente powers.

MORE OPTIMISM IS WANTED NOW

Canadians Should Be Imbued With Determination Not to Be Discouraged.

MONTREAL, Oct. 2.— (Canadian Press.)—"What we want among our business men and among us all at this particular time is more optimism and less pessimism. "We are not going to fail in this country; and particularly the young people should be imbued with the determination not to be discouraged with present indications. We will not have light taxation; we do not look for it. The situation which we are in at the present time may be serious; I hope it may not develop into anything more than we have already. We should put our shoulders to the wheel in a manner worthy of our fathers and our grandfathers and steadfastly meet our obligations and the tasks set before us, discouraging though they may be, so that in the years to come Canada will be much the better for our having lived in it, and it will be said that we were worthy of the country in which we lived."

BRITISH CABINET IN LONG VIGILS

Intensively Studied the Turkish Situation Over Week-End.

LONDON, October 2. — Canadian Press. — The British Cabinet held a two hour council, beginning at 11 o'clock Saturday night, and then adjourned until 10 o'clock Sunday morning. This after many hours of intensive study of the situation throughout Saturday.

It was announced that there was no material change in the Near East situation but this was merely the official way of putting it.

Direct word has come from Constantinople in the Associated Press despatches, that M. Franklin Bouillon's mission to Smyrna has been successful, which means that Kemal Pasha is ready to consider a peaceful way out of the present difficulties.

Further announcement was made at Constantinople that Kemal would confer with the allied generals early in the week, and that Kemal has been requested by General Harrington, the British commander, to arrange for a new line between the British and the Turkish forces around Chanak, in the neutral zone.

A SHOOTING MATCH HAD FATAL RESULTS

WINDSOR, Oct. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—The body of William Fraser, aged 23, lies in the morgue here with a bullet through his heart, and Frank Bianchi, aged 39, an Italian, is held by the police on a charge of murder, Jack Lorimer, countryman of Fraser's, is in the Hotel Dieu with a bullet wound in his neck, caused, the police say, by Bianchi.

With Lorimer and two others, Fraser came across several Italians on the street, engaged in an attack, during which shots were fired and Fraser dropped to the ground dead with a bullet through his heart. Lyle Wogan, a young Windsor man, gave chase to the Italians and halted Bianchi in an alley with a bullet in his foot. The revolver, iidentified as belonging to Bianchi, was found near him.

CURZON RECEIVES PRAISE OF PRESS.

Commended For Tactful Handling of Near East Problem.

LONDON, Oct. 2. — (Canadian Press Cable.—Political writers in the Sunday papers, reviewing the events of the last week, generally make a point of Lord Curzon having enormously strengthened his position through his tactful handling of the Near East question at the recent conference in Paris.

The Sunday Express, Lord Beaverbrook's paper speaks of Curzon's attitude towards the "ridiculous" note sent to the Dominions to which he was emphatically opposed.

"If he could have prevented its despatch" says the Express, "we should, firstly, not have to make ourselves ridiculous before the world and should not now be confronted with the spectacle of Canada divided on political lines on this Imperial question."

Sides Caved In, Burying One Man Who Escaped Hurt—Bailieboro News.

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 2. — On Thursday, Sept. 28, an incident occurred at the gravel pit at Bewdley. For some time the men who are employed on the provincial highway have been drawing gravel from this pit ,and distributing it over the highway. When taking the gravel out from underneath the pit's surface the sides caved in while men were busily engaged in filling their waggons, and completely burying Robt. Hibbard, a laborer, who was helping to fill the loads. Fortunately this man escaped injury, but Braden Huggins had three ribs broken and his leg badly jammed by the falling gravel.

The noise of the falling stones and earth frightened a team of horses who, breaking loose from their driver, ran to Bewdley, where some of the men at the saw mill stopped and held them until their owner arrived.

RUSTLE OF PEACE REACHES OTTAWA

Anxiety Allayed By Latest Reports — Emergency Call Unlikely.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 2.— (Canadian Press.)—With the sudden relief of tension over the Near Eastern situation, following receipt of news of the arrangement of an armistice conference and the withdrawal of Turkish troops from the Chanak area, the likelihood of the Canadian Parliament being called in extraordinary session to deal with the question seems more remote. Up to noon Sunday information reaching the Government pointed to the situation becoming increasingly serious and an unconfirmed report reaching Ottawa that the British Parliament had been summoned hurriedly gave rise to renewed anxiety over the day's developments. Later news has allayed this anxiety to a very great extent.

There is a likelihood of Cabinet meeting to-day to discuss the new developments and decide what action, if any, will be necessary in the present situation. It is unlikely, however, that any steps will be taken pending the holding of the armistice conference, which, according to the despatches, is to open at Mudania to-morrow. Hope is expressed that this will lead to a peaceful settlement of the difficulties and that further action by the overseas dominions will be unnecessary.

GRAIN STOCKS LOWERED BY WEEK'S SHIPMENTS

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Oct. 2.— Heavy shipments of wheat and rye during last week have had the effect of lowering the stocks of grain at the head of the lakes by over five million Fifteen and a half million bushels was the total of all grains shipped, of which thirteen and a half were wheat and over a million rye, there being no movement eastward of flax. The stocks of all grains now in store are almost exactly equal in number of bushels to the quantity of wheat shipped during the week, and a million bushels to the quanity of bushels less than the total receipts of all grains for the same period. Following are the figures of stocks, receipts and shipments for the week:

France Ready For Conference and Is Anxious That Britain Endeavor to Placate Turkish Opinion.

PEACE PARLEY NEXT.

QUIET IN THRACE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.— Orders for a cessation of military movements in the Chanak region of Asiatic Turkey and for the suspension of the activities of the Turkish irregular forces in Thrace, have been issued by Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(Canadian Press.) —The general feeling in Paris last night was that the danger point in the Near East situation is past. The withdrawal of the Turks from Eren Keui and, as semi-officially reported, also from their positions at Chanak, is accepted as proof of the Angora governments readiness to comply with the allied desires.

It is explained here that there will be two confeernces at Mudania, the first between Gen. Harrington, the British commander, and Mustapha Kemal, or his representative ,alone. This is to settle the question regarding the neutral zone on the Asia Minor side of the Straits. The second will be quite a distinct conference and will draw up a provisional statute for Thrace, the allied and Turkish generals being present.

Credit to British.

Great Britain is given credit in French official quarters with having held a dignified and firm attitude, which has greatly contributed to the solution of the difficulty. At the same ttime, Mustapha Kemal is praised for havin gshown a conciliatory attitude, which, it is hoped, the British will not overlook, as the Kemalists will have evacuated the neutral zone first. French officials are anxious that Great Britain will find a means to satisfy Turkish public opinion.

The call for the conference has been accepted by France, and it is believed here that Great Britain and Italy, if they have not already done so, will reply favorably to the invitation to attend.

The proposed conference was arranged through the efforts of M. Franklin Bouillon, the French envoy, in agreement with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, who approved of the plan and appointed Ismet Pasha to represent the Turks.

Sure of Acceptance.

The acceptance of the invitation by Great Britain and Italy is considered so sure that it was said in official quarters here yesterday that Brig. Gen. Harrington will be the British

A New Charm

Came to millions in this way

Millions of people have gained new charm through whiter, prettier teeth. You see them everywhere. The reason lies in a new cleaning method. Careful people of some fifty nations are using it today.

Test this method if you do not know it. People all about you have proved its importance. See what it means to you.

Combats the film

One purpose is to combat film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. It absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. Then it forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Two ways found

To meet this situation, dental science searched for ways to fight film, and two ways were found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. These two great film combatants are embodied in it. Then dentists the world over began to advise its use.

Other factors

But Pepsodent brings other effects which old ways did not bring. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus it gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting agents. And everywhere this means to people a new dental era.

Watch the man

Men who smoke find that tobacco particularly stains that film. Such men see conspicuous results. But most people's teeth, of every age, are clouded more or less.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

That test will give you new ideas of what clean teeth mean. You will want your family to always have them, we believe. Cut out the coupon now.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 2ND, 1922.

WAR CLOUDS PASSING.

Following a week-end of tense anxiety over the Near East situation, the news to-day is of a reassuring nature—so reassuring indeed that it seems certain that hostilities have been definitely postponed, if not averted altogther. The announcefent that the Turks are retiring from the neutral zone and are ready to wait for the result of the peace conference comes as a pleasant surprise, for all indications on Saturday were that the Kemalists seemed determined to force war upon Great Britain. War has been very close during the past few days, closer by far than the majority of people seemed to realize, and had the storm broken it might easily have assumed alarming proportions. For Britain it has been a situation fraught with great anxiety, and to General Harington the decision of the Turks to retire must come as a relief from a terrible responsibility.

"THE LIGHT THAT FAILS."

Peterborough's street lighting system is to be taken under review in the hope that by trimming trees here and there and altering the position of some of the lights that an improvement can be affected.

It is difficult to imagine any change that would not be an improvement.

So far as our street lights are concerned, the name "Electric City" is a misnomer. On the whole, Peterborough's lighting system would be a disgrace to a small town.

Coming in to the city at night the few sickly looking incandescent lamps that greet the traveller's eye as the outskirts are reached leave anything but an impression of modernness or progress.

The much-vaunted magnetite lights of the business section have seen their glory long since departed.

We are paying handsomely for our city illumination; it is high time we had a system that would really light our streets.

A HUNDRED YEARS FROM NOW.

A hundred years from now people will read about their ancestors of 1922 selling paper tags on the street to secure funds to look after neglected children, and they will wonder what kind of folks there were in the world at that time.

They will read of the struggle for financial support that had to be carried on by those in charge of such work as that of the Well Babies' Clinic and the Health Association, and they will marvel at how civilization has progressed in a hundred years.

The education of expectant mothers, the providing of a fair chance to children to be born right and to develop, under favorable conditions, the care of neglected children, the prevention of disease and the treatment of the ill, all social welfare and child welfare work will surely long before a century has passed be regarded as business belonging to the State.

We in Canada have got to that stage now so far as the health of our live stock is concerned.

Governments spend vast sums to protect our swine and horses and cattle.

It is not too much to expect that the day will come when the State will put at least as much value upon a baby as upon a prize hog.

TRUTH TO IMMIGRANTS.

It is satisfactory to see it being insisted upon more and more that British immigrants should be told as clearly as possible the conditions which they will find in Canada, says the Kingston Standard. Thus Lieutenant-Colonel Cecil G. Williams demands this. He claims that the intending immigrant is fascinated with glowing posters of the Golden West and beautiful farms, which largely determines their footsteps. They are given no explanation of conditions. The people in England are familiar with the blowing of the whistle for starting work and again leaving off when the whistle blows in the evening; but, says the Colonel, on Canadian farms work is started at 5.30 a.m. and continues on till late at night, and also on Sundays, without any explanation and the immigrant thinks he is being exploited.

Mr. W. C. Noxon, the Agent-General for Ontario, has been talking of Empire settlement, and analyzed some of the reasons why people emigrate, and what prevents British people from coming to Canada. One reason for this, he says, is the climate, which is considered to be so much colder than that of the Old Land. He urges they should be told the truth about all conditions. We do not intend to say anything about prohibition, but Mr. Noxon did, and this is what he said: "People also told me that they do not wish to come to the 'Dry Belt,' and when I have said that there was no 'Dry Belt' in Ontario, they have replied that they meant prohibition. I have no opinion to offer on the subject," continued Mr. Noxon, "but there is nobody who resents infringement of personal liberty so much as the Englishman, and I have great difficulty in explaining to him that it is to his own advantage to live in a country where he cannot buy liquor." Mr. Noxon summed up his message by saying that what was needed was co-operation and cohesive effort between the Ontario Government and the British Parliament in the provision of facilities for bringing people here and establishing them when they arrived and that we believe to be absolutely true.

THE DUTY OF THE WEEK.

Fire Prevention Week commences to-day, and the Examiner hopes that the people of this city will enter into the spirit of the occasion and endeavor to make this week mean a cleaner and safer city. The desired results can only be arrived at if a sense of individual responsibility is developed.

Fire Prevention Week is not for somebody else, it is for you.

If you are a householder you should take a look around your premises during the next day or two. The existence of fire hazards is probably something about which you have never bothered your head and you will be surprised at what you find. Fire-breeding and germ-breeding rubbish accumulates quickly around the ordinary house; rubbish of no value whatever is hoarded when it should long ago have gone to the dump heap.

Every family in Peterborough should consider it the duty of the hour to see that all such dangerous accumulations are removed during the present week, and should remember, among other things, the following fire prevention "Don'ts" which, if observed faithfully, will help Peterborough to materially reduce the annual fire loss:

Don't allow children to play with matches.

Don't go into dark closets, bedrooms, or cellars, using matches or candles to light your way.

Don't use coal oil, benzine or naphtha in lighting fires, or to quicken a slow fire—it may result in death.

Don't use gasoline or benzine to clean clothing near an open flame, light, or fire.

Don't use alcohol lamps, especially if made of glass; they often break and the fluid is ignited at once.

Don't fill any lamp with gasoline or coal oil while the lamp is lighted. Keep the burners of all oil lamps thoroughly clean.

Don't fill oil lamps after dark or within fifteen feet of lights or fire.

THE NECESSITY OF INDUSTRIAL PEACE.

The recent strikes in the United States and Canada have emphasized very strongly the folly of industrial strife. Peace in industry is a condition requisite to all prosperity. Industrial strife means a loss to all, no matter how small the number of persons directly affected and no matter how unimportant the enterprise involved. Not only the welfare of the wage-earner, but the welfare of the employer and the welfare of the whole people is touched, when men quit work in a controversy with those who employ them. The workers lose in wages, the employers in profits, and the whole nation in the service to which it is entitled from the industry.

In both Canada and the United States progress has been made towards the peaceful settlement of industrial disputes, but it is admitted that the existing measures fall short especially in dealing with strikes that concern public utilities. In Canada the Lemieux Industrial Disputes Act compels an investigation, if demanded by one of the parties to the dispute, before a strike can take place. The intention is that publicity will remedy any injustice through the force of public opinion when the facts are disclosed. This measure has resulted in the settlement of the majority of industrial disputes in Canada, but it is by no means broad enough in its scope to satisfy the needs of industrial peace in all cases.

In the United States the Department of Labor in its task of safeguarding the welfare of the wage earner, and in its duty to the whole country, works through the Board of Conciliation, directed by the Secretary of Labor, to preserve peace in industry. Authority for this work is derived from the act creating the department, which provides that "the Secretary of Labor shall have power to act as mediator and to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes, whenever in his judgment the interests of industrial peace may require this to be done." This service has worked so well that, whereas when it first began its work 70 per cent. of the disputes had reached the strike stage, now only 30 per cent. of the cases brought before it have reached this advanced state.

Industry bears a close relationship to every individual in the country. It is so closely woven into the fabric of everyday life that anything that interferes with the normal course of industry seriously interferes with the welfare of all the people. The public in every instance is more or less of a party in interest to every industrial dispute. The purpose of the Conciliation Service is to encourage a full measure of production, preserve the welfare of the wage-earner, and treat the employer fairly. Contented and satisfied workers mean efficiency in industry and ensure better returns to both capital and labor. Capital is entitled to a just return on its investment and labor is entitled to a just return for its work. Both, if they secure these returns, go hand in hand to increase the wealth of the world by production and to ensure greater comfort to the whole people. Hence every advance toward the peaceful and just settlement of industrial disputes is a national gain, and every improvement in the means of conciliation is a national asset.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The keynote of Fire Prevention Week is that the best time to fight a fire is before it starts.

The people of Peterborough on Saturday demonstrated their faith in the Children's Aid Society. The response must have been gratifying to the officers of the Society.

Another trouble about automobile speeders is that there is no closed season for pedestrians. They are fair game the year round.

Indirectly Peterborough is to benefit after all from the Provincial ploughing matches. The overflow that cannot be accommodated in Lindsay will come to this city.

The family bucksaw, nearly forgotten in recent years, threatens to come into its own again this autumn.

The Star and the Mail and Empire might refer their argument as to what Mr. Meighen really said in a recent speech to the ex-Premier himself. Readers of both papers would be glad to have the controversy ended.

Beating two Toronto baseball teams in one day should provide Peterborough enthusiasts with considerable solace for a recent unpleasant incident at Oshawa.

A HAYRACK RIDE ST. PAUL'S CHOIR

(Contributed.)

Friday night the choir of St. Paul's church was entertained to a hayrack ride and weiner roast at the summer residence of Mrs. R. W. Davidson at Chemong.

The hay waggon arrived at few minutes after the arrival of the party and it was a lively load of over thirty who started off on apparently four sound wheels.

When the ride was about half over, one of the wheels of the waggon became weary and sat down to rest and is likely resting yet. Result: Some had to walk back, others commandered passing automobiles. But all re turned merry and bright. Some remarked strongly on the contrast between the comforts of a hay waggon and an automobile.

All then sat round a bonfire, which had been prepared, and indulged in song and story, in which Messrs. Garden and Clarke, both from Glasgow, and specialists in comedy and song, put on a unique entertainment, in which the kilts were specially glorified.

The weiner roast was then partaken of with a zest which showed the utmost appreciation of the viands.

A pleasing incident of the occasion was the fact that it being the birthday of two of the male members of the choir the hostess, with her usual forethought, had provided a birthday cake for each.

It is said that the illumination of one of the cakes was so great that it almost eclipsed the light of the bonfire.

From the time of arrival till midnight every moment was filled with pleasurable enjoyment, and the desire for an encore was clearly written on every face.

THE DIRIGIBLES OF THE FUTURE.

Will Range From Vest Pocket Type to Mammoth.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., October 2.—One-third of the population of the United States will be flying in dirigibles in the near future according to a prediction of A. Leo Stevens, chief instructor of aeronautics for the United States Army at Scott Field, near here.

Mr. Stevens in 1902 made the first dirigible flight in this country.

The dirigibles, Mr. Stevens said, will range in size from the small "vest pocket" type to mammoth machines carrying from 10 to 20 motors.

"The dirigibles of the future will have pontoons," he asserted, "and the water will be helpful for landing-places. The machines of the future will carry from 10 to 20 motors. The compartments in the large airships will be equipped with safety berths. The touching of a button by the commander will cause every passenger to descend to earth at the same time. Each berth will have all necessary equipment for landing and boating its passengers to safety.

"The army of the future will travel through the air, and it will be nothing to see a thousand or more men transported at one time in one machine. I believe it is only a matter of a short time when one-third of the population of this country will be flying all sorts of aerial contrivances, and we will have a 'vest pocket' size dirigible for those who don't care to own a large craft."

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

"A risk Me? With the case in the hands of David Clew; with my reputation abroad—" Clews jumped to his feet and began pacing up and down, endangering several of Miss Sutton's most obtrusive ornaments.

"Please " Violet waved her hands, distressed. "Please don't get excited over it. He—Robert didn't mean anything personal. He—he had only just heard of you through Aunt Julia and myself."

Mollified, the detective resumed his seat. "Now, Miss Bronson, I am to understand that I have full rein; that all the guards have been sent away?" He coughed in his handkerchief. "That is right, Miss Bronson?"

She nodded.

"And as for terms—"

She stopped him. "Render your bill and Aunt Julia or myself will pay it, whatever the amount." She sighed. "Thank heavens those other detectives are gone," she exclaimed. "For nearly a month, now, Mr. Clews, I haven't had a bit of peace. Day and night these has been a man in front and another in back and two asleep upstairs or down flirting with Thelma, until poor Aunt Julia is nearly crazy. Every time I wanted to go out to shop, or anything, I would have to take a man with me. It——"

"That all will be changed," Clews assured her. "I only wish Mr. Dupont had listened to your aunt and given me the case before that poor medium was killed, and the man from the agency. I—I could have saved you the terrible night out in the lot, Miss Bronson; and, too, you would have escaped the experience which came from drinking the hypnotic water——"

"You have known Aunt Julia that long?" interrupted Violet.

"Indeed, I met her at Mrs. Denner-Dudley's tea about two days after you came to live with her. She spoke about the case then."

Thelma, appearing in the doorway, coughed; a cough cultivated after a laborious reading of a number of American paper-backed novels.

"There's a peddler out here, Miss Violet," she began. "He——"

As she spoke the man pushed in. He had the appearance of a Russian Jew of the better class. His clothes, reasonably clean, were tight fitting, and his hair, unkept, trailed his collar. He wore glasses with huge lenses, and his glance, narrowing to a squint, accentuated a peculiar aggressiveness often developed by his race in New York's teeming East Side.

"Excuse me, lady," he spluttered, with a tongue seemingly more used to the gutturals of Yiddish than the hissing sibilants of English. "I show you—"

Without waiting for encouragment or even recognition from Violet, he opened up a battered suit case, revealing rows of little boxes labelled "Domes of Silence." Glancing about jerkily, handicapped his his poor sight, he picked upon a chair with fine spindle legs, one of Miss Sutton's choice antiques. Upturning this, and producing a little shoemaker's hammer from his bag, he affixed four of the domes, one upon the bottom of each leg. It gave a smooth metal, rounded, sliding surface.

"See " he exclaimed, with a very Jewish gesture. "You push it so, and the carpe —" An expressive shrug told more completely than words of the wear and tear saved the Oriental fabric beneath. It was a very persuasive shrug.

Violet laughed. "You don't know my Aunt Julia," she remarked. "If she saw those knobs on the bottom of that particular chair—whew "

"You should attempt to sell them first to Mrs. Denner-Dudley," suggested Clews, with a side glance for approval at Violet.

At that moment, Miss Sutton, coming down the stairs to greet Clews on her way to some social affair, entered in time to see the peddler with the chair, again upturned, in his grasp, for purposes of demonstration, and with his sprawling suit case, open behind him, shedding its decaying near-leather upon her rug. Flaring up immediately, waiting neither for second thought nor explanation, she rushed for him in complete forgetfulness of her dignity and social position. While Violet and Clews watched the scene in delight, she jerked the "Domes of Silence" from their places upon her property, then marched the protesting man to the door and shoved him out bodily. Thelma, at her direction, cast the suit case and loose knobs out into the porch after him, slamming the door. Aunt Julia, calming down, thereupon turned to the other two somewhat apologetically.

"I will be at the reception until about five; that's an hour and a half. Then I'll return for you, Violet, if you'll be dressed—"

The girl nodded.

"She'll be perfectly safe, Miss Sutton," Clews interjected. He coughed in his handkerchief again. "By the way," he asked, "will there be anyone in the house besides Thelma?"

Aunt Julia drew herself up. "No, Mr. Clews. I'm very quiet and old-fashioned and I try to get along with one servant."

When they were alone, the detective turned to Violet. "Would you show me the telephone, Miss Bronson?" At the instrument he seemed abstracted; then he glanced at her again. "I wonder if I could ask something else of you?"

She smiled. "Of course "

DELEGATES WERE GUESTS LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

TORONTO, Oct. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—Delegates to the Methodist Conference took charge of a number of Toronto pulpits yesterday. Various committees were in session on Saturday, threshin gout in detail a mass of matters. There are about four hundred memorials which have to be handled and many of them are more or less duplications of each other, so the process is tedious.

Saturday afternoon the delegates were guests of Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt and Mrs. Cockshutt at Government House.

The Royal is easy to use—weighs only 11 pounds. Made to last a lifetime. Practically trouble-proof.

The worst dirt is in your rug—not on it.

The jar-of-water laboratory test shows that a large part of the dirt is embedded in the rug. (It sinks because heavier—the surface litter floats.)

This embedded dirt is full of sharp grit that cuts and ruins your rugs. And it is the unsanitary dirt—the worst kind of dirt.

Let our Royal Man clean a rug for you in your home—free, and show you how the Royal gets the embedded dirt—the worst dirt.

PEACE MEETING OCT. 15.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—The armistice proposal sent to the allies by Mustapha Kemal Pasha through M. Franklin Bouillon provides that the British and Turkish forces shall temporarily hold their present positions, without any further movement, until the armistice conference called at Mudania on Tuesday settles the question, says a Havas despatch from Constantinople.

The desptach adds that a peace conference, if all goes well, at Mudania, should be held about October 15, according to the belief prevalent in Turkish quarters. In the meantime, it is felt that the Mudania meeting, if it is finally approved of by Great Britain and Italy, will relieve the tension. In view of Gen. Harrington's efforts to preserve the peace, and in consequence of the approval of the conference by the French and the Turks, there is little doubt in Constantinople that the meeting will take place as planned.

M. Franklin Bouillon, who has been conferring with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, is expected to arrive in Constantinople shortly and to inform the allied high commanders fully of the Turkish views on the situation.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed With Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural colour and looks glossy, soft and beautful.

Having a two-dollar bill may be bad luck; but not having one is often worse than that.

CLOTHESLINE THIEVES ANNOY RESIDENTS OF CAMPBELLFORD

An Extra Night Watchman Has Been Placed on the Job—News of Interest From Campbellford—Personals.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 2.—The mysterious disappearance of ladies' clothing and garments from clothes lines in the rear gardens of residents in Ward 3 is causing considerable annoyance to the householders.

Two residents complain of having clothes stolen from the lines, and assume that the offender is a woman, as only women's apparel is taken. That the offender is somewhat particular is evidenced by the fact that only the best garments are taken. Chief Duncalfe is working on the case, and an extra night watchman has been added to the force to prevent a further occurrence.

Mrs. Fred Bailey.

There passed away on Saturday afternoon after a week's illness, Mrs. Fred Bailey ,aged 72 years. The late Mrs. Bailey lived for many years at Norham, where her husband predeceased her fifteen years ago. The deceased came to reside in town, where she had many friends, some years ago, and her death, which occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Anderson, Canrobert street, was a distinct shock to her many relatives and friends. The late Mrs. Bailey, who was a woman of loving, kindly disposition, ever willing to assist those in need, leaves behind a Christian example and influence, which will not soon be forgotten. She was a faithful member of the Methodist church and has now joined the loved one gone on before. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Levi Jewell, Dartford, and Mrs. J. A. Anderson of town, also one brother in Toronto.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place this afternoon, conducted by Rev. C. F. McIntosh, assisted by Rev. Mr. Cafley, Norham, and the remains were laid to rest in the family plot, Norham.

Baptist Church Anniversary Services.

The anniversary services held on Sunday in the Baptist church were a grand success. After a most successful week of rallies the large congregations entered thoroughly into the spirit of the services, which were most helpful. Rev. T. J. Rich, of Norwood, gave two excellent addresses, which were an inspiration to all. The choir rendered most appropriate musical numbers assisted by Miss Niven of Virgil. The pastor, Rev. H. S. Bennett and congregation, feel much gratified over the services of the day, a baptismal service being performed at the evening service.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Women's Institute Held Initial Fall Meeting—Personal Mention.

MILLBROOK, October 2.—The Women's Institute held their re-opening meeting at the home of Mrs. Stewart Fallis, Fallis Line, on Thursday evening, Sept. 28th, the members going out by motor. In the unavoidable absence of the president, Miss Fisher, the vice-president, Mrs. Harry Armstrong, occupied the chair. The meeting opened with the singing of "The Maple Leaf," after which Mrs. F. Smith read the minutes and called the roll, those present being requested to respond to their names by giving a recipe, preferably for some kind of pickles, this being the season when such would be most appreciated. Some discussion re the appointment of a new president, as Miss Fisher expects to be absent all winter, and so cannot fulfill the duties of the position, took place, also the need of electing another secretary, Mrs. Rowland declining to accept the office. The matter was left over, however, until a later date for final settlement. On motion it was decided to ask Mr. W. S. Given to address the Institute at their next meeting regarding the forming a branch of the Horticultural Society here in connection with the Women's Institute. Miss Grandy explained that it had been arranged at a previous meeting to hold a sale of home-made baking early in October for the purpose of raising funds to purchase bulbs this fall, and suggested that Saturday, October 14th, would be a suitable date. On motion, this was carried. A letter from the secretary of Queen Mary's Hospital for Consumptive Children was read, requesting the Institute to sell white roses on Fair day, the funds to go toward this worthy cause. Moved by Mrs. McBride, seconded by Mrs. Richards, that the request be complied with. Carried. It was decided to order 500 roses, and the following were appointed a committee to look after the matter: Mrs. C. W. Richards, Mrs. L. Morton, Mrs. H. Armstrong, Miss Theo. McBride.

Some useful information was brought out during the discussion which followed the reading of topics written on slips of paper and distributed to several of those present, each being requested to make some comment on the same which would open the subject so others might follow it up with their experience, or opinion. During the social hour, Mrs. Fallis served refreshments, and afterwards a contest was heartily entered into, the winners being Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Rowland, for first prize, and Mrs. Lowery and Miss Stewart for the consolation. A vote of thanks to the hostess for so hospitably entertaining the Institute was moved by Miss White and seconded by Mrs. Vance, all present signifying their approval by a hearty clap of the hands and singing "For she's a jolly good fellow." Mrs. Fallis replied briefly, expressing her own pleasure in the gathering, and shortly afterwards the guests left for home. Those present were: Mrs. O. Williamson, Mrs. H. Dawson, Mrs. W. Larmer, Mrs. (Dr.) Mitchell, Dr. Wallace, Mrs. J. A. Vance, Mrs. A. J. Henderson, Mrs. McBride, Mrs. Dawe, Mrs. Lowery, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. C. R. Spencer, Mrs. W. G. Rowland, Mrs. A. J. Fallis, Mrs. W. There was a good attendance of members present, and several items of business received attention, including arrangements for carrying on the Dorcas work during the winter, the choice of a study book to be taken up, and the date when Rev. Dr. Haslam, of India, could be secured to address the Auxiliary, and also having Mrs. Daniels, of Toronto, to speak some time in October. After the usual closing exercises, Mrs. Allen served refreshments, and an enjoyable social hour was spent.

Finlay, president of the Alberta Conference, who is here to attend the General Conference now in session at Toronto, was also present and took some part, and the pastor, Rev. R. M. Paterson, was able to be with his own congregation that Sunday. The supper was a decided success from the standpoint of attendance, excellence of the "eats" provided, and the programme given. The local talent assisting with the latter included solos by Miss M. Southam and Miss Marie McBain, of Fairmount, also by Rev. R. M. Paterson; also addresses by some of the resident clergy. An elocutionist from Peterborough gave several numbers during the evening, and the Bensfort orchestra was much enjoyed.

SHARP DEBATE TURK ISSUES

Methodist Conference Gave Resolution the Right-of-Way--Conference News.

TORONTO, Oct. 2. — (Canadian Press).—The Methodist General Conference launched into a vigorous debate this forenoon on the part Canada was to play should Britain go to war with the Turks. It was interjected into the proceedings when a delegate insisted that owing to the Near East situation being critical, the report of the committee named to draft the resolution would have the right of way to present it at once. A resolution expressing the wish that an honorable solution of the question arrived at and devotion to the British Empire concluded as follows: "If in spite of every honorable effort to discover a peaceful solution, this result cannot be obtained, we beg to assure the British, Canadian and Newfoundland and Bermudas Governments that the Methodist people of the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland and Bermudas, as in the late war, will be prepared to make any sacrifice in the interests of liberty and justice."

Church Union.

At the opening of to-day's session, arrangement was made to have the meeting of the Church Union Committee held this afternoon instead of to-morrow, in order to get advice from lawyers who were engaged in drafting a bill, which it is proposed to submit to the Federal Parliament to meet the legal requirements if Church union is consummated. "While the Methodist people in Canada and Newfoundland have given for all purposes the vast amount of $11,000,000 in one year," said Rev. S. W. Dean, reporting for the Finance Board, "yet as nearly as we can estimate the tithe of the Methodist population would have been no less than thirty-five million."

He explained that the chief object of the Board is to develop a stewardship campaign which is to impress upon the people of the Church that all they possess is held for God's use and therefore they should give at least one-tenth of it to His work. Mr. Lane explained that vigorous efforts organized by the branch through the medium of Church publications and leaflets to impress upon Church members the claims of the Church, the branch has helped many circuits by loans during the past quadrennium. It greatly helped congregations and encouraged them to undertake the erection of parsonsages and other church buildings when they knew they could get a loan from the board at a low rate of interest. There are still 300 circuits without parsonages. The branch undertook fire insurance, and was able to show a profit of $4,000 in the first three years it has been in operation, after paying out losses of $16,311. The total risk carried is about six million. He said the board, in addition, worked with fire insurance companies, who as a rule were ready to take risks on Methodist parsonages and churches under any conditions.

MAY RESURRECT RED ARROW DEAL

John Stockdale Was in the City and Discussed a New Method of Financing Company.

A new chapter in the history of the Red Arrow Tire Company is about to be written by the presence in the city of John Stockdale, who was connected with the original plan to finance the company. Mr. Stockdale had a conference with J. E. Hayes, contractor for the Red Arrow plant here, and G. N. Gordon, K.C., at which plans for financing the defunct company were discussed. Mr. Stockdale plans to link the dealers up in such a way as to ensure a ready market for the products once the company starts to operate. By getting two hundred dealers to invest five hundred dollars each in the project, a sum representing one hundred thousand dollars would be secured. Mr. Stockdale has already secured one hundred and nineteen dealers east of Montreal, but the money will not be called in until the entire two hundred dealers have been secured. With this one hundred thousand dollars in hand, Mr. Stockdale will assume the task of putting the Sherbrooke plant on an operating basis and will then proceed to secure two hundred dealers west of Montreal with which to start the Peterborough plant. In return the dealers get the tires at cost, plus ten per cent., until they have covered their investment when the percentage of profit to the Red Arrow Tire Company is raised to fifteen per cent.

Mr. Stockdale is expected in the city again on Tuesday, when negotiations will be resumed.

YOUR FALL SUIT

The thing to do now is to have two skirts to your suit. Designers of women's garments have adopted the idea from men's two-trouser suits and it is proving especially popular with business women.

It's always the skirt to a dress that wears out first and the skirt that needs pressing oftenest.

A few of the largest and most progressive stores have taken up the two-skirt idea, however, and are showing suits of exceptional tailored attractiveness. Until the fashion becomes general one can, doubtless, make one's own.

WEDDING BELLS

WILSON—EDWARDS.

(Contributed.)

Lang, Ont., was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 12 o'clock noon, September 23rd, when Fannie Isabell Edwards, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, became the bride of Mr. John Russell Wilson, only child of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson of Bonarlaw, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Mr. Richard Irving, of Toronto, Ont. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march being played by Mr. John Wilson Russell, of Buffalo, N.Y., uncle of the groom and took her place at the side of the groom under a beautifully arranged arch of flowers.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white ivory satin, with white georgette and irridescent trimmings. Her embroidered veil was held in place by sprays of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of larkspur and Ophelia roses. She was attended by Miss Roberta Esson who was daintily gowned in rose satin and carried a bouquet of pink asters. Mr. Henry Edwards, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Mrs. Edwards, mother of the bride, wore a handsome gown of black duchess satin with fringed trimmed panels, and wore pink roses. Mrs. Wilson, mother of the groom, was gowned in blue tricolette, heavily embroidered.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulatinos were over, the bridal party and guests enjoyed a very sumptuous wedding breakfast. The bride's table was artistically decorated with flowers, the wedding cake taking the place of honour underneath the beautiful decorations presenting a picturesque scene not soon to be forgotten. An extremely befitting toast was proposed by Mr. Stanley S. Russell, St. Albans, Vt., uncle of the groom, being very appropriate to the occasion. The happy couple left by C.P.R. train for Toronto, Niagara Falls, Buffalo and other places amid showers of confetti and good wishes. The bride's going-away gown was a navy blue duchess satin, trimmed with radium lace with hat to match. The gifts of money, cut glass, silver, china and linen were beautiful and costly, and attested the high esteem in which the young couple are held. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a brooch set with pearls, to the groomsman and organist engraved cuff links; to the bride a beautiful seal skin coat. May happiness and prosperity follow them on their matrimonial journey through life.

STINNES IS NORTHCLIFFE OF GERMANY

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—In London clubs they love to tell the story of the man who boasted he read lots of newspapers so he could have all kinds and shades of opinion before making up his mind on public questions. Asked what papers he read, he replied: "On weekdays I read the solid Times and the sprightly Daily Mail and the hustling Evening News in the afternoon. On Sundays I read the breezy Despatch."

He was amazed when his friends greeted his statement with shouts of laughter. One of them enlightened him by explaining that all those papers belonged to Lord Northcliffe and expressed his policies.

There are many who say that Hugo Stinnes, Germany's business king, is the German Northcliffe, only more so. They will tell you the time is rapidly approaching when it will be difficult to know whether one is reading an independent opinion or a Stinnes opinion.

Controls Newspapers

People ordinarily well-informed variously estimate Stinnes owns 12 papers, 40 papers, even 120 papers in Germany and still others in Austria. They bewail the growing loss of free newspapers comment in Germany.

Labor leaders tell me Germany, since 1870, has always in this regard been worse off than almost any big nation in the world.

Bismarck had his press which told the public what he wanted it to believe and fought the causes and statesmen Bismarck hated or feared. With the tremendous expansion of Germany as a business nation, labor leaders make the flat assertion that coal, iron and steel interests openly or secretly secured control of many of the big influential newspapers of Germany. Their object was to support political parties and leaders who would give them the kind of laws and tariffs best suited to their interests.

People who know Stinnes well tell me the ability to mold public opinion through ownership of newspapers was probably only a secondary thought with him. For Stinnes, business is always business. He is a practical man. He came into the publishing game first of all because he owns coal mines. The bridge from coal mines to newspapers is made of wood.

In his coal mines Stinnes needed great quantities of wood for shoring up seams and for many other kinds of construction in the pits. To assure himself a steady, ample supply of cheap wood, he bought great forest tracts in East Prussia and Finland. Then his restless brain got busy again. He had the timber and he had the coal. Why not ship the coal to where the timber stood and manufacture valuable wood products—celulose, paper pulp and paper?

So one fine day Germany learned that loads of Stinnes coal were going across Germany to East Prussia, where, in Stinnes mills, trees were converted into Stinnes paper and pulp. Later he bought a big concern in Koenigsburg and another in North Germany. In his own neighborhood of Westphalia there was a mill which manufactured fine note paper, so he bought that, too.

Buys Three Berlin Papers

Then it struck Stinnes it would be a grand idea to manufacture Stinnes paper into Stinnes newspapers. So in quick succession he bought three Berlin journals. His first investment was the "Industrie and Handleszeitung," which as its name indicates, is a business paper. It was the best in Germany and so an important acquisition for a business king. His next purchase was the smaller "Deutsche Warte."

His third acquisition was the most significant of all. He bought the "Deutsche Aellgmeine Zeitung," the paper which in the old days of the monarchy was the semi-official organ of the government. What it said represented what the rulers wanted known. Its readers are still very largely the once-upon-a-time official classes who are true to the royalist cause and hope for an ultimate restoration of the Hohenzollerns.

gium yet in evidence as beyond description; the speaker gave a verbal picture of a land as he saw it, over flowing with the blood-red poppies of France; colorful reminders of the horrors of 1914-18, but thrilling to the cheery song of happy meadow larks, who conveyed to him the impression of God's humble messengers assuring us that life is better than it looks and that there is no cause that ever for the pessimism which sometimes overtakes us.

In the Holp Land

Mr. Grobb only spent nine days in the Holy Land, which however, is small in area and one can see all that is practically of importance, in that time. He had followed the Master's footsteps in many highways and byways and he had heard the rumblings of that unrest between Jews and Arabs over the Zionist movement, to which England is committed —the return of the Jews to Palestine, the development of that country with Jewish capital. The Jews in Palestine he said, are only 80,000 strong and the Arabs who claim the country as their own, while numbering 600,000; fear that eventually the Zionist project will result in Jewish Capital gripping them by the throat. This has resulted in a loss of British prestige with the Arabs, which however, he thought will find revival in the wonderful transformation in Jerusalem and throughout the land under Britain's mandate; and he believed the time is coming when Palestine will bloom again in all its old pristine beauty.

Glad To Be Home

In conclusion, the reverend gentleman declared he was glad to be back in Canada again. Here, he said, we have the finest land on God's earth. One does not appreciate that truth until after travelling in other lands. Europe to-day looks like a man sick and ready to die. But not England. Oh, no! the Mother Country is not sick and ready to die. On the contrary, her people are full of optimism and trade is picking up. As for Canada, coming back from Europe seems like returning to Paradise and all Canadians ought to unstintingly appreciate this wonderful country of ours and its abundant blessings we are privileged to enjoy.

GLAD TO BE ABLE TO WORK

Toronto Woman Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario. — "I suffered with irregular periods, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging-down pains, so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy, and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of medicines and had been treated by physicians but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. If these facts will help some poor woman, use them as you please."—Mrs. J. F. Peaset, 337 King St., West Toronto, Ontario.

Various forms of female weakness many times make work almost impossible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of women.

Embarrassing Hairs Can Be Quickly Removed

(Beauty Culture.)

Hairs can be easily banished from the under-arms, neck and face by this quick, painless method: Mix into a stiff paste some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Excepting in very stubborn growths, one application is sufficient. To avoid disappointment, buy the delatone in an original package and mix fresh.

DOUBT ABRAMS

Hints at Charlatan.

"Now when you talk of diagnosing disease and telling a man's nationality and where he lives by a drop of blood it sounds to me like tommy-rot. And when a doctor talks of electrons and radio-activity and such things he leads me to believe he is trying to impress and mystify the public. The medical profession ought to come out from behind its cloak of mystery and show the public what it can do. But we stand on the chin-chopper thing we call ethics and leave the public in ignorance of what we are doing. Abrams' verbiage to me seems designed to appeal to the love of the mysterious. It has an atmosphere of charlatanism about it.

"Instead of renting his machine and forbidding people to look inside it wouldn't it be better for Abrams to lay his cards on the table before the world Wouldn't it be better for him to go to the Rockefeller Institute and say: 'Here I am at your disposal. Let's have a demonstration of this thing safeguarded from fake, so the world may get the benefit of my knowledge.' If he can do one-quarter of the things he says he can do, if he can cure cancer, for instance, he doesn't need to rent any machinery; he can go down in history as the greatest man the world has known, after Christ."

An "oscillophone" is used for diagnosing. The main part looks very much like a rheostat. A little box is attached by wires to one side, and at the other side is an electrade. The paper containing the blood is placed in the box, and a young man holds the electrode against his forehead. The young man is really part of the machinery, for by tapping on certain regions of his abdomen, Dr. Abrams says he reaches his conclusions about the person from whom the blood was taken. With the machine, the blood is tested for the various diseases, and the presence of disease is indicated by a "dullness" when the proper region of the young man's abdomen is tapped. The young man is used because Dr. Abrams says he has been unable to develop any instrument which will register changes in "electronic influence" as satisfactorily as the human body.

Treatment is given with an "oscilloclast." Just what "oscilloclast" are, none but Dr. Abrams is supposed to know. He leases them to his disciples for an initial payment of $2.00 and rental of $5.00 a month, but the lessee is enjoined by contract from taking the "oscilloclast" apart.

It bears a resemblance to a large radio receiving set, minus the earpieces. On its upper surface, a bit of metal rocks back and forth with a clicking noise. You can hear the whine of the generator which supplies the power.

The main "oscilloclast" controls several smaller machines scattered about the suite. An electrode is attached to each of the smaller machines, and this, properly adjusted, is applied to the afflicted part. The treatment is without sensation; one could take it as he slept.

Dr. Abrams' whole theory of diagnosis and treatment, as he explains it, is based on the electron. The electron is an electrified bit of matter far too small to be seen even with the most powerful microscope. In every atom of the human body—and in every other chemical composition—are thousands of electrons. They contain negative charges of electricity, and revolve about some positive nucleus as the earth revolves about the sun—a little universe in themselves. Disease, argues Dr. Abrams, is caused by electrons jarred out of orbit, and the way to cure disease is by restoring them.

The electronic movement in a drop of blood or a bit of handwriting, according to Dr. Abrams, is identical to the electronic movement, or radio-activity, of the patient's entire body.

The "oscillophone," he says, translates the radio-activity of the drop of blood or the bit of handwriting into a record of disease—and age, sex, nationality, religion, paternity, and other things are indicated too. The cure consists in introducing an identical radio-activity into the diseased area by means of the "oscilloclast," on the established theory of electricity that "like repels like."

Opera Stars Praise Tanlac

Both Now Enjoy Fine Health

Mme. Rosina Agostini, soprano, and Sig. Guiseppe Agostini, tenor, noted opera stars, who declare their stomach troubles have been completely overcome since taking Tanlac.

"If ever a person felt like they had been made over, I am that person, thanks to Tanlac," declared Mme. Rosina Agostini, noted leading soprano of the San Carlo Opera Co., residing at Hotel Grenoble, New York City.

"I suffered from a nervous, run-down condition, and got so I dreaded to face my audiences. But as soon as I started taking Tanlac I began to improve, and now I am perfectly normal."

The experience of Mme. Agostini's husband, Sig. Guiseppe Agostini, famous leading tenor of the same troupe, also shows the value of Tanlac as a tonic and stomach corrective. He said:

"My stomach went back on me, and I soon got into pretty bad condition. I followed my wife's example and took Tanlac. It helped to fix me up in a short time, and now I always feel fit."

NOTE.—The International Proprietaries Co., distributors of Tanlac, have on file in their offices at Atlanta, Georgia, over fifty thousand signed statements from representative men and women from every State in the Union and every Province in Canada. Many of these are from prominent people in this city and section, and have been previously published in this paper.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE MIDGET SERIES OF THE O.B.A.A.

Peterborough Youngsters Defeated Royce Avenue Team of Toronto By 10-3 For Provincial Honors—Bradley's Pitching and the Team's Hitting Were Features.

ONE BIG INNING.

Peterborough's Midget champions, the Maple Leafs, selected by Manager Charlie Curtis from the ranks of the Public School League, won the Midget O.B.A.A. championship on Saturday when they registered a 10-3 victory at Riverside Park over the Royce Avenue team of Toronto, the T.A.B.A. champions and the pick of Toronto's seventy odd Midget teams.

It was a great win for the Peterborough youngsters, who played fine ball both at bat and in the field. Royce Ave. looked bigger and older than the local kids when they trotted out on the diamond, but the Leafs failed to worry any on that account, getting down to work in good style and finally putting the game on ice by chasing seven runs across the counting station in the fifth.

Charlie Bradley, the Petes' fine southpaw heaver, turned in a beautiful game against the Toronto crew. They managed to get to him for two hits in the first, which with a fumbled bunt and an infield out gave them a pair of counters, but from then three scattered singles was the best they could collect, while Bradley retired eleven of them by the strike-out route. His teammates gave him fine support in the field.

Harper, the big youngster who started on the rubber for the visitors, showed a lot of speed, but he weakened badly in the fifth and finally decided that he had had enough. Fry, who finished the game, got by in much better style, holding the Leafs to one hit and no runs in the last four frames.

Thirnbeck and Franks played great ball around the keystone sack for the Leafs and Bannon had two pretty catches in right field. McClelland looked the pick of the visiting infielders.

The visitors got two in the first. McClelland led off with a single to left, and when Murray bunted for a sacrifice Bradley fumbled and both runners were safe. Search bunted and Delahaye threw McClelland out at third. Harper singled to right, scoring Murray and going to second on the throw-in, Search reaching third. Stevens died on a roller to Sowden, Search scoring. McLeod fanned.

The last Toronto counter came over in the third, and it was a cheap one. With one down, Murray singled and stole second, reaching third when Bradley threw past second. Search fanned. Harper also struck out, but the third one was a wild pitch and the runner was safe, Murray scoring.

Bradley held the visitors safe for the balance of the game, Royce Ave. getting but one more safe blow off him, Harper's single in the eighth being the only hit in the last six frames.

The Leafs got one in the second. McGill was safe when McLeod's throw pulled Stevens off the bag. Franks fanned. McGill stole second. Thirnbeck singled to third and stole second. McGill scored on a passed ball. Johnston and Bannon fanned.

Another came over in the third. Delahaye doubled to left and scored on Bradley's single through short. Bradley stole second and went to third on Irwin's low throw. Hall fanned, but Irwin took the last one on the bounce and failed to throw to first, the runner being safe. Sowden hit to McClelland and Bradley was out at the plate. McGill struck out and Franks forced Hall at third.

Thirnbeck walked to open the fourth, stolen second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Johnston's sacrifice bunt.

The Leafs put the game on ice in the fifth. Bradley, first up, singled to centre. He was caught off first, but reached second when Stevens' throw hit him. Hall was called out on strikes, but Sowden cut a single past second, scoring Bradley. McGill walked and Franks' single to left filled the bases. Thirnbeck promptly emptied them by stabbing a vicious single to left, scoring Sowden and McGill, and when the throw-in got away from Irwin Franks also scored, and Thirnbeck reached third, from which station he scored on a passed ball. Walks to Johnston and Delahaye and Bradley's single to centre scored two more, and Harper was through pitching for the day, Fry relieving him on the rubber. The new twirler walked Hall, but struck out Sowden to retire the side.

Fry held the Leafs to one hit for the balance of the game, and there was no further scoring.

WORLD SERIES COMPARISONS

THIRD BASE

By BILLY EVANS

GROH, NEW YORK GIANTS—Groh is no longer a youngster. His play the greater part of the year has been handicapped by an injured knee. Seems back in good shape again, and he's been playing his usual bang-up game at third down the home stretch.

Groh is an experienced veteran who has the business of playing third down to a science. He appears able to sense the batsman's intentions, whether he is going to bunt or hit.

Groh bats right-handed. His stance at the plate is entirely different from that of any other major player. He directly faces the pitcher and steps into the ball as it nears the plate. Is rated a fine batsman.

DUGAN, NEW YORK AMERICANS—A youngster with remarkable ability, destined to be one of the greatest third sackers of all time when he gets confidence in the ability he really possesses. At present Dugan doesn't realize what a great player he is.

Has a fine pair of hands and a wonderful throwing arm. Has played his best ball since joining the Yankees. Will show constant improvement.

Adanacs Qualify For The Junior Finals

'A WONDERFUL TEAM'

Eddie Wright's Adanacs, Peterborough's Junior champions, waltzed into Toronto on Saturday, and under the guidance of Jake Solomon, handed a clean-cut and decisive trimming to the much-touted McCormick team, the T.A.B.A. Junior champions and champions of Ontario last year. The score was 6 to 1, and the beating was a terrible shock to the McCormick outfit, who have been called the best Junior team ever developed in Toronto, and who have been planning to move up their team intact into the Senior series next season.

Charlie Shaughnessy, the Adanacs' pitching ace, completely outpitched the famous Britton, the McCormick's crack righthander. In fact, Britton had the humiliation of being taken out of the game after the Adanacs had bumped him for five clean hits and three runs in the sixth. McCormicks managed to squeeze a run over in the first innings, but they were at Shaughnessy's mercy after that, the Petes' twirler holding them to three singles in the nine frames, while the Adanacs collected no fewer than eleven safeties off the trio of Toronto twirlers who faced them. McCormick used three pitchers and four pinch-hitters trying to pull the game out of the fire, but Adanacs had the whip hand all the way after their rally in the sixth.

The whole Adanac team played grand ball. Their fielding record shows only one error, which did no harm, and infield and outfield took care of everything in sparkling style. Jack Turner starred in left field with several beautiful running catches of hard hit balls.

Jeff Hardill started the fireworks in the sixth when he met one of Britton's choicest for a slashing double that drove in two runs and put the Adanacs in the lead. Britton retired after the seventh and Heyd, who relieved him, was bumped hard in the eighth for three more runs, Armour finishing the game.

The Adanacs will meet the Western Ontario winners in the finals for the Ontario Junior championship. They should get a huge crowd and a rattling reception when they play their next home game, for their exploit of Saturday made baseball history.

"A Wonderful Team."

The Toronto Sunday World says: "Peterborough defeated McCormick in the Junior O.B.A.A. at Stanley Park Saturday by 6 to 1. McCormick led to the sixth, when Britton weakened and the Petes scored three runs on five clean singles. Heyd relieved Britton in the eighth and was touched for two hits, a walk and an error gave Peterborough three more, making the game safe. Armour finished the game for the Macs and retired Peterborough in order. J. Turner of Peterborough was the fielding star, gathering in two long drives after a hard run. The largest crowd to ever attend a junior game in Toronto was present, over 3,000 fans being on hand. The Peterborough kids have a wonderful team and will go a long way in the hunt for the Ontario Junior finals."

CAMPBELLFORD IN FINALS NOW

Defeated Orillia in Midget Series of O.A.L.A. By 14-7.

LINDSAY, Sept. Sept. 30.—(Special to Examiner).—Orillia and Campbellford O. A. L. A. Midget teams met here today in a sudden-death game on the Agricultural Park, the latter winning out by the score of 14-7. It is about fourteen years since a game of lacrosse was played in Lindsay, and that, too, was a sudden-death game in the old C. L. A. series. Quite an interest was aroused in the game locally, the majority of those at the park witnessing lacrosse for the first time. There is nothing talked of but lacrosse, especially among the juvenile element, and no surprise need be manifested if a couple of junior teams are organized next year.

The game was played under protest, as after the first period Orillia protested two Campbellford players, Colwell and Cochrane. They had been playing in the juvenile series, but had certificates for the midget series. The O.A.L.A. will be asked to deal with the case. These two players, it might be stated, were protested by Havelock.

The first quarter opened with both teams playing nervously, but they soon steadied down and played real lacrosse. The play was largely in Orillia territory, Goaler Hill being subjected to a regular fusillade. The quarter ended Campbellford 3, Orillia 1.

After Colwell and Cochrane had been rulled out of the game as a result of the protest Campbellford team was badly shot and appeared to be demoralized. Orillia scored a few seconds after the start and followed up with five more goals in short order. Campbellford came down to earth again again. T. Ibey was ruled off, but not withstanding this handicap they played rings around their opponents, scoring the next two goals.

In the third quarter Orillia had its share of hard luck. Corrigan and Booth were both sent to the bench, and during their absence Campbellford notched three goals.

Orillia started the scoring in the fourth quarter, but Campbellford came right back with a goal, and followed it up with two more before time was called. This quarter saw some of the best lacrosse of the afternoon. Orillia fought doggedly, but were no match for their opponents, who intercepted and passed magnificently and took advantage of every opportunity.

The teams were as follows:

Campbellford—Coperwaithe, goal; C. Ibey, point; Peeling, cover point; R. Haig, first defence; Colwell, second defence; T. Ibey, centre; F. Blake, first home; T. R. Horkin, second home; M. Peeling, first defence; B. Reynolds, second defence; J. W. White, inside home; Cochrane, outside home; C. R. Holmes, manager.

Orillia—Hill, goal; Kerr, point; Evans, cover point; Smith, first defence; Booth, second defence; Tennant, centre; Carter, first home; Jones, second home; Corrigan, outside home; Crany, inside home; subs., Foster Bresso and Warner.

Campbellford, it is said, will meet Orangeville next.

LEADERS LOST IN SOCCER LEAGUES

Exemplary Play Between Hotspurs and Arsenal Closely Watched.

LONDON, October 2. — The feature of Saturday's league association football was that seven of the first eight clubs in the premier division were beaten and the leadership is now vested in Liverpool, Middlesborough and Chelsea, the first named being top on goal average. The competition is closer than ever, six points covering the whole 22 contestants, and Aston Vlla and Bolton Wanderers, who have only Stoke below them, are only four points behind the three leading clubs.

Portsmouth, the only unbeaten club in the leading English leagues, can also claim the honor of maintaining an impregnable defence although they were lucky against Newport Saturday in not having their record broken.

An astonishing result was the success of Stoke. This is the first victory of the Staffordshire Club and reverses their home defeat of last week.

Theer was a striking contest in the return game played between Arsenal and Hotspurs at Highbury with that which was witnessed between the same opponents the previous week, when the roughness of the play evoked strong condemnation from the press. Contrary to the usual rule a new referee officiated but it is obvious that the lessons of the earlier match combined with the fact that a keen watch was being kept from the grandstand, had taken effect. There was a shyness in tackling which would otherwise have not existed. The behaviour of the crowd which numbered 53,000, was exemplary, and markedly different from that of last week at Tottenham. At the conclusion of the game Bradshaw, Arsenal's captain, shook hands and congratulated Grimsdell, the Spurs' captain, before the teams left the field.

EASY VICTORY FOR WOOLLENS

Quaker Oats Soccer Team Was Weak—Lost By 5-1 —Griffin Good.

Canadian Woollens easily mastered a weak Quaker Oats team at the Oval on Saturday, the final score being 5 to 1 in favour of the Woollens.

Woollens started off well, and only a splendid save by Griffen kept Chambers from scoring before the game had gone half a minute.

The winners were doing all the pressing, and time after time Griffen was called to clear, and right well he did it.

Thirty minutes of the first half had passed before a goal was scored, Shuttle doing the trick with a fast shot from a rebound off the crossbar.

Quakers disputed the goal, claiming that the scorer was offside, but on consultation with the linesman, the referee disallowed the claim.

There was no further scoring in this half.

Woollens continued to maintain the pressure, and Chambers got a second goal close in. In a breakaway by Quakers, Gandy was obstructed by Perry in the penalty area, G. Logan scoring from the free kick.

This goal was followed by one for the Woollens, Read surprising everybody with a lob into goal, which seemed to be going over then screwed into the net.

The Teams.

Woollens — Williams; Read and Cridland; Monkman, Perry and Roberts; Hopkins, Gaskell, Shuttle, Chambers and Downes.

Referee—J. Clark.

Excelsiors Take Lead in City League Rugby Series

Won Close Game With the Collegiates By 12-5, and Belmonts Defeated the Crescents By 20-3 in Saturday Games.

STUART'S FOUR TRIES

Dr. "Dick" Sheehy's Excelsiors climbed out on top of the City Rugby League heap by defeating Carl Browne's Collegiates by the score of 12 to 5 Saturday afternoon, while the Crescents dropped to the bottom with a loss to the Belmont Club by 20 points to 3.

Both games were played on the west half of the Exhibition Park on sun-baked clay that was almost of the consistency of macadam or concrete in comparison with the feather-bed sward at Riverside or the Oval. As a result injuries were more numerous than a week ago, although no one was seriously hurt, but the pace in both games was much faster than in the opening games.

Line plunging by Max Sloan, Whitehouse and Huff counted largely in Excelsiors' win, and at that the team was rather lucky. They scored 11 points in the first quarter on two touches and a touch in goal. Richardson got the first when he secured the ball after being put onside by H. Young, who barely touched the ball. Sloan went over for the other after plunging through and getting away for forty yards and then bucking across the line. A touch in goal by Emmet Sheehy and a rouge raised the total to twelve.

Collegiates sent Mulholland over on a fake buck for five in the second after a neat running combination. The third quarter was scoreless, and the only point in the final was Excelsiors' rouge. The students were threatened in the third when the ball was carried close to their line, where they stopped the Excelsiors in their tracks.

The teams were as follows:

Excelsiors—Flying wing, E. Sheehy; halves, McLeod, Pogue and Sturgeon; quarter, Brooks; snapback, Perry; inside wings, Mason and Huff; middle, Sloan and Whitehouse; outside, Rishor and Richardson. Spare—Manning.

Collegiate (P.C.I.)—Flying wing, Eastwood; halves, D. Hay, Mulholland and Browne; quarter, H. Young; snapback, Parrington; inside wings, Cowan and Flemming; middle, Stacey and Bookhout; outside, D. Young and F. Stevens. Spares—McColl and Cole.

Collegiate, as was generally expected, played a more diversified game than the other teams in the league, and H. Young looks like the best of the four quarterbacks seen in action so far. He starts his plays with a dash that is evidently the result of experience and recent practices. The team lacked several of their regulars who were out of town Saturday, including Fanning, one of their best linemen. Bookhout and Stacey did the bulk of their bucking Saturday.

Excelsiors haven't much variety to their attack, but they have a hefty wing line which they have used consistently in the two games they have played. Dr. Sheehy is probably grounding the team in the rudiments and rounding them into condition. Their end runs were comparatively few, but near the end of the game Pogue took a long pass and got away for twenty-five yards.

Belmonts Win.

The Crescents opened strong in the second game and showed a general improvement from their week's practice, but Belmonts gradually wore them out with heavy attacks on the line, with Clare Stuart as the spearhead. He scored all of Belmonts' goals on bucks, while Crescents failed to carry the ball over. Several times they were within a few yards of the Belmont line, but they lacked the last punch. Bill Hatrick's goal from a drop kick a few minutes before the last whistle saved Crescents from a whitewash.

The personnel follows:

Belmont—Flying wing, Darling; halves, Anderson, Northey and Jobbitt; quarter, Willoughby; snap, Batten; outside wings, Fanning and Barber; middle, Dr. Frank and Stuart; inside, Turnbull and Crowe. Spares — Thompson, Welsh and Graves.

Crescents—Flying wing, J. Rutherford; halves, M. Sheehy, Hatrick and W. Jackson; quarter, Ted Jackson; snap, McDonald; outside wings, Geo. Rutherford and Griffin; middle, B. Hickey and Evans; inside, B. Hay and Ashmore. Spares—Carson, Simms and Webber.

For the losers Mike Sheehy and Jack Rutherford contributed a full share of strenuous work. Their tackling was particularly good, stopping many Belmont plays. Evans, Hay, Hickey and George Rutherford were the best on the line. Hatrick, Sheehy and Bill Jackson engineered end runs that looked promising, but the team was ineffective inside Belmonts' twenty-five-yard line.

Belmonts uncovered a find in Clare Stuart, who broke through the Crescent line repeatedly for yards, and who was sent over the line four times. He and Dr. Frank and Fanning carried the brunt of the bucking game, while on the back division Ken. Anderson and Frank Jobbitt ran well and Lorne Northey made a good job of the punting.

The officials for the two games were Ross Dobbin, Dr. Wood, C. S. Browne and Major Gifford.

On the afternoon's play Belmonts were most successful in opening holes for their bucks. Many of the line plays in both games were hitting into solid ranks and quite a number of times the ball changed hands on failure to make yards. These losses will be avoided as the teams develop their end runs and trick and fake plays.

Collins Predicts American League Will Win

This is the last of seven articles written for The Examiner by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more world series games than any other major league player.

By EDDIE COLLINS,
World's Greatest Second Baseman.

N a world series I think the pitching is unquestionably the dominating factor.

For this reason I like the chances of the Yanks for the title best — that is, if they win the pennant. New York has a quintet of twirlers hard to beat.

So good that, in my opinion, if I had my choice of the entire American League to face the Giants, I would still select three of the Yanks.

Right handers, I believe, are most effective against the Giants, and that's all the Yanks have.

Nine years ago this fall, Joe Bush first met and beat the Giants. True, none of those same players now remain and the Giants of today are a far better club than that of 1913.

But remember one thing, Bush of today is at least a 25 per cent. better pitcher than he was then. His experience, confidence and mastery of a slow ball for the first time, together with as much speed as he ever had, has established him as the best pitcher in the American League this year. It takes a smart pitcher to tame the Giants, but I firmly believe Joe Bush will accomplish it as many times as he is given the opportunity to work.

About Pitchers.

Sam Jones is another pitcher who I figure would give the Giants lots of trouble. To me he always appears to be this kind of a twirler: Every ball he throws is with a purpose—not one of those fellows who tries to throw it by a batter, or with a prayer of "I hope it don't go safe," but one who studies every opponent closely, more closely, I believe, than any other pitcher in the American League. He will be handicapped to a certain extent the first time each Giant faces him, but the farther he goes the better he will be.

Hoyt and Mays have only to repeat the quality of ball they showed against the Giants last fall to win for them this year, hands down.

The Giants, to me, this year as world series contestants, resemble a sturdy ship without a rudder—a corking ball club, offensively speaking, that good, smart pitching alone can stop. Defensively, I can't help but feel, the Giants will fall before the attack of either the Yanks or Browns. In Nehf alone can I see any chance for the Giants to hold the American Leaguers at bay.

While I would prefer the chances of the Yanks against the Giants to those of the Browns, I am not so sure they will have that opportunity.

At the time of this writing, the Browns look the best bet in our league.

Will Overcome Giants.

Let's consider them in that light, for the sake of comparison.

According to the averages to date, they pack a stronger punch than do the Yanks by 16 points, and are the best scoring team in the league.

Furthermore, they will have to be, in order to beat the Giants, as I think it would require more runs for them to win than it would for the Yanks to do so.

The Browns have only one dependable pitcher, Shocker, and he's done the work of half a dozen so far this season and still some distance to travel, with small chance for a let-down. But for all of that I consider him highly and he's just the type of pitcher to stop the Giants. They don't like change of pace, and if need be, Shocker can slow ball them to death.

As I have said previously, I believe a Browns-Giants series would prove a more interesting, more productive of a greater variety of baseball, and a more closely contested series than a Yankee-Giant affair.

But in either instance, I firmly believe the American League offensive will overcome anything the Giants can present.

WOMAN GOLF CHAMPION.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—Glenna Collett, 19 year old Providence girl, is the new womans golf champion of the United States, crowned late Saturday on the course of the Gren Brier Club where she turned back Mrs. William A. Gavin, brilliant English player, in a scientillating 36 hole match to end the national women's tournament.

Outplaying her rival almost continually Miss Collett drove longer and truer balls and took advantage of every opportunity. The score was 5 up and 4 to play.

A Banner Year For Baseball in Peterborough

Saturday was a great day for baseball in Peterborough.

The feat of the Adanacs, Peterborough Junior champions, and the Maple Leafs, the city Midget champions, in eliminating the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association's representatives in their respective classes, puts this city on the baseball map in large letters, and the double triumph is wonderfully sweet to the local enthusiasts who have laboured in season and out for the advancement of junior baseball in Peterborough.

The Adanacs are now in the finals for the Ontario Junior championship, and to get there they had to beat a team which won that title last year, that had gone through its own league and the T.A.B.A. finals without serious opposition and that had made such an impressive showing that it had been pronounced the finest junior team ever gathered together in Toronto, ready to step right into senior company next year. And the Adanacs had to turn the trick in a sudden-death game on a Toronto ball grounds and before a crowd of over three thousand fans. It was a task seemingly difficult enough to discourage the most lion-hearted youngsters, but the Peterborough kids rose to the occasion and played magnificent ball, having but one error and outhitting the vaunted McCormick team 11 to 3, while Shaughnessy easily outpitched the celebrated Britton. Strange grounds and a huge crowd did not affect the morale of the Adanacs in the least and they were steady as veterans all the way through.

Here at home the Maple Leafs won a splendid victory over an outfit that won the Toronto Interchurch League, composed of ten teams, and the T.A.B.A. Midget championship, proving themselves the best of the seventy Toronto Midget teams by winning twenty-five games. That was pretty formidable opposition for a team selected from Peterborough's Public schools, but the Leafs were out after the Ontario title, and the mere fact that they had to beat the best Toronto team in their class was a mere detail that caused no anxiety in the hearts of Manager Curtis' outfit. The victory of the Maple Leafs is a great boost for the Public School Baseball League, and for Mr. Alex. Kay who has for several years umpired most of the School League games and has never lost an opportunity to coach every youngster that showed promise.

Saturday's two victories can be traced back to the efforts of Alex. Kay, Jake Solomon, Eddie Wright, Charlie Curtis, Lew Lebarr, Frank Convery and the other faithful few enthusiasts who have always fought for the interests of the junior players.

With the Maple eafs firmly clutching the Ontario Midget championship, the Adanacs in the Junior Ontario finals and the C.G.E. still much in the running in the Intermediate series it is a great year for baseball in Peterborough. True, the senior representatives are in the discard, but they had a wonderful season nevertheless, winning one half of the Central League race and having the best record on the whole season's play.

THE RULES OF RUGBY

SCRIMMAGE.

When the ball is held fairly within the grounds, one of the side to which it belongs shall place it on the ground, dead in front of him, with its long axis at right angles to the line of scrimmage; then one of his side must immediately (twenty seconds is considered a reasonable time) bring it into play in one continuous movement by snapping it back between his legs; the ball thus snapped must leave his hands and must travel in a general direction toward his own goal line; it must not be handed by the snapper to the player receiving it from the snapper; penalty, loss of one down. The player who snaps the ball shall not again handle it until it has been in possession of another player, under penalty of the loss of one down and fifteen yards.

The Line of Scrimmage.

At the instant when the ball is put into play at least five men of the side in possession, exclusive of the player in the position usually occupied by the quarterback, must be within one yard of the line of scrimmage. No player of the side in possession of the ball who is within one yard of the line of scrimmage shall be moving toward the opponents' goal at the instant the ball is out into play. Holding hands or locking arms during a scrimmage is forbidden. In case of infringement the penalty shall be the loss of one down and fifteen yards; if on third down, loss of the ball.

When Yards Not Made.

If in three consecutive downs (unless the ball crosses the goal line) a team has not advanced the ball, ten yards, it shall go to the opponents on the spot where it was declared dead at the end of the third down. Downs begin after the required distance has been gained.

"Consecutive" in the above paragraph means without going out of the possession of the side holding it unless by having kicked it the ball crosses the line of scrimmage in flight.

In measuring in downs the forward point of the ball, and not its centre, shall be taken as the determining point.

A TANDEM BUCK OF MORE THAN TWO PLAYERS IS FORBIDDEN UNTIL IT HAS COME IN CONTACT WITH AN OPPOSING PLAYER; PENALTY, LOSS OF ONE DOWN AND FIFTEEN YARDS; IF ON THIRD DOWN, LOSS OF BALL.

Note.—The intention of this rule is to prohibit combined effort or "piling on" until the buck has been partially stopped by an opponent, and to prevent a shock of impact of more than two men.

The penalty, "loss of one down and fifteen yards," means: That if the foul is committed by the side in possession on its first down, that side shall be set back a distance of fifteen yards from the spot where the ball was last put into play, and the next down shall be the second down. Similarly, if the offence occurs on the "second down," the ensuing down shall be the third down.

Blocked Kicks.

In case of a blocked kick on the third down:

(a) When the ball is recovered by a player of the side of the kicker that side shall retain possession provided yards are gained. If yards are not gained the ball shall go to the side blocking the kick at the spot where the kick was blocked.

(b) When the ball is recovered by a player of the side blocking the kick play shall continue until the ball is dead.

(c) When the ball goes into touch the "touch" rule shall apply and first down shall be awarded.

Touch.

(1) When the ball goes into touch off a player it shall belong to the opposite side; when it is carried into touch it shall belong to the side carrying it into touch.

(2) One of the side to which it belongs shall immediately bring it into play at right angles to where it went into touch by scrimmaging it ten yards out.

(3) In case of infringement the opposite side shall immediately bring it into play.

RETAIN MINTO CUP.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 2.—(Canadian Press.)— New Westminster lacrosse players retained possession of the Minto Cup when they defeated Vancouver Saturday afternoon in one of the best games ever staged in this city. The score was 3 to 2. The game was played in a rain storm.

102 MILES AN HOUR.

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 2. — (Canadian Press.)— Bennet Hill won the 150 mile San Josquin Automobile classic here with a speed of 102 miles an hour. His time was 1:27:46. Harry Hartz finished second and Tommy Milton third.

Hill was only 10 feet ahead of Tommy Milton. There were no accidents.

NO MORE U.S. SCHOOLS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22.—(Associated Press).—According to the newspaper Tevhid Efkiar, the official organ of the Kemalists, the Council of Ministers has refused to grant any further permission for Americans to establish schools in Anatolia.

This measure does not in any way affect the existing American colleges at Tarsus and Marsivan, and other missionary schools in the interior.

BLACK SATIN GOWNS.

We don't see as much black satin as in other seasons, but what we do see is much more distinctive. It is being combined with white georgette crepe and white lace with excellent effect.

AN APPRECIATIVE FAN

To the Sporting Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—While we were disappointed in the final, all true and honest fans appreciate the fact that the boys honestly all season gave us all that was in them, and we must acknowledge that their best was somewhat better than any other team gave to its supporters in the Central Ontario League from the start to the finish.

If anyone has any sympathy to offer, give it to the fellow who is so unreasonable as to knock and make insulting remarks, for he only thinks he is a sport, and his ignorance makes him an object of pity.

The boys should appreciate the fact that only those who count have been with them all season, and are with them now, and the same bunch will keep up the reputation that this town has ever had by being with them in the future, for we will come back as usual. Some towns quit, but not this burg.)

We are going to play the games over and over again this winter with considerable pleasure.

Then when the flowers bloom again and the fish get through spawning on the park, the railbirds will be there to look the team over, as confident and as hopeful as ever.

The citizens have every reason to be proud of the 1922 ball team and the management.

I do not wish to become unnecessarily critical, but anyone could see that almost all the teams were short of reliable players when the regulars had to be replaced, and while knowing that there were many good reasons for this fact, I hope it will not be considered out of place for a fan to offer something of a constructive nature.

Would it be advisable for the League to start an intermediate section as a feeder? I think details and rules could be made satisfactory when one of the teams were hopelessly out of the race, a town would have the other to keep up the fight, and a double-header could be run in to keep up the enthusiasm.

I hope the management and team can realise that I am only voicing the sentiments of many when I say we feel very grateful towards them.
—Yours truly, Joe Begley.

AMERICAN HOTEL CHARGES

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Sept. 22.—(Associated Press).—Senator Pearce attended the Washington Limitation of Armaments Conference as Australian representative. Upon his return he presented a bill of expenses amounting to approximately $42,500. Some senators thought this was high, but the commonwealth Treasurer, Mr. Bruce, came forward as one with experience of hotel bills in the United States, and declared one could not live in a Washington hotel for $250 a week unless one had no meals.

Bulgarian Premier Does Not Care a Snap About the Reparations—Says They're Humbug.

SOFIA, BULGARIA, Sept. 22.—(Associated Press).—Alexander Stambouliisky, since his advent to power as Bulgaria's peasant-premier, has been furnishing Europe with no little amusement by the unceremonious and defiant way he has been treating King Boris, and by his indifferent attitude toward the ever-present question of reparations. Not long ago he told the King if he did not do the bidding of the masses, he might find himself without a throne and in the midst of a republic. He added a warning that young Boris must not keep his eye on both sides of the fence; that he could give his support to only one party, and that party the group in power.

The stalwart Agrarian leader also has given voice to equally novel expressions on various questions of the day. "My enemies," he says, "asked the King to throw me over. But that would not be in conformity with constitutional usage. And then they do not know the King. I have him well trained. I treat him like a son. I have been teaching him politics for three years, and he is quite devoted to me. We are going to amalgamate the Agrarians, Radicals and Social Democrats for the elections of 1924, unless I am assassinated in the meantime.

"I like the Bulgarian Communists," Stambouliisky declares, "because they support me without any engagement on my part, which is convenient for me. The Communists are practical people, and they will shortly become a party fit to govern. They are forgetting their principles more and more, and they know how to accommodate themselve to circumstances. They know how to talk so as to please people."

The Premier says he does not care a snap about reparations. "Reparations are humbug. My connections abroad are much stronger and more numerous than were those of King Ferdinand. Ferdinand knew only crowned heads of no importance, while I am an ouintimate terms with the ruling politicians of the whole world. There is no danger. Nobody will touch Bulgaria. I have got promises. And then we have come to an understanding with Kristo Rakevski, Commissary in the Ukraine. The Soviets will not abandon us."

M. Stambouliisky has voiced a warning as to the future. "Even should nothing else happen," he declared, "there will be a general mix-up before long. Russia is persistently preparing a debacle which is inevitable. We shall plunge into this upheaval too, and something is sure to come out of it. Wait and see."

CONSIDERS RADIO AS SUPPLEMENTO TO NEWSPAPERS.

Biggest Development in Dissemination of Information Since Invention of Printing.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Associated Press).—Vigorous protest has been made in the House of Commons against the plan of Postmaster-General Kellaway, against granting to a combine of instrument makers for two years the right of wireless broadcasting in England, and a monopoly of the sale of receiving instruments. The plan, if adopted, will exclude Americans and other foreign-made wireless apparatus.

Captain Wedgewood Benn, Member of Parliament, said broadcasting should be considered as a supplement to newspapers. He declared it marked the biggest development in the dissemination of information since the invention of the printing press. It was not right, he argued, that the development of wireless broadcasting should be left in the hands of a combine.

The speaker asked the postmaster-general what arrangements had been made for the copyright of newspaper dispatches. He said when a newspaper had at great expense obtained an item of news, it ought to enjoy the monopoly of it for a period of at least 24 hours.

Mr. Kellaway said there would be no monopoly. Every one of the manufacturers of apparatus could become a member of the broadcasting company. "We have to keep this new form of communication in the hands of our own people," he proceeded. "Whether in the matter of broadcasting or reception, our manufacturers have a technical skill and a capacity of production equal to any in the world. I am advised that in the two years $30,000,000 will be spent in the purchase of receiving apparatus and erection of broadcasting stations, and 80 per cent of this will go in wages."

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

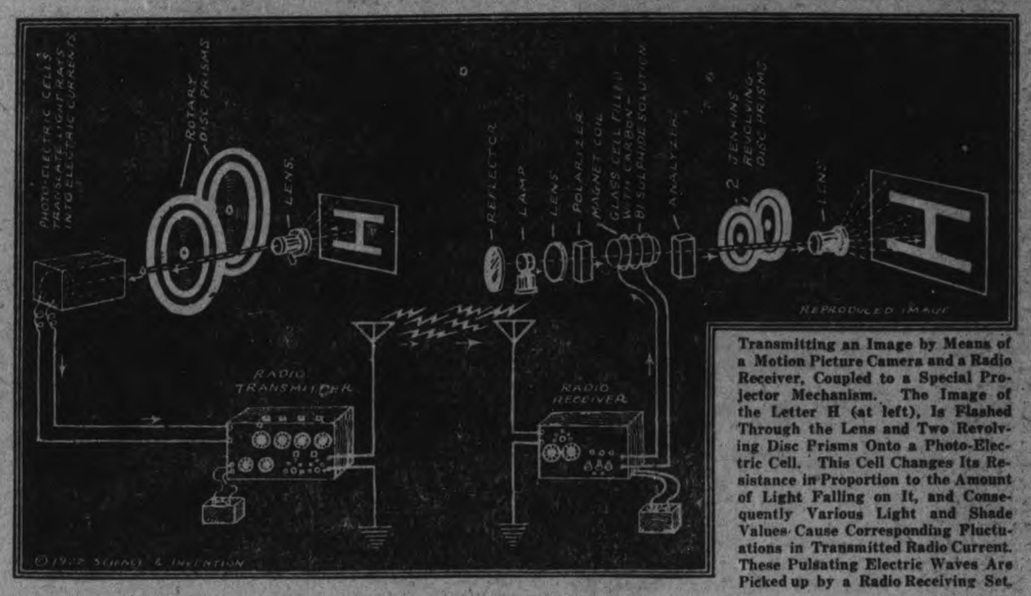
Movies Sent by Radio

FROM broadcasting music by radio to unseen audiences composed of millions to broadcasting motion pictures by the same method is, or to be exact, was but a step. This latest scientific achievement, than which there is none more marvelous, has just been made by C. Francis Jenkins of Washington, D. C., possessor of the Elliott Cresson gold medal, awarded by the Franklin Institute of America for his original contribution to motion-picture mechanics. Mr. Jenkins announces that he has discovered a means for transmitting photographs and motion pictures through space. While the revolutionary character of the discovery may give cause for doubt in the popular mind as to the success of the enterprise, irrespective of the prestige of the inventor, the public, and radio fans in particular, are lending attentive ears—and eyes.

BROADCASTING of motion pictures, according to the claim of the inventor, has been made possible by use of a prismatic ring, a new optical shape in glass, which has recently been brought to a rather high state of perfection. It has already been applied in extreme high-speed photography (1600 pictures per second), continuous motion-picture projection machines, direct-reading ground-speed metres for airplanes, etc.

How Mr. Jenkins succeeded in transmitting photographs from one room to another, only a few steps intervening, at his laboratory, 1519 Connecticut avenue, Washington, D. C., is described in Science and Invention by S. R. Winters.

How Motion PICTURES Are BROADCASTED Through Space by MEANS of Prismatic RINGS



Transmitting an Image by Means of a Motion Picture Camera and a Radio Receiver, Coupled to a Special Projector Mechanism. The Image of the Letter H (at left), Is Flashed Through the Lens and Two Revolving Disc Prisms Onto a Photo-Electric Cell. This Cell Changes Its Resistance in Proportion to the Amount of Light Falling on It, and Consequently Various Light and Shade Values Cause Corresponding Fluctuations in Transmitted Radio Current. These Pulsating Electric Waves Are Picked up by a Radio Receiving Set.

This was accomplished by use of prismatic rings, which are protected by patents. The principle involved in the transmission of photographic objects through ether is that electromagnetic or wireless waves are susceptible to the impression of picture characteristics just as at present electrical waves may be translated into speech if voice characteristics are impressed thereon. Accepting the logic of this theory, the inventor claims that it is then only a matter of combining with these new ring prisms certain well-known elements in operative relation—elements to be found in any modern physics text-book.

A circular ring of glass, unpretentious in appearance, is the vital unit upon which the claim is based that photographs and motion pictures may be transmitted through space over short distances. The warped contour of this ring of transparent substances, when rotated across a beam of light, produces an effect on the latter comparable to that of a glass prism which changes the angle between its faces. Or, putting it differently, there is a constant change in its refracting angle.

The effect on a ray of light passing through this glass ring, having a fixed axis on one side of the latter, is to give to the ray of light on the other side of the glass prism an oscillation or hinged action in the plane of the diameter of the ring. Consequently, a ray of light passing through this prism and spending its force on a picture surface at the top will travel across the picture surface to the bottom as the prismatic ring rotates. By the same token, the identical ray of light passing through a second prismatic ring, with its diameter set at right angles to the first, will embrace the picture surface from left to right. If then, as Mr. Jenkins reasons, one of the prismatic rings is rotated one hundred times faster than the other, it will be seen that the picture surface would be covered, horizontally, in one hundred parallel stripes by the pointed beam of light. Such is the behavior of these patented prismatic rings in conjunction with instruments now being developed in contemplation of a broadcasting service of motion pictures, not altogether dissimilar from the prevailing system of distributing vocal speech and music by means of the radio-telephone. The equipment for the transmission of pictures is composed of a pair of prismatic rings and a photo-electric cell.

The outfit for the contemplated reception of motion pictures consists of another pair of these circular prismatic rings of glass and a light valve. The latter unit is a glass tube filled with carbon bisulphide solution, the tube being wound with wire somewhat similar to the winding formation of the tuning coil used in radio-telephony and telegraphy. Current given passage through the photo-electric cell of the transmitting apparatus fluctuates under the influence of variations in light values of different parts of the picture. This fluctuating current is impressed on electromagnetic waves, and is "picked up" by wireless receiving sets equipped with the prismatic rings. The current values, subsequently, are translated into picture values on the screen.

Why Men Do Not Wear Brightly Colored Clothes

IT is probable that the majority of the men always did wear dull colored clothes, as most durable and most suitable for hard work, leaving the bright colors for courtiers and the classes who toiled not.

In the Middle Ages, indeed, special laws existed to prevent the wealthy trader, for instance, imitating in his dress the gay hues of those supposed to be born his "betters."

Today all such class distinctions have vanished, and the very few men who literally have no work to do would only invite ridicule and not envy by any parade of color. And the great majority, having to work hard and continuously, cannot afford to wear clothes which would constantly be getting soiled.

WILD Traits of DOMESTIC ANIMALS

MOST domestic animals have been domesticated so long that knowledge of their exact ancestry has been forgotten. It is still disputed how many wild species of the wolf or fox or jackal kinds have gone to the making of modern dogs, but any strain in such ancestry is enough to make them the natural enemies of sheep, and therefore, under man's training, their potential guardians. Of various sheep dogs the Scotch collie has most of the appearance of a wolf, and in him the primitive habit of sheep driving has been so enforced by civilized training that his instincts are still wildly excited by the appearance of a moving flock.

Deprived of his proper business of sheep herding, he will race behind children pouring out of school, or follow a stream of traffic in towns, loudly barking at the buses, trucks and motor cars and glancing brightly at the bystanders for approval of his attempts to regulate the traffic.

His original instinct of hunting is overlaid or transformed by his later vocation of shepherd, and his remarks, so freely uttered, are not in the wolf's primitive howl, but in the short barks, the humanized, half-articulate dog speech, which he has learned in association with man.

When dogs howl at the moon it is a relapse into depths of time when they were still wild animals—perhaps due to instincts of hunting with the ancient wolf pack on moonlit nights, or perhaps some still more ancient response to the tide-impelling planet which has so wide and deep an influence over mortal kind.

Of all beasts which man has long tamed, the cat appears at first sight to have the least trace of occasional relapses into barbarism. But, according to naturalists, it is truer to say that the cat has lost none of her primitive instincts than that she retains none.

Cats are essentially undomesticated, though for their own good purposes they condescended to sleep by the fireside. They were originally solitary animals, as the wildcat or the lynx is today, and while the gregariousness of the dog and horse enables them to transfer their affection to mankind, the cat makes no such deep friendships.

Taking the Guesswork Out of Sour Milk in Baking

THE old negro "mammy" of the South is able to taste buttermilk, or clabber, then measure out with her fingers the proper amount of soda to react with it in the preparation of her famous biscuit dough. Hers is becoming a lost art, however, for her skill has not been handed down to the new generation.

No recipe given in any cook book for soda and sour milk bread can be strictly followed with uniform results, for sour milk varies greatly in its solidity; yet the neutralization for baking must be accurate, or the bread will be yellow and alkaline with excess of soda, or heavy and sour because of deficiency. To carry out a determination of the exact acidity of the milk, and the strength of the soda, and calculate the comparison, is within the ability only of the trained chemist.

A new and rapid method of determining the baking soda equivalent of a cupful of milk of any degree of sourness has been worked out in the laboratories of George Peabody College for Teachers by Miss Mary P. Wilson and Dr. H. A. Webb, who presented the results of their investigations at the Pittsburgh meeting of the American Chemical Society. An "indicator" which shows when the right amount of soda is added was discovered in the use of paper soaked with the alizarine. Making spots on this paper with drops of milk determines the exact amount of soda required, measured accurately by eighths of a teaspoonful, the smallest unit by which powders may be measured in the household. The manipulation of the test is simple, so that bakers, cooking classes, or housewives may use it. Less than a minute of time is necessary, after the solutions are prepared.

The assurance that bread baked with sour milk and soda will not have too much of either ingredient will create confidence in the minds of many housewives and possibly revive the use of this most excellent and healthful leavening process.

How Age Affects the Germinating Power of Seeds

IT is, of course, a well-known fact that the capacity of seeds to germinate tends to decrease with age. In some cases germination capacity falls off very rapidly; in other cases it remains high for a number of years after the seed has been harvested. Among vegetable-garden crops, according to Gardeners' Chronicle (London) parsnips afford an example of seeds whose germinating capacity soon deteriorates, even so short a period of one year sufficing to reduce the percentage of germination to a relatively low figure.

Plants of the cabbage tribe, turnips, etc., retain their germinating capacity longer, but at the end of two or three years it will be found to have become less than it was in the year of harvesting. The seeds of peas and beans suffer less from the effects of keeping, and may give quite good results after three or more years. Needless to say, the power of seeds to retain their capacity to germinate varies not only with the variety, but also with the nature of the harvest and with the conditions under which the seeds are stored. A poor harvest year generally means in this country one in which seed does not ripen thoroughly; that is, does not dry off completely, and such seed generally shows a relatively low initial power of germination and poor "keeping" properties. Conditions of storage also affect the keeping properties of seed. If the air is either uniformly damp or subject to marked alternation of dampness and dryness, the germinating capacity falls off rapidly. That this is the case may be easily understood when it is remembered that seeds are very hygroscopic—that is, readily take up water when exposed to a moist atmosphere. It is, therefore, necessary if for any reason it is desired to keep seeds for a long time, to put them in sealed bottles or jars, and to store them in a cool place. It follows from this that a good general rule is to sow seeds the year after harvesting. This rule, however, is one which admits of numerous exceptions. For instance, some seeds —e.g., Primulas —germinate better if sown before they are fully matured than they do if sown after their fruits have completely ripened.

HOW FAR Can a MAN FALL and Still LIVE?

By Francis W. Wilson, C. E.

HOW far may a human being fall and escape death or permanent injury, eliminating, of course, the possibility of landing on a stack of feather beds or in a fireman's net. Given an unrestrained drop through thin air, and an alighting on probable substances, there must be a limiting height of fall which will result in instant death.

Strange indeed are the vagaries of fate! A tumble from a ground-floor window kills one man—a fall from a church steeple leaves another unhurt.

Structurally fragile, the human body seems ill-adapted to any but the gentlest usage. An assemblage of brittle, chalky bones, ribbed through tender, nerve-coursed flesh, and enshrouded in a very thin envelope of delicate skin —that is all.

A scratch from a pin may mean blood-poisoning; a puncture from a rusty nail, lockjaw; a slip in the bathtub, a fractured skull; a mis-step on the stairs, a compound fracture! Truly it is amazing that so many arrive at old age, whole-limbed and intact.

But consider the men now living who have fallen from great heights from airplanes, from bridges and from tall buildings often with very slight injuries and sometimes none at all.

After many years spent in bridge and structural engineering it has long been my conclusion that an occasional man has more than the proverbial nine lives accredited to the cat.

Such a man I met one day in a Southern city. He was a former employe, known in the bridge gang by the euphonious name of "Coley." There was a startling change in his appearance. His face was thin and of a ghastly whiteness.

"What's the matter?" I asked. "You look different. Had fever?"

"No, a fall," he replied in a weak, fine-strained voice. "Stepped on the loose end of a plank and went down a hundred and twenty-five feet," he continued, as he removed his hat and inclined his head so that I might see the deep, blue-green depression in his skull.

From an inch above one eyebrow it extended to the extreme back of his head. Then he told me the story:

Two of them fell together. The other man struck in the mud and was dead when they reached him. Coley alighted with his head against a foot-square stick of timber. The square corner split his skull open. He still breathed, and his mates carried him up "to grade," and laid him on a pile of cross-ties. A country doctor was brought from three miles distant. The doctor sewed up the opened skull, and "Coley" recovered. He hoped soon to be back on the job.

Later I verified the height from which Coley had fallen, and his statement of "a hundred and twenty-five feet" was no exaggeration. Soft mud might seem a safer landing place than to butt one's head against the corner of a stick of timber, and yet here we have the outcome of one such comparison.

And then, how about landing on a ledge of stone?

Twenty years ago every bridge engineer in America could repeat the story which follows, yet I am unable to say from my own knowledge that it happened, or that the height of the fall may not have been exaggerated.

It happened during the erection of the cantilever bridge over the Niagara River. The big pins for the main trusses weighed in the neighborhood of 500 pounds each. Quitting-time was almost at hand one evening and a connection was ready for driving the pin. Usually the pins were hoisted into position for driving by means of a block and fall, but that was slow, and the big, husky foreman was in a hurry. The pin lay on the plank staging which paralleled the chord. He decided to lift the pin with his hands, and placing the end of the pilot-nut in the pinhole, he would support the other end until the pin could be partially driven.

Something went wrong, for pin and man shot down between the staging and the chord, alighting on the stone ledge, 120 feet below.

The threads on the pin were damaged, and it was sent to the shop for repairs. The foreman was less seriously injured—no broken bones, and no internal injury—he was back on the job before the repaired pin arrived. In this case chalky-boned, soft-fleshed man resisting rough treatment better than a pin of solid steel!

By way of contrast, there is the incident of a bridge worker in California who fell 11 feet, landing in a bed of loose, dry sand. He was instantly killed.

Did GOLF Originate in HOLLAND?

POPULAR belief has it that golf was first played in Scotland, but if one of the most ancient and interesting of the pictures in which the game is portrayed in the tailpiece to an illuminated Book of Hours made at Bruges is accepted as conclusive evidence, then Holland holds the honors as the home of this game. The players, as shown in the Book of Hours, are three in number and have but one club apiece, the head of which is steel or steel covered, and they play with a ball each.

The feature which gives this picture a peculiar interest is that all the others show the game on ice, the putting being at a stake, while in this Book of Hours they are putting at a hole in the turf, as in modern golf.

It is uncertain at what date the game was introduced into Scotland, but in 1457 its popularity had become so great as to interfere with the more important pursuit of archery.

The competition became so serious that in March of that year the Scottish Parliament "decreted and ordained that wapinshawingis be halden be the lordis and baronis spirituale and temporale four times in the zeir; and that the fute-ball and golf be utterly cryit doun, and nocht usit and that the bowemerkis be maid at ilk paroche kirk a pair of buttis, and schuutin be usit ilk Sunday."

The act was evidently insufficient to curb the doughty game, as 14 years afterward it was judged necessary to pass another against "wapinshawingis," and in 1491 a final and evidently angry fulmination was issued on the general subject with pains and penalties annexed.

This was an edict of James IV. and it is not a little curious to find the monarch himself setting an ill-example to his Commons by practice of this "unprofitabill" sport, as is shown by entries in accounts of the Lord High Treasurer of Scotland (1503-1506).

From old time the sport has been known in Scotland as "the royal and ancient game of golf." James IV. is the first monarch who figures formally in the golfing record. James V. was also very partial to the game; and it was alleged by the enemies of his unhappy daughter, Mary Stuart, as having her shameless indifference to the fate of her husband, that soon after his murder she "was seen playing golf and pallmall in the fields beside Seton."

Tradition has it that her son, James VI. (afterward James I., of England) was a golfer, but the chief evidence connecting him with the game is an enactment, dated 1618, which prohibits the importation of golf balls from Holland, as thereby "na small quantitie of gold and silver is transported zierly out of his Hienes' kingdome of Scotland."

Searchlight Illuminates the Newest Vanity Case

JUST look here, girls! It's no longer necessary for you to have to powder your nose in the dark, for some gallant inventor has come to your rescue.

The very latest design of a vanity case is equipped with its own searchlight and in the glow of its beam a woman can powder her nose even in the darkest taxicab or theatre.

The Light Is Automatically Turned on When the Case Is Opened.

The light is connected with a spring switch in the box lid and goes on automatically whenever the case is opened. It is sufficiently brilliant to illuminate the fair face of the owner, and also to save fumbling for keys or change.

ICE CREAM is not such a modern product as may be imagined. The ancients first used ice for the making of iced drinks. These served to solace Alexander of Macedon during the heat of his Asiatic campaigns. Trace of this is found in the recipe—supposed to have been left by him —known as macedoine.

The more complicated product of freezing—ice cream—was first mentioned by Marco Polo, who visited Japan in the thirteenth century and brought back tales of water and milk ices which were among the delicacies then known to the people of the East.

In the sixteenth century ice cream is mentioned in connection with Queen Catherine de Medici, who introduced frozen fruit juices and water ices from Italy to France, while later her son employed a special cook to invent new kinds of ices, the latter installing a shop for the purpose of selling ice cream to the aristocracy.

The popular confection was first made in England by Demirro, one of the cooks in the household of Charles I. His royal master so much enjoyed his "frozen milk" that he awarded Demirro an annuity of $100.

There is an account of a gorgeous banquet given by Louis XIV of France at which was laid before each guest a gilt cup containing a fresh egg, colored to resemble those presented at Easter. But to their surprise it was "a delicious sweetmeat, cool and compact as marble."

It was probably an Italian named Gatti who first sold ice cream to the British public. The trade soon reached tremendous proportions.

THE TIERNANS TO RAISE THE STRANGE BABY

Family Dares Disgrace That Others May Profit—One of the Strangest Cases Ever Heard.

HUM-DRUM LIFE.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 2. — Harry Poulin, South Bend haberdasher accused of being the father of the third child of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, wife of a Notre Dame professor, was discharged by the court which heard the evidence.

The judge declared he did not want to question the legitimacy of the child.

The long decision flayed Mrs. Tiernan and Poulin for their actions and declared that they showed no "refinement," but held that that state failed to prove that Tiernan could not be the father of the baby.

Tiernan announced that he would appeal the decision to a higher court.

What motive impelled Prof. John Tiernan of Notre Dame University to parade his wife before the public as the mother of an illegitimate child while still loving her and claiming her as his own?

Why has he attempted to fasten the paternity of "Billy" on a local clothing saleman, Harry Poulin, while he still shelters the child and says he always will care for it as one of his own?

Why has he demanded a small sum of money from Poulin to pay the expenses of the maternity of the disputed?

Why has he held "Billy" the innocent victim of it all up to the public as a child born out of wedlock?

Prof. Tiernan answered these natural questions to-day. He said: "That justice may be done, the time has come when man must stand on the same moral plane with woman."

That, then, is the psychological influence behind a prosecution which has puzzled the nation.

There was no hasty action on the part of the university professor or his seemingly devoted wife. Theirs is indeed a strange case, and out of it has just come from the lips of "the woman" some sound reasoning as to the cause of "troubles in the home."

Sacrifice For Common Weal.

Prof. and Mrs. Tiernan acted against the advice of all their friends, against the advice of their priest ,and against the advice of the officers of law. For eight months the Tiernans studied the problem and sought the advice which in the end they tossed to the winds, deciding, as they say ,to forget convention, to forget themselves, in order that the larger problems, the welfare of innocent children and erring wmone, might be taken care of through future generations.

Both realize the sacrifices they have made in the hearing just ended. Both know that the public is a merciless, critic, but determined they were to test their theory in the court of good citizenship.

Mrs. Tiernan, more than her husband, is responsible for the airing of this alleged violation of the moral code, for it was she who literally forced her husband to submit to her will and bring about the arrest of the man she alleged not only led her astray but scorned her.

Prof. Tiernan detests divorce and separation, believing, as he stated today, that "the integrity of the home, the sanctity of marriage, and the happiness of the united family" will do more to uplift humanity than any other factors in life's routine.

Having come to these conclusions, Prof. and Mrs. Tiernan decided to act under the paternity laws of Indiana, and therefore prepared an affidavit which not only placed the man, who Mrs. Tiernan says is the father of her third born child, in jail, but also brought about a hearing in court, which has stirred the country from end to end.

Publicity Their Weapon.

Publicity, Prof. Tiernan believes, is the mighty weapon through which morals are to be kept at a high standard. Through the medium of publicity, this university teacher and author of legal textbooks believes that a betrayer of a woman may be expelled from a community and the minds of people raised to such a pinnacle that the evidence of a debasing union shall not suffer.

Subscribing to this thought furth, er, Prof. Tiernan said:

I do not represent myself in this case, but the unfortunate child. Even if I have to carry this battle to the point of community action, I shall see that justice is done. I shall involve the influence of friends with a view of expelling the invader of the home from the community. He is not only a standing challenge, but a menace to the community. He must be exposed thoroughly that the wronged woman may be comforted and the child acknowledged.

It is from Mrs. Tiernan, however, that one learns of the trials that have beset her, and in these trials she says, there is a lesson for all young married couples.

"Sometimes," she explained today, "although young husband love their wives devotedly ,they are inclined to give to their work a more apparent devotion than they concede to their helpmates. Or perhaps they have interests that require attention to the exclusion of the young wife. Naturally a young wife feels piqued when this is the case, and, unless she is more than ordinarily strong of will, she will seek amusements elsewhere that she should have with her husband."

Danger in Hum Drum.

Further ,as she explained her tragedy, Mrs. Tiernan called attention to those young wives who feel they are undergoing a period of semi-imprisonment in a home, where they meet only the same people day after day, where they go through the same old routine of baking, cooking, making beds, and polishing furniture, and feel they are entitled to a little relaxation. But their husbands, not being socially inclined or because they have their clubs and their men friends as well as the ever present change in conditions, wait to realize the danger in which their wives are placed when they meet young men of good appearance who seem to take a more than ordinary interest in them."

"Women," said Mrs. Tiernan, "will naturally seek the company of men who interest them more than their husbands do and who can give them the amusements their husbands can not or will not give.

"Perhaps they love their husbands as devotedly as ever, but perhaps they do not realize it until some sort of calamity brings the realization home to them."

In this case, supporting the theories advanced by the Tiernans, is the well grounded fact that at no time has an effort been made to force Harry Poulin to pay over a large sum of money. The only financial demand has been for the provision of a small fund to meet expenses incurred at the birth of the child and this, it is stated, is done only for technical reasons.

Another argument in sopport of their position is the continuance of their marital relations. During the days of the hearing, Prof. Tiernan has been as devoted to his wife as a bridegroom. She, in turn, has shown love for him by rising from her chair inside the bar to attack the lawyer who inferred that her protector, himself, was a violator of the moral code.

"There is every probability that the past will be forgotten," said Prof. Tiernan, reviewing the situation in his family to-day, "and that we will begin life anew with our interest in our children and home."

The baby in the case, he infers, will continue to remain as one of the family and will be educated and raised as well as the other two children.

Beautiful Lila Lee plays the female lead and Nita Naldi the adventuress. The entire cast is unusually strong and the quality of the acting has been very highly commended by prominent dramatic critics.

In spite of the cost of booking an attraction of this magnitude there will be no advance in prices at the Capitol during the engagement of "Blood and Sand."

FAREWELL WEEK OF THE EVANS' REVUE.

2 Special Productions.

To-night at the Grand will see the start of the 5th and farewell week of the popular Jimmie Evans' Musical Revue, when the first of two special productions will be presented. The offering for the first three days is entitled "CASEY'S TWINS" and is said to be the funniest revue of Jimie Evans' entire repertoire. All new musical numbers will be rendered and all the skits are said to be screemingly funny. Special costumes and effetcs are used, with new songs and dances, in fact the entire entertainment is one of the very best offered.

The farewell week should pack the Grand for the entire week, for it will be some time again before Peterborough theatre goers will have the pleasure of enjoying any better or cleaner form of entertainment than that offered by this clever organization, at the popular prices of admission.

The usual Saturday matinee will be given for the children at 2.30, when all children will be admitted for the small price of 11c. when something special will be introduced for the farewell matinee.

"LISTEN TO ME" A TREMENDOUS SUCCESS

It is interesting to know that America's greatest success, "Listen to Me," which swept all before it last season, proving one of the most popular and entertaining offerings of the entire season's output in the musical comedy field, will be presented at the Grand for one night only, Monday, October 9th.

"Listen to Me" is a modern extravaganza; it possesses music, dancing, lights, novelties and pretty girls. It is gorgeously mounted and whirls one from Hades to the North Pole and back through candyland, presenting some of the most bewildering scenic effects ever offered before the footlights, particularly the snow storm, glaciers and aurora-borealis in the land of the midnight sun.

With a cast of par-excellence, "Listen to Me" is promised as one of the few really dependable offerings of the season. Written by Charles George, who penned the book, lyrics and music, it possesses every available bit of comedy, brilliant settings and one of the smartest musical scores heard in a long time.

Tuneful and gay, with a romping, singing, dancing chorus of bewitching girls, who bid fair to rival the Ziegfeld types, have proven a great asset to this remarkable success from its opening performance, and the theatre-goers may look forward to their visit when they will share honors with the excellent cast whom they are called upon to support.

Many have become charmed with its tuneful score—others have adored its gorgeous scenic investiture, while many have claimed that the cast and chorus have been responsible for its phenomenal success; however, it requires a combination of book, music, novelties, costumes, cast and chorus to successfully present a great extravaganza and "Listen to Me" is indeed fortunate in possessing these many attributes.

HELP FOR SHIPS LACKING RADIO

Ships without radio facilities, hereafter, will get the U.S. weather reports—by radio.

This will be done through the aid of those ships that can pick up the weather warnings flashed over the waters from the scattered government stations. It will be a courtesy of the sea which will mean the saving of many lives and much money in vessels and cargo.

Orders for this service have been issued to managing agents and masters of the U.S. Shipping Board vessels. After picking up storm or other warnings by radio, they are to relay these by international code or other methods established for some time at sea. The warnings are flashed at regular intervals from any of about 20 high-powered radio stations throughout the world.

Whenever a vessel equipped with wireless picks up a weather warning and, during its course, sights another ship that lacks wireless facilities, the orders are that the reports be signalled by any of the old established codes.

Total of $1,111 Received —Three Outside Centres to Hear From.

The tag day held on Saturday by the local branch of the Children's Aid Society was quite successful, with a total of nearly $1,111 received, and three outside centres yet to hear from. A generous response from the majority of those approached is reported, although, in some instances, "a stare" was the only contribution rewarding the efforts of the energetic taggers.

That there does not esem to be as much money in circulation as at this time last year was the conclusion of one helper.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(Special.) —Relief over Sunday from the suspense of the Turkish crisis was promptly and emphatically reflected in all the markets to-day.

Sterling exchange rose 2 cents in the pound. English, French and Belgian bonds all rebounded, the last named with considerable violence. Cotton went up and wheat came down. The investment bond list was distinctly better and there was a sharp reversal all through the stock market.

Again it was a question, as it had been all last week, of how much the develpoments in the Near East were a primary and how much they were a secondary influence. Speculation had played a very large part in all the markets, in the foreign exchanges quite as much as in securities and commodities. The short interest had reached large dimension in all these directions. It was natural that the first piece of good news should have sent these short sellers into hurried retreat.

While the main impulse came from the buying in of short contracts, a lot of new buying orders which had been held up by the uncertainty of what might happen over the week end were released. These purchases did not begin to make themselves felt until after prices had an opening jump of one to two points and had settled back over half the ground gained. Then the market started forward again the railway shares this time falling into line with the industrials and public utilities, which had been most prominent at the outset.

The strength of the railway stocks showed that the market had shaken off the unfavorable influence of the August traffic statements and had begun to give more attention to the expansion in railway tonnage indicated by the latest statistics on car loadings and the complete disappearance of the empty car surplus. Heavy buying by Midvale Steel and recovery in other numbers of the steel group were proofs that the market had gone to an extreme in its professions of disappointment at the falling through of the Republic-Midvale merger.

Shares of railway equipment companies which had resisted last week's decline better than the rest, were conspicuous in the advance. As is well understood the basis for the movement in this class of stock is the remarkable increase in orders of the books of locomotive and car making companies, especially since the beginning of the second half year.

Sugar stocks were helped by a moderate raising of quotations on refined sugar.

MARKET EASIER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—London regards the Near East situation distinctly easier and Paris feels the danger point in the situation past. Federal Reserve Board says the banks are in an exceptionally strong position and meeting seasonal demands for credit with ease.

The Journal of Commerce estimates the cotton condition at 52.5 per cent. against last year condition of 44.7, but with this exception the lowest percentage in more than 20 years.

The Federal banks of Kansas City, Minneapolis, Cleveland and Philadelphia report better outlook for general trade this fall.

IN MEMORIAM

In proud and loving memory of Pte. Edward W. Payne who made the supreme sacrifice on October the 1st 1916:

Dear Edward how we miss you
As the weeks and years pass by
But it is God's blessed promise
That we shall meet thee again.

Short and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all
The blow was great and the shock severe,
We little thought his death so near
And only those who love can tell

HEBREWS OBSERVE DAY OF ATONEMENT

Yesterday and to-day marks observance by the Hebrews throughout the world of Yom Kippur or the Day of Atonement. Or this occasion Jewish people gather in their various synagoges in all parts of the world. Those removed from their families always endeavor to be among the family circle on this solemn occasion. Wherever the Jewish people happen to be they will cease to trouble over worldly concerns and give themselves wholly to thoughts of repentance. More than any other holiday of the synagogue Yom Kippur revives the confidence of the Jew in the ultimate triumph of God's love and justice.

The outward form of observance practised by the Jewish people on this day is abstention from food and drink.

Ford

An Ideal Realized

"I WILL build a motor car for the multitude. It shall be large enough for the family, but small enough for the unskilled individual to easily operate and care for—and it shall be light in weight that it may be economical in maintenance. It will be built of honest materials—by the best workmen that money can hire—after the simplest designs that modern engineering can devise. But it shall be so low in price that the man of moderate means may own one—and enjoy with his family the blessings of happy hours spent in God's great open spaces."

Behind every great undertaking is a great ideal born of great and sincere aspirations. At the time when the Ford Motor Company was organized, Henry Ford expressed his aspirations in this statement. The degree in which this ideal has been realized is measured in the world-wide popularity of the Ford Motor Car—the latest price reduction on which has just been put into effect--thus fulfilling Mr. Ford's ideal of building a car for the multitude.

ANTICIPATED THAT PARLEY WITH TURKS MAY NOT BE SMOOTH

British High Officials Point Out That Crisis Has Not Passed, Although They Attach High Hopes to the Meeting of Allied Generals With Turkish Emissaries

STRANGE SETTING FOR CONFERENCE

LONDON, October 3. — Canadian Press.—While the British officials attach high hopes to the meeting of the allied generals with the Turkish emissaries at Mudania, they point out that the crisis has not yet been passed.

It is not anticipated that the path of negotiations will be smooth, and early reports that the conference was in danger of being wrecked, would not surprise officialdom here. It is believed however that if the allies stand firm on the Paris programme two or three days will see a successful termination of the conference and a favorable answer to the joint allied note from Kemal Pasha.

Never was there a stranger setting for a conference of world powers than this little village on the southern shore of the Sea of Marmora. Nothing about Mudania is impressive, save for the bulk of the snow-capped Mount Olympus rising majestically in the distance. The town is squalid and distressing. There is not a single building of architectural beauty ,and the houses are of mud. There is no sound of railways; no restaurants; no post office, and no evidence of modern life. Such is the setting to-day for the conference upon the result of which denpends peace or war between Britain and the Turks.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3. Canadian Press. — Turkish cavalry has retired from the advanced positions in the Chanak area, decreasing danger of conflict there.

This withdrawal, which is described in messages from the Dardanelles as "slight," was supposed here to be in consequence of word received by the Turks that the Mundania conference was in session. The Turks, however, were said to be still well within the neutral zone.

FLEET MANOEUVRES.

RUSSIA FOR PEACE.

MOSCOW, October 3. (Canadian Press. — Soviet Russia's aims are all toward peace, according to General Daniloff, Chief Commissioner of the Red Army to-day, when denying the reports that Soviet artillery was being sent to aid the Turks.

"Because of the belligerent attitude of various countries regarding Russia," he said, "we must always stand ready and prepared against attack, but so far as the Greece-Turkish war is concerned we made absolutely no preparations. Why should we "

LEISURELY PROGRESS TO CHURCH UNION GOAL

LONDON, Oct. 3. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The Glasgow Herald contrasts the leisurely progress by which the goal of church union in Scotland is being reached with the bolder and speedier measures that are being taken in Canada. It recognizes the fact that Scottish negotiations are complicated by State connection involving delays due to parliamentary procedure and legal problems.

"AUTOMOBILE FOOT" A NEW AFFLICTION

CHICAGO, Oct. 3. — Dr. Charles Cross, of San Francisco, in Chicago attending the fifth annual convention of physical therapeutists, announced a brand new affliction—"automomile foot."

Automobile foot is caused, declared Dr. Cross, by the driver holding the foot for prolonged periods on the accelerator button. The lesion thus formed is usually located at the second toe. The motorist may feel distress in his foot long before he knows what is the matter with him. Sensations of pain occur across the ball of the foot, alternately increasing and decreasing, until it attracts alarm.

"Wearing pointed shoes," declared the physician, "causes the bones in the foot to fold over each other. In this weakened condition a sudden, forceful pushing of the clutch pedal with the left, or a similar application of the right to the foot brake, may be the first cause of 'automobile foot.'"

ROOKIE POLICEMAN SHOOTS DETECTIVE

Drops With Six Bullet Wounds After Battle With Regulars.

NEW YORK, October 3. — A "rookie" in the Police Department Training School, Thomas Mahoney, who fired a revolver into a crowd on West 135th Street, near Fifth Avenue, then fought a duel with two detectives and a policeman until six bullets dropped him to the pavement.

Physicians said afterwards that Mahoney apparently was crazed by poisonous liquor. He and two other probationary policemen, both of whom fled during the firing, had been making the rounds of Harlem resorts in the negro districts and were leaving a cabaret when Mahoney fired his revolver. He was leaning against the rear of a taxicab when Detectives C. D. Connelly and John T. Donohue of the West 135th Street Station appeared. They saw two negroes running from the place, followed by another shot from Mahoney's revolver.

Donohue leaped to seize the probationer's revolver, but Mahoney fired again and Dohonue fell. Darting around the side of the taxicab, Mahoney fired a second shot at Connelly, who returned the fire. In the meantime, Policeman Edward Friel climbed into the taxicab and opened fire. Mahoney finally crumpled up, still holding his revolver.

The crowd which had watched the battle from a distance closed in, and had to be dispersed by the reserves, so that the detective and his assailant could be taken to the Harlem Hospital .

Donohue's wound was found to be in the abdomen. To Deputy Chief Inspector Henry and Inspector Sweeney, Mahoney said:

"I was coming out of the cabaret when they tried to hold me up, and I began firing. I know nothing that happened after that until I came to my senses at ten o'clock this morning." He was received at the hospital shortly after two o'clock and had been unconscious most of the intervening hours until noon. Despite his wounds, which are in his limbs, body, head, and lung, it was thought last night that he may survive. He was a brakeman on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad before he was admitted to the training school on 7th August for the course of six months.

This escapade will end his prospects of becoming a policeman. He is in the prison ward on a charge of felonious assault, which he will have to face in the event of recovery.

Recruits are not permitted to have a revolver . Where Mahoney got the revolver is a matter that is under investigation. They are also searching for the two "rookies" who were with him. Like other recruits Mahoney had been assigned to a station to get practical experience in police patrolling .

On Saturday night he was sent out from the West Forty-seventh Street Station with a regular policeman on post. At ten o'clock he reported back to the station his prescribed tour having ended and was relieved from further duty.

Donohue's condition was said to be very dangerous. He is the father of seven children and lives at 1227 St. Lawrence Avenue, The Bronx. He has been a member of the department since 1904.

TENDERS TO BE INVITED FOR SEWER WORK

Minority of Council, However, Contend Park St. Construction Should Be Done by Day Labor.

WORK FOR WINTER

That tenders be invited for constructing the Park Street sewer, in reality an annex of the new sewage disposal plant, was the decision of the City Council last evening, after a brief debate in which Ald. Crowe strongly protested that the work should be done by day labor to furnish work for the unemployed this winter. He found warm supporters in Chairman Ald. Hamilton and Stocker, the others contending that Ald. Crowe's object would be served by provision in any contract which might be let that local labor be employed and prevailing wages here paid.

The deciding motion, fathered by Ald. Phelan and Morrison, read that the Engineer be instructed to prepare specifications and invite tenders for constructing the Park Street sewer; the Engineer to put in a price himself. Also that the specifications include that the city's scale of wages be paid and local labor employed.

This carried on the following division:

Yeas — Ald. Phelan, Holloway, Jones, Morrison and Gainey.

Says—Ald. Stocker, Crowe and Hamilton.

Ald. Phelan contended that an important and costly work like this warrants that every precaution be used to avoid unnecessary expenditure; the city's debenture debt is high enough as it is. And Ald. Morrison was in perfect accord with these sentiments.

Chairman Ald. Hamilton feared the preparation of more detailed specifications than would otherwise be necessary, advertising for tenders and reaching a conclusion, would cause regrettable delay at a time when the work might be under way by day labor.

Ald. Crowe concurred in this, and pointed out that Council has been looking forward to this undertaking furnishing work for unemployed during the winter. He was afraid that were the construction let to a contractor he would not be bound to engage the men sent to him by Council, thereby causing dissention, trouble and agitation. "We have been' building other sewers by day labor," he said "then why not undertake this one on the same principle?"

Ald. Crowe found a warm supporter in Ald. Stocker. The city has, he said, built sewers by day labor very successfully all season.

Ald. Phelan pointed out that the specifications accompanying bids for tenders could carry provision that local labor be employed.

"Engineer Parsons made it quite clear that owing to the nature of the soil on Park Street South—some portions may be quicksand — first-class men will be a necessity.

Ald. Holloway and Jones agreed that no harm would be entailed by getting tenders, together with a price from the City Engineer, which policy they could not anticipate as affecting seriously the unemployment situation.

A NORWOOD MAN WON THE PRIZE

Mr. Wendt of Norwood, was the winner of the ten dollar gold piece offered by the Cressman Company, Limited, to the person guessing the nearest correct number to the total of people served in their store last week. Owing to a similar contest which is being run this week, it was thought inadvisable to publish the number guessed. Mr. Wendt's guess was within 35 of the correct number. The nearest competitor of Mr. Wendt in Peterboro itself came within 43 of the total.

Are on Strike,

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 3. — (Canadian Press.) — Fishermen at Rossport, who have been selling their catch to the Nipigon Fish Company, have gone on strike and tied up their tugs since the announcement that they would be paid seven cents per pound for their fish with heads off instead of eight cents straight as formerly.

Gangsters Shoot Witnesses Who "Squealed" in Hoey Murder Case

NEW YORK, October 3. — For the second time since William Hoey, gangster, was convicted of the murder of Patrolman Daniel J. Neville in a vacant lot in West Thirty-ninth Street a witness against Hoey was shot yesterday.

Detectives of the West Thirtieth Street Station, unable to learn any of the circumstances of the shooting, concluded that Hell's Kitchen gangsters had organised to terrorise the "squealers," and had embarked on a campaign, to exterminate those who were instrumental in sending Hoey to Sing-Sing to serve from twenty years to life

The man shot yesterday was George Swan, 48, of 615 West Forty-sixth Street. With a bullet which had penetrated his body just under the right lung, lodging in his liver, Swan was taken to French Hospital in a taxicab by two men who said they had found him in front of Rothenberg & Son's drug store at the north-east corner of Thirty-sixth Street and Ninth Avenue.

Dr. Erwin gave Swan first-aid treatment and sent him to Bellevue, where it was believed he could not recover.

Swan stubbornly refused to explain his injury . Detective Clancy could find no one who had seen Swan shot. Clancy learned that a shot had been heard in Trirty-ninth Street between Nint and Tenth Avenues early in the afternoon at about the hour Swan was injured. Clancy believed that Swan might have been shot there and, perhaps, had tried to walk to the drug store for aid. He collapsed on the step of the store.

Neville was murdered in August, 1921, in a vacant lot inhabited by gangsters and known as the "Pirates' Den." The place was used as a storage yard. Hoey, night watchman there, as well as a gangster and a drug addict, fled, but surrendered to Father Cashin at Sing-Sing, expressing fear of being beaten if taken by the police here. He was indicted and convicted in the second degree. According to the police, Swan was one of those who aided the police and the prosecution.

The meeting of the Church of England people of the Deanery of Northumberland and Peterborough opened this morning at 11 o'clock at St. John's Church, with Holy Communion service, attended by nearly one hundred and fifty members of the congregation and delegates from the Deanery district, including Havelock, Hastings, Young's Point, Apsley, Campbellford, Brighton, Cobourg, Warkworth, Wooller, Lakefield and Norwood. The celebrant at this morning's service was Rev. Rural Dean C. E. Clarke, of Campbellford, assisted by Canon F. J. Sawers of Cobourg, Rev. Dr. Blagrave and Rev. R. B. Grobb. Other clergymen present were: Rev. W. A. Pippen of Hastings, Rev. W. Pickford of Brighton, Rev. C. A. G. Spence of Apsley, Rev. C. G. King of Lakefield, Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton of Norwood, Rev. T. H. Stanley of Havelock, Rev. Mr. Hughes of Young's Point, and Rev. (Major) Belford of Warkworth.

Rev. Canon Sawers preached a beautiful and impressive sermon on the call to service, emphasizing the need of seeking that which we can give, rather than what we can get out of life.

Dinner was served by the ladies of St. John's Church in the Parish Hall. This afternoon, conferences are being held in All Saints' Church, with tea served by the ladies of that congregation, and this evening, a general rally will be held in St. John's Parish Hall, at which several interesting and instructive addresses will be delivered.

MIXED PROGRAM AT KIWANIS CLUB

Sir Adam Beck May Address the Club on the Power Question.

At the Kiwanis Club luncheon today, W. H. Lacey occupied the chair in the absence of President Frank Whitehouse. A feature of a varied programme was a couple of solos by John J. Ball ,well known local baritone, accompanied by Martin Chenall, organist of St. Paul's church. Mr. Ball posseses an excellent voice and had to respond to an encore. J. A. McKone and Alex. Dick, delegates to the Kiwanis convention held in Windsor, recently presented written and verbal reports of their trip. The convention brought out a lot of information relative to the progress of the Kiwanis movement. The aims and objects of Kiwanis were enunciated at the convention and plans were made for an extension of the work. The need of cultivating closer relations between the Quebec and Ontario districts with a possible exchange of speakers, was also put forth with good promise of results in the near future.

Frank McPherson was booster for the day and three of the member received acceptable prizes.

Kiwanian M. Hamilton announced that he had communicated with Sir Adam Beck with a view of having Sir Adam address the Kiwanis Club on the Hydro question. "This was done so that the Kiwanians would have an opportunity of hearing both sides of the question," said Kiwanian Hamilton." So far Sir Adam has not replied.

MUST KEEP THE STRAITS FREE

Is Essential to Peace and Progress of Europe Says Mr. Rowell.

TORONTO, October 3 (Canadian Press). — Combining lucidity and directness with fiery eloquence the Hon. N. W. Rowell last night carried double audiences which filled Massey Hall and the Metropolitan Church, to a pitch of enthusiasm with his exposition of the causes of and the lessons to be learned from the present crisis in the Near East.

Addressing two great public meetings called in connection with the sessions of the Methodist General Conference, the former President of the Privy Council of Canada supported Sir Robert Borden in urging on the legislative body the great church the necessity of definite concerted action on the part of organised Christianity in the interests of world peace and as a preventive of such menacing conditions as now existed at the eastern end of the Mediterranean.

In a word, Mr. Rowell declared that the freedom of the Dardanelles was essential to the peace and progress of Europe; that the blame for the present crisis lay with the Allied Supreme Council, and not with the League of Nations; that force could never permanently settle the conflicting demands of race and creed; that it should be remembered that Great Britain, dealing with the situation, had to meet the desires of an Empire more than half Moslem; and that so-called concessions which Britain had announced were not concessions at all, but were in reality notices of an intention to carry out the terms of the Sevres Treaty as originally agreed upon.

PRICE OF HARD COAL BETWEEN $16 AND $17

COUNCIL'S ACTION

With some anthracite nut coal reported to Council as sold in Peterborough at $16 a ton yesterday, the City Council last night concluded that there was no need to accept Provincial Fuel Controller Ellis' intimation that he would fix the price of hard coal for this municipality were he requested to do so by the Citys' Fuel Commission. Such adjustment would be based on Toronto's price of $15.50 a ton, plus 80c. for transportation here from Toronto, necessitating its distribution to consumers at $16.30.

Council also agreed with Ald. Morrison and Ald. Hamilton that local dealers would do the square thing with consumers in the way of price without any compulsory movement by the Provincial or Municipal Administrator, whoever the latter may be. For the time being Ald. Holloway will act in the capacity of administrator, pending a permanent appointment later on.

On the coal question Provincial Controller J. A. Ellis advised Council that where any municipal council passes a resolution asking him to fix the price of anthracite coal in that municipality he will request representatives of that municipality and coal dealers in the same place to come to Toronto, when he would go fully into the matter. This is essential before an order can be made fixing the price of anthracite.

He also stated that the price of coal at the mines has been fixed at $8.50 a ton and no increase will be allowed excepting in any special case where a mine owner can show his inability to operate at that price.

An Embargo Danger.

Reporting on his consultation with Controller Ellis in Toronto, Ald. Holloway added in addition to the report in the Examiner last week, that he was warned that hereafter were a municipality's dealers to bid high prices at the mines, an embargo would be placed by the U. S. controller on coal for that community. Also that a dealer will be privileged to see what coal he has in his bins before the fuel regulations come into force at a price to give him a fair profit—even though that price be $21 a ton—if he can do so in competition with anthracite which comes through the regular channels at $15.50 a ton in Toronto and proportionately elsewhere. Likewise a consumer having already 100 per cent of normal requirements in his cellar will be allowed to retain that amount, but hereafter under regulations no houseer will be permitted to have more than a month's supply of hard coal in his bins at one time.

$20,000 For Coal.

The Ontario Railway and Municipal Board having approved of Council's appropriating $20,000 for the purchase of fuel, a by-law to authorize issuing debentures to borrow that sum was adopted.

CIGARETTE SMOKING HARMFUL TO WOMEN.

Habit in Many Instances Growing Into a Vice.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The enormous increase of cigarette smoking among women, says the medical correspondent of the London Times, calls for some protest by the medical profession. He declares th. habit in many instances is passing beyond a pleasure and becoming a vice.

"The absorption of nicotine, which is the danger element in the matter," the correspondent proceeds, "produces a condition of nervous distress which is frequently painful to observe. From this proceed palpitations and exhaustion and outbursts of emotion. Woman's delicate nervous organism was certainly not intended to endure large doses of this poison. Her functions as a mother cannot but be interfered with when she indulges in it to excess."

It is the habit of many English women and girls to smoke cigarettes in public and not a few may be seen in restaurants and hotels smoking long, slender pipes. Women's organizations and social improvement societies have begun a crusade againnst this inelegant and unwomanly p...ctice."

COUNCIL ACCEPTED CHIEF'S REPORT ON FIRE ALARM MIX-UP

The Incident Now Closed, But Ald. Morrison Wondered Why Fire Chief George Gimblet Had Not Disciplined Himself as Well as His Men.

ROUTINE BUSINESS BY CITY COUNCIL

"Why did not Fire Chief George Gimblett take a little punishment himself as well as disciplining his men" queried Ald. Morrison last night on hearing read the former's report on the mix-up in reading the fire alarm number Saturday week. "I understand that he himself went to Box 23 instead of to Box 113."

Ald. Jones started a ripple of controversy in Council, when the Fire, Water and Light committee recommended that the Chief's explanation submitted them Friday night be received, which it was on motion of Ald. Stocker and Crowe.

Ald. Jones wanted a more accurate report on the working on the alarm recording tape and indicator in the fire hall. While he did nto wish to create trouble between the Chief and Council, still he was anxious that a similar mix-up should not occur again. Hence he moved that the report go to the Committee of the Whole Council for fuller inquiry. He found a seconder in Ald. Morrison, but the motion failed to carry.

Replying to Ald .Morrison, Ald. Stocker said the firemen had distinct instructions from Chief Gimblett to take two readings of the tape before leaving the hall for a fire. Not having done so in this instance they had been penalized for relying on the indicator.

Ald. Jones, with some asperity, remarked that the man who did make for the right alarm box with the ladder apparatus and turned back on finding that the motor truck had gone to Box 23, had been penalized too. "It must have been some mix-up," he exclaimed.

Ald. Crowe explained that the Chief was picked up by his car on the way home from the ball game; he interpreted the public alarm as 113, but his driver declared he had instructions that the number received at the station was 23. That is why he went after the motor rig at 23, corier of George and Hunter streets.

Ald. Morrison thought 113 might be misleading, but Ald. Stocker replied that that number was punctured on the tape quite distinctly.

And here the incident closed.

Pay For Assistance.

Fire Chief George Gimblett, in his monthly report, suggested that Council should provide for receiving adequate remuneration from outside municipalities when Peterborough's fire brigade responds to their calls for assistance. This was sent to the Fire, Water and Light committee.

Build a Canopy.

Th Cressman Co., Limited, asked permission to erect a permanent canopy at thier store's main entrance on George street; and on motion of Ald. Jones and Phelan the request was granted, same to be erected under supervision of the City Engineer. The company to agree to assume responsibility for any damages that may accrue from this canopy, and that they pay the usual fee for illuminated signs.

Road Needs Repair.

Matthew McMahon and others complained of the conditions of the road east of and between the liftlock and the C.P.R. tracks, which at times is quite impassable. They asked that the road be repaired. On motion of Ald. Gainey this was sent to the City Engineer and Works Board chairman with power to act.

OPEN MEETING OF THE ASSOCIATION

Entrance Certificates Presented to Pupils of Queen Alexandra School

An open meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held last evening in the school hall, with a good attendance. Mr. J. W. Worth occupied the chair. The meeting, which opened with the singing of "O Canada" and the National Anthem, was composed of brief addresses and a short musical programme. Mr. E. F. Mason presented entrance certificates to 32 pupils of the school, the dainty rolls tied with the school colors of black and gold. Both Mr. Mason and Mr. Worth made feeling references to the long years of successful service given by Mr. H. A. Yenney, and also extended a cordial welcome to the new principal, Mr. M. H. Park. A vote of thanks to those taking part in the programme and to Mr. Mason was moved by Mr. Worth, and Mr. Joseph Wearing, seconded by Mr. J. W. Fraser, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Worth.

An enjoyable musical programme was contributed to by Miss Ruby Quartermaine, in a vocal solo, accompanied by Miss M. Flowers; Miss Dorothy Townsend, reading; Master Donald Rathbone and Master Hedley Vickers, piano solos.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. H. Vance, assisted by the feminine members of the school staff.

BRICKLAYERS ARE STILL IN DEMAND

W. H. Yates in the City Today Looking for Help —School Contracts.

W. H. Yates, of the Yates Construction Company, was in the city to-day closing up some business in connection with the filtration plant which was recently completed by the company. "Everything is satisfactory," was Mr. Yates' comment on the filtration plant contract. The plant was put up well within the time limit, and those associated with the project are well satisfied with the result. The Yates Construction Company has a contract for building a Collegiate and Vocational Training School in St. Catharines and Guelph, and in this connection is looking for carpenters and bricklayers.

THE WEATHER

This summer and fall have been very much like that of 1920. Like that year the summer was marked by an absence of extreme heat, and what warm weather we had came in September. The warmest day this summer was Sept. 5th, with 91 degrees; the lowest temperature in September was 28 degrees on the 26th; the rain for the month was 2.21. Rain fell on nine days. The weather in the fall of 1920 was particularly fine and this fall so far has given us ideal weather. The winter of 1920 was an unusually mild one, with very few zero days. Here's hoping that this year may still continue to follow a worthy example. —W. P.

PRICE THREE CENTS — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1922 — PRICE THREE CENTS

HALF BILLION LETTERS THE BURDEN OF CANADA'S MAILS

STAMP SALES HEAVY.

OTTAWA, October 3 (Canadian Press). — More than 500,000,000 letters and postcards and some350,000,000 newspapers are carried through the Canadian mails in the course of a year's business according to figures presented by the Post Office Department to the conference of postal officials yesterday.

In addition 50,000,000 parcels and 250,000,000 circulars, etc., are handled, the statement giving approximate figures for a year's business showed; in the course of twelve months 10,000,000 money orders and 6,000,000 postal notes are issued. There are 12,200 post offices operated and 12,400 mail routes.

The summary of a year's business was given to the postal officials as indicative of the place of the post office in the business life of the Dominion. Translated into dollars, the mail service expenditure for a year was stated to be $15,000,000, and the annual cost of rural delivery service $2,750,000.

Postage stamp sales in the course of a year, it was pointed out, reach the enormous total of $28,350,000, while money order transactions entailed the changing hands of $270,000,000. Postal note transactions totalled $25,000,000, and there was on deposit in post office savings banks approximately $25,000,000.

OCEAN FALLS, B. C., Oct. 3. — (Canadian Press.)— Five men were killed in a landslide at Elcho Harbor, 20 miles from here, Sunday, according to word received here yesterday. ROSES FOR MURPHY OPENS C.O.D. SERVICE.

New Departure By Dominion Post Office.

OTTAWA, October 3 (Canadian Press). — Some years ago, when the parcel post was established under the Hon. L. P. Pelletier as Postmaster-General, the first parcel was a basket of flowers sent to Mr. Pelletier with the good wishes of postal officials.

Yesterday the new c.o.d. postal service was opened; and at the afternoon's sitting of the conference of the Dominion postal officials it was proposed that the occasion might fittingly be marked by sending to the Hon. Charles Murphy, Postmaster-General, a basket of roses.

The proposal was welcomed with loud acclaim. "The c.o.d. service opened to-day," humorously suggested one official. "So why not be appropriate and send the roses — c.o.d.?"

VENIZELOS STILL KEEPS COUNSEL

No Statement on Situation Affecting Greek Claims.

LONDON, Oct. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—M. Venizelos conferred with Lord Curzon last evening and interviewed a number of prominent officials during the course of the day. He still declines, however, to make any public statement, on the ground that he desires to be more completely informed on the situation. He hopes to confer with Premier Poincare at Paris to-day.

ENGLISH EMIGRANTS ARE INTERESTED IN AUSTRALIA.....

MELBOURNE, Oct. 3.— (Associated Press).—Australia as a land of opportunity for the immigrant from England is catching the imagination of the English people, according to a letter received here from the English High Commissioner in London, Sir. Joseph Cook.

Sir Joseph declared recently in a speech that one immigrant from England came to Australia with nine pence in his pocket and now is in charge of the Australian Immigration Service in London. He was referring to Jack Barnes, who is also owner of 15,000 acres of wheat lands in the Commonwealth. In the week following the speech the High Commisioner's office received 24,000 requests for information on how to get to Australia under the immigration provisions.

OTTAWA, October 3 (Canadian Press). — A call has been sent out for a meeting of Cabinet on Wednesday afternoon.

This will be the first meeting in ten days, and it is expected that when the Ministers come together they will have before them something from the armistice conference dealing with the Near East situation.

While the members of the Cabinet have not been meeting in council, they have had before them daily reports on the situation from overseas, and have thus been able to keep in constant touch with developments.

While the armistice conference agreed to between the Allies and the Turks may last for some days, it is expected that some official information from it will be available for the Cabinet by the time it meets on Wednesday afternoon.

COCAINE RAID IN MONTREAL

Peddlers of Narcotics Are Rounded Up While Plying Deadly Traffic.

MONTREAL, October 3 (Canadian Press). — Constituting one of the largest drug seizures for some time back, sixty-five bottles, each alleged to contain an ounce of cocaine, formed the principal exhibit produced by the prosecution yesterday afternoon in the case of Henri Lavoie, charged with being in the illegal possession of narcotics.

The contents of one of the bottles was analysed at Ottawa, but the defence claimed that the others contained an inoffensive powder.

Hearing was accordingly adjourned until next Monday to allow of the analysis of three more bottles.

Other drug cases included the dismissal of the charge of selling heroin illegally preferred against Ernest Choux, druggist, of 1210 Mount Royal Avenue; and the case of Ernest Leroux, charged with selling cocaine to a girl 17 years of age.

Leroux had been sent for summary trial, but Judge Cusson pointed out that the offence was one triable on indictment, the girl being a minor. It was decided to hear the case over again, and it will be decided in the Enquete Court where a magistrate will decide whether Leroux should be tried or not.

Wong Ben, alias Johnny Wong, was found guilty in the Recorder's Court of being in possession of 76 "decks" of cocaine. He was sentenced to six months in jail, and a fine of $200.00, or in default to spend another six months in jail.

Five others who were arraigned, were remanded.

MANITOBA'S DRYS TO GIVE BATTLE

Preparing to Defeat Efforts of Moderationists.

WINNIPEG, October 3 (Canadian Press). — With a view to defeating the Moderationists and the liquor interests, the first step by the Prohibition forces to formulate a campaign for the forthcoming Referendum in Manitoba will be taken here to-day, when the organisation of a Temperance Board for the Province will be effected between representatives of the Social Service Council, United Farmers of Manitoba, and various church societies.

"The United Farmers have always been strongly in favour of Prohibition, and they are determined to carry on a most strenuous campaign to defeat its overthrow," stated W. R. Wood, secretary of the U. F. M., yesterday in discussing the conference.

The Manitoba Moderation League is also preparing plans for the Referendum, and on Thursday night Sir William Stavert, member of the Quebec Liquor Commission, will address the annual general meeting of the League here.

A Bill and petition asking for Government control and sale of liquors is now under preparation for presentation to the next session of the Provincial Legislature.

ALLIED COMMISSIONERS SAY TURKS' TERMS NOT ACCEPTABLE ON EVE OF MOMENTOUS CONFERENCE AT MUDANIA

French Envoy to Kemal Confident That An Agreement Will Be Reached — Believes Turk Leader Will Make Great Effort For Peace — Deal With Military Questions Only at To-Day's Meeting.

ALLIES AGREE ON DECISION.

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 3 (Canadian Press). — The Kemalist proposals which will be laid formally before the Mudania conference to-day are "discussable, but not acceptable."

This was the decision of the extraordinary council, which met at the British Embassy yesterday afternoon. It included the Allied High Commissioners, Ambassadors, Generals and Admirals.

M. Franklin-Bouillon, the French envoy, through whose efforts with Kemal Pasha the conference was made possible, expressed his confident belief to the Associated Press correspondent last evening that an agreement would be reached to-day at Mudania.

"Kemal will make an even greater effort for peace than he has made for war," he said.

Two of the most important questions to be discussed at the conference will be demarcation of a new neutral zone on the Asiatic shores of the Dardanelles and at Ismid, and the evacuation of Thrace.

BRITISH ATTITUDE ON THRACIAN PROBLEM.

PARIS, October 3 (Canadian Press). — Lord Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, has made known to Count Du Saint Aulaire, the French Minister at London, the attitude which the British will take at the Mudania conference with regard to Thrace.

The Briish General will be instructed to adhere as far as possible to the view of the French and Italian Generals respecting the limits to which the Greeks should retire to await definite egulation by the Peace Treaty.

As the question of the provisional administration of Thrace falls under the jurisdiction of the High Commissioners, this matter will be settled at a later conference of the Commissioners in Constantinople.

The Mudania conference to-day will, therefore, be taken up entirely with military questions, including the evacuation of the neutral zones in Asia Minor, at the British Government's suggestion, instead of being dealt with at a separate conference, as originally arranged.

Franklin-Bouillon Returning to Paris

Will Make Official Report of His Negotiations.

PARIS October 3 (Canadian Press). — M. Franklin-Bouillon is expected to return to Paris at the end of the week and lay before Premier Poincare a full report of his peace efforts.

Official quarters in Paris say he has reported that the chances for a peaceful settlement are bright and has expressed the opinion that the Allies will not find the Turks difficult to deal with at Mudania.

KEMAL'S ARMISTICE CONDITIONS

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 3 (Canadian Press). — Hamid Bey, representing the Angora Government, accompanied by M. Franklin-Bouillon, the French envoy, will leave this morning for Mudania on the cruiser Metz. General Mombelli, who will represent Italy at the conference, will proceed on the Victor Emmanuel; General Sharpi, for France, on the Jean Bart; and General Harrington, on the Iron Duke.

PRESS EXCLUDED.

The Mudania conference will begin at one o'clock this afternoon.

The British naval authorities have ordered the cessation of all marine traffic in the neighbourhood of Mudania, and newspaper correspondents are to be excluded from the meetings.

Daily communiques will be issued on the results of the conference and transmitted by wireless to Constantinople.

General Harrington's consenting to meet Ismet Pasha, instead of Mustapha Kemal, is causing much comment; there is a vast difference in their ranks, General Harrington being Commander-in-Chief of the Allied forces while Ismet is only second in command of the Nationalist Army.

KEMAL'S CONDITIONS.

It is learned that M. Franklin-Bouillon has secured Kemal's pledge to suspend military movements during the armistice conference provided the Allies accept the following conditions:

Three—The occupation of Thrace by Turkish Nationalist gendarmerie.

Five—Evacuation of Thrace within eight days by the Greek Army.

BOUILLON MEETS ALLIES.

One of the British proposals it is reported will be the establishment of a new neutral zone on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles.

M. Franklin-Bouillon had an interview this afternoon with General Harrington and also meetings last evening and to-day with the Allied High Commissioners to all of whom he gave an account of his negotiations with Kemal Pasha.

The presence of small detachments of Turkish infantry in the neutral zone near Chanak yesterday morning is reported.

UNIONIST PARTY SEEKS FREEDOM

Reply to Proposed Coalition to Combat Socialism.

LONDON, Oct. 3. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The suggestion of Sir George Younger, chairman of the conservative party, in a speech last week, that conservative support ought to continue to be given to the coalition to fight socialism, meets emphatic opposition from conservatives of prominence in the north of England who, for the most part, are inclined to express the opinion that the socialist menace, if such really exists in a formidable way,, should not be fought by a conservative and liberal alliance against labor.

The Yorkshire Post has collected the views of unionists in the north of England which show an almost unanimous desire for a return to complete independence by the unionist party.

The Post itself doubts whether the party leaders can be persuaded to this view at present but urges that every independent conservative who goes to the country as such will be an argument for their conversion.

From the Independent liberal quarters there comes the opinion that Bonar Law will ultimately decide which way the conservative cat will jump. Lord Long, as already cabled, has declared for the maintenance of the present government for the time being at all events. But Bonar Law is lying very low, doubtless because he appreciates the extreme effect which the present international position may have upon the domestic situation. There is a prospect of interesting developments before the holding of the national union conference in the middle of November.

AN ISOLATED BRITISH ACTION VERY DANGEROUS

Would be Politically Unwise and Militarily Unsound.

LONDON, Oct. 3. — (Canadian Press.)— Independent Liberal leaders, H. H. Asquith, Viscount Grey, Marquis of Crewe, Viscount Gladstone and Sir D. MacLean have issued a statement unanimously declaring that the isolated British action in the Near East would be politically unwise and militarily unsound, and would constitute a grave danger to the Empire. The statement says there is a real peril that the government may yet involve the nation single handed and without cause in a war of unlimited scope. A policy of concerted action it holds, is the only one that can command the support of a united people.

BUFFALO ROAMING IN NORTH COUNTRY.

Surveyor Reports Having Seen Them Along Slave River.

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—Fred V. Siebert, of the Dominion Survey Branch, is in the city on his way out from a summer in the north country. He has spent the season in doing exploration work through a large tract of practically unknown country west of the Slave river at the extreme top of Alberta and beyond, and says it has been one of the most interesting seasons he ha syet experienced in the north.

There are large herds of wood buffalo in the Slave River region, says Mr. Siebert and all indications that they are yearly increasing.

THE PRICE OF COAL.

The City Council has decided not to ask the Provincial Fuel Controller to fix a maximum price for anthracite coal in Peterborough.

In coming to this decision the Council has paid the coal dealers of Peterborough a splendid compliment. They are to be trusted to do the square thing by the people of Peterborough and to be satisfied with a reasonable percentage of profit.

There will be varying opinions about the action of the Council, of course, and possibly the dealers themselves would have preferred to have the price fixed by Fuel Controller Ellis, thus removing the onus from their shoulders to that of the Provincial Fuel Controller, but after all the City Fathers, in trusting to the fair-mindedness and honesty of the men engaged in the coal business, may have taken the wisest course.

More important, perhaps, than the question of price is the matter of fair distribution. It is necessary to see that the fuel hogs are tamed and that the hard coal which is beginning to arrive in Peterborough is equitably distributed. With a forty per cent. shortage in our normal allotment, it will be necessary to exercise great care to prevent some people from getting more than their fair share.

A SANITORIUM NEEDED.

Dr. Cameron, in his address to the Rotary Club yesterday, touched upon a crying need when he pointed out that Peterborough was perhaps the only city in Ontario that did not possess a sanitorium for the care of tuberculous patients.

The necessity of such an institution is readily apparent, and it is hoped before long that steps will have been taken to provide the desired accommodation.

As matters exist at present, the patient afflicted with the white plague and desiring treatment has to seek a sanitorium elsewhere. That means months and even years of absence from the home city and from friends and relatives, and the mental distress thus caused has in many cases a very marked effect in reducing the morale of the patient and in lowering his resistance.

If local people suffering from tuberculosis could be treated in Peterborough, where their friends could visit them, their chances for recovery would be materially incrased; and it is a reproach to our claims to be progressive and modern than no accommodation for tuberculous patients is provided here.

THE TEACHERS' TOUR.

The school teachers of Peterboroughg, in deciding upon a tour of inspection of the Rochester schools instead of the annual convention, have departed widely from the usual routine, but the innovation seems to be a wise one.

Rochester has a fine school system, and some splendid schools that are a model of their kind.

In addition to the opportunity of inspecting these modern buildings, Peterborough's teachers will obtain a new viewpoint as a result of their visit across the line.

There is nothing like seeing what they are doing in other places to broaden the mind and enlarge the mental outlook, and the local teachers will gain in this regard as a consequence.

Conventions have their useful place in the scheme of things. They furnish much helpful information and afford considerable inspiration to those who attend. They bring to bear a community effort to settle problems that are of mutual interest, and in that connection they are to be encouraged.

At the same time nothing will be lost this year by the substitution of an inspection tour for the annual convention.

FIRE HAZARDS AND THE FUEL SHORTAGE.

Many new fire hazards are being introduced by the fuel shortage. Much soft coal is being stored in the basements of dwellings, apartment houses and mercantile buildings and on the premises of factories. Spontaneous combustion in this is likely to start fires, and great care should be shown in the selection of coal and in its storage and use.

Canada will not receive its usual amount of anthracite this year, and soft coal must be used in stoves and furnaces constructed for other fuel. The large amount of soot deposited by soft coal is apt to clog the smoke pipes and chimneys and cause forcing of the furnaces, while the fumes and gases from soft coal will have a deteriorating effect upon the mortar in chimneys and thus lead to defective flue fires.

A number of householders are investigating the possibility of using fuel oil and kerosene burners in their furnaces, because of the difficulty in securing hard coal and their unwillingness to use soft coal because of the dirt and soot. This also will introduce serious fire hazards, because of the storage of oil on the premises, and the danger of feed pipes bursting and starting fires. No such appliance should be considered without ascertaining whether it complies with the underwriters' requirements.

Fire hazards which endanger the homes should be watched with special care, as the mothers and children run the greatest risk. All heating appliances should be installed and operated with constant attention to the unusual risks due to the changes in fuel, as well as to their ordinary dangers. Careful inspection should be made of all stoves, furnaces and flues before using them in the fall.

GOLDEN SEPTEMBER.

Whatever the remainder of the autumn may hold in store for coal-less or substitute coaled Canadians, September has nobly done its part to render the lighting of furnaces superfluous. Outside of a few chilly days, not more than a week in all, it has been a month of warm sunshine, clear starry nights, and if the mornings in the country have been a bit mist-laden, it has only made one appreciate still more highly the sun that so swiftly turned each grey morning into a warm and fragrant day.

"The morns are grey with haze and faintly cold,
The stars are mistly silver overhead,
Now all the slopes are slowly growing gold,
And in the dales a deeper silence dwells;
The cricket mourns with funeral notes and bells,
For days before the summer has grown old."

September lying "betwixt and between" the really autumnal month of October and the last true summer month of August, has many beauties and pleasures all its own. The produce of the vegetable garden is finally garnered, the winter apples—if one possesses such a thing as a fruit tree or two—are watched even more zealously than ever now that the apples are ripe and luscious and especially tempting to the passing boys. Probably the reason that we appreciate apples so highly is because they are so hard to grow, and having grown them, so difficult to keep on the tree a sufficient length of time to ripen as nature intended rather than in a cold storage warehouse.

For flower gardeners, September is the ideal month for transplanting the perennials that have multiplied so happily during the summer months. Because the gardening season is so nearly over there is something peculiarly attractive in working in the garden now. No flies, no mosquitoes, and not too much heat render it more a delight than it was in the early days of May when armed to the teeth with all the sticky messes recommended by one's friends, we struggled for a lovely garden against the sharply expressed wishes of almost every fly in creation.

In the fields the flowers of August seem almost unchanged. Silvery rather than golden but still lovely even in its last days, the goldenrod sways with the breeze; the purple asters that are like fringed bits of sky amidst the brown meadows, the maroon patches in the marshy spots; and along the edge of streams and lakes the scarlet blossoms of the cardinal flower reflect like a ball of flame, all seem reluctant that their last days have come. Half-grown beeches and maples are crimson leaved, and the virginia creeper clothes the rail fences and any tree and shrub it can reach with its brilliant leaves. Along the rocky hillsides the heart-shaped leaf of the moose missle is a soft purple, while its bunches of fruit are a soft saffron. The sumach and the elderberry are in autumn garb, and are perhaps the most popular of all leaves and fruits to carry home. Here and there on the hills the sugar maples are scarlet, and some of the poplars and elms are a faint yellow. The faint chatter of the squirrels and chipmunks as they carry away the butternuts as fast as they fall from the trees, remind one of the changing season and the preparations that all nature makes therefor.

Thus without grief the golden days go by,
So soft we scarcely notice how they wend,
And like a smile half happy, or a sigh,
The summer passes to her quiet end;
And soon, too soon, around the numbered eaves
Sly frosts shall take the creepers by surprise,
October with the rain of ruined leaves.

But best of all, September is the ideal month for long hikes. No danger of getting over-heated with the sun, and so long as the walk ends by sundown or a little later, no danger of getting chilled. The air is clear and lovely and has a fragrance that one never enjoys at any other season. The farms by which one passes seem to be enjoying life, for with the harvest practically all in, the farmer does not seem to be as over-worked as during the summer when merely to look at so much work made the on-looker tired.

Sometimes if you are very fortunate and have wandered very far afield, far from the usual haunts of motor cars and expresses and trains, you may find in late September and all through October that loveliest and rarest of all wild flowers, the fringed gentian. A most elusive plant which by no means reappears in the same places year after year, the finding of a few plants is an event, while the finding of a meadow covered with the rich blue blossoms is something to live in the memory when the snows of midwinter cover the earth. Perhaps you remember Bryant's lines:

"Thou waitest late, and com'st alone
When woods are bare and birds have flown,
And frosts and shortening days portend
The aged year is near his end.
Then doth thy sweet and quiet eye
Look through its fringes to the sky,
Blue—blue—as if that sky let fall

The fragrance of the apple orchards as one strolls along, and of the meadows no matter what their crop, the purple haze that hangs far over the hills, all make up a walk that will have pleasant memories long after the September sheet is torn off the calendar.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The fire prevention campaign is not for somebody else—it is for you.

The lights in Victoria Park have not been turned on for several nights. In the general interest this beauty spot should be illunminated.

The world will hope that the conference at Mudania will bring peace. Even her enemies will have to admit that the attitude of Great Britain has been as conciliatory as the maintenance of her prestige would permit.

Some people might call the new long skirts a sweeping reform. But they are hardly long enough for that.

"Then—ah—would you mind going to the basement to tell Thelma not to pay any attention to anything which may happen upstairs in the next hour or hour and a half? I—I shall experiment with one of my famous devices."

Violet was somewhat puzzled, but she realized that if he was to obtain results he must have thorough co-operation. She impressed the instructions upon Thelma with quite a degree of emphasis, after which she hurried up again.

Clews was just completing his phone conversation. "Yes Send the car here . . . That's right Good-by ". Hanging up, he saw her. "I'm laying my plans," he explained.

She glanced at her watch. "If you don't mind," Mr. Clews I've just about time to dress— "

"By all means By all means "

In her room some sense of premonition struck Violet. She wondered all at once if she had been right in insisting upon Aunt' Julia's plan to employ Clews against Robert's wish to continue the methods which had preserved her safety for over a month. He had given in to her, finally; he had been very gracious, very nice about it. But—

She was nearly ready for dinner when she heard the sound of a machine outside. She paid no attention to it, but continued her preparations. She stood before the long mirror to admire herself in her evening gown, the first she had worn since Doctor Sutton's death. As she caught the reflection of a glorious flush of health and youth she smiled. At that moment there was a knock at her room.

She opened the door, standing back. It was Clews, but there was a different expression upon his face, a changed something about his manner. Advancing straight to her, he slipped his hands down her arms caressingly, then drew her to him before she could realize what had happened.

"At last, you little beauty," he muttered. "Ever since I first put eyes upon you, I've wanted to hold you in my arms. When you stood up by your lover that night in the studio, with never a look for the"—a tone of irony crept into his voice—"for the inventor of the world's most wonderful hypnotic machine—"

In a flash Violet understood. The events of Nerva's seance came back to her vividly. Clews was the supposed Frenchman who had arrived first, who had left hurriedly when Dupont started to engage him in conversation in French. He had masqueraded as a detective successfully enough to fool them all. He had been patient enough so that Aunt Julia's intervention, supported by her, had again put her in the hands of her enemies.

She struggled, but it was useless. She heard other steps, unfamiliar steps, on the stair. She felt the man's breath, hot, upon the bare flesh of her neck. Then she knew no more.

XXXII

TO APPEASE THE EVIL GOD

The sense of humor which always had been a proud possession of Robert Dupont, and which had carried him through any number of difficult situations, nearly proved the undoing of the whole of his care and work when Violet, of all the people in th world, failed to see through his disguise. Thelma Aunt Julia might hardly be expected to see through his make-up. As for Clews—it had been his particular wish to try its efficacy upon this new detective employed by Aunt Julia. For that purpose alone he had made the trip down to Washington Square, had forced himself into the house. But Violet—

A passer-by might have thought the actions of the supposed Jewish peddler strange as Dupont rocked and shook with suppressed chuckles. He picked up his scattered "Domes of Silence," but with difficulty, due to the trembling of his fingers. He packed them again in his battered suit case, wondering if that receptaclewould hold together during the execution of the task he had set before himself. He readjusted his heavy eyeglasses and rearranged his garments, descending to the street on legs which still were weak from the strain of covering his laughter at the absurd treatment given him.

A Fuel Saving Secret

This is a message to conscientious housewives, and a piece of advice to all.

The shortage and high price of cooking fuel has brought to light many things which might never have been known otherwise. Here is one thing, for instance. Did you know that good enameled ware cooking utensils heat more quickly than utensils made all of metal, such as copper, brass or aluminum? It's true. Try it!

Take a good grade of enameled ware saucepan, and a similar sized saucepan made of copper, aluminum or brass. Put two quarts of cold water into each. Set them on the fire and time them—see how long it takes each to boil. Over a moderate heat, water in the enameled ware saucepan will boil in approximately ten minutes. But the water in the all-metal saucepan, with the same heat will take approximately eighteen minutes—almost double the time—to come to the boil!

Think of the wasted heat and the amount of wasted money it must represent! Just figure what this would run into in a year!

Use enameled ware utensils for cooking and save heat and money. Don't purchase cheap, flimsy enameled ware. Get the best, either Diamond Ware, which is sky blue and white outside with a snowy-white lining, or Pearl Ware, which is a beautiful pearly grey and white mottle inside and out. Another enameled ware of really super qualities is snow-white outside and inside with deep blue trimmings. It is called Crystal Ware and is now used in many of Canada's finest homes.

All three of these wares carry a green and red shield shape SMP trade mark on every utensil. Don't buy enameled ware unless it carries one of these trade marks. You can buy SMP Crystal Ware, Diamond Ware or Pearl Ware at any hardware store. Don't accept substitutes.

GOLF CLUB WON CASE ON APPEAL

Steward of the Club Was Fined For Having Liquor on Premises.

PORT HOPE, Oct. 2. — Judge Ward gave judgment in the appeal of Eli Hitchins steward at the Cobourg Golf Club who appealed against a conviction by P. M. Floyd, who on August 26 last fined the appellant $250 and costs for having liquor in a public place, contrary to the Ontario Temperance Act, Judge Ward's judgment in part is aa follows:

The material facts are not in dispute. The evidence taken before the magistrate, which is the evidence upon which I have to deal with the appeal, shows that Hitchins, the appellant, was not a member of the club but only a salaried officer, and that he had no knowledge of the wrongful acts which constituted the offence for which he was convicted. On the contrary the evidence shows conclusively, and it is not denied, that he was ignorant of any liquor having been brought upon the club premises in any manner whatsoever, and, also that he took every precaution to prevent any infringement of the act, by warning the members, which he did at the request of the secretary of the club.

Notwithstanding, he was convicted because some person unknown had evidently brought upon the primises and left on the stairway leading to the locker room of the club a small quantity of liquor in a glass, which was not one of the glasses belonging to the club.

DISCUSSED WHITE LINE OF SAFETY.

Peterborough Represented at Bicycle Dealers' Convention.

The Canadian Bicycle Dealers' Association held a two-day conference in London, Ontario, last Wednesday and Thursday, 27th and 28th September. Members and dealers from all parts of the Dominion attended, and between businss and pleasure had a good time.

The aim of the association is to protect cyclists and revive the bicycle era. The most important matters discussed at the conference were the "white line of safety" and the licensing of bicycles.

The "white line of safety," as outlined by the organisation, is a space four feet from the curb to be painted out for the bicycles alone. In order to cover the expense of the "white line of safety" and further protection to bicycle riders, it was suggested to have a tax of $2.50 on each bicycle, or a license fee of 50 cents a year.

The association voiced its disapproval of the proposed Provincial tax of $2.50 on each bicycle embodying in the resolution that, as bicycles are now largely used in business and by juveniles, such imposition was unfair. They also expressed approval of a municipal license fee of 50 cents.

The members were entertained in the evening of 27th September at Loew's Theatre, where a special vaudeville programme was prepared for them, the main feature of which was a bicycle roller race.

Frank White, of White Bros.' bicycle shop, told The Examiner that he intended to have a similar vaudeville come to Peterborough in the near future.

The programme followed by the association included a bicycle parade, in which were some of the old-fashioned wheels that were rode by our great-grandfathers, also a ten-mile bicycle race, held on Thursday afternoon.

Officers for 1923 were elected and the conference closed with their annual banquet and a special entertainment.

In every part subjected to stress and wear, accepted standards are not good enough for the good Maxwell. Instead, margins of safety are insisted on that make sure of continuous, low-cost operation without the necessity of frequent repairs.

Cord tires, non-skid front and rear; disc steel wheels, demountable at rim and at hub; drum type lamps; Alemite lubrication; motor-driven electric horn; unusually long springs; new type water-tight windshield.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

OUR STREET LAMPS.

Sir: I notice an editorial in The Examiner regarding Peterboro's poor street lighting system, and a suggestion of the city council regarding tree-trimming around some of the lamps, whose feeble rays are lost amid luxuriant leaves. The whole street lighting system is a disgrace to the city. The manner in which the incandescent lights are attached to electric light poles is about as ugly and inartistic a piece of workmanship as could be well imagined. And the lights themselves, which burn day and night, soon lose what little brilliancy they ever possessed. The much-vaunted magnetite lamps on the principal streets do not shed as much light as a good sized gas-filled incandescent lamp. These gas-filled lamps are now coming into general use in some American cities, and it might be a good plan to experiment with a few here. Two years or more ago the Utilities Commission and they were preparing a plan for the better lighting of Central Park. As usual, nothing has been done. Better Light.

When you see a man laughing he may be a coal dealer who has just looked at the calendar.

Third Generation is Using Syrup Pepsin

No other Laxative can replace Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin in the confidence of those who use it

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

THERE are thousands of healthy, robust young men and women who have never in all their lives taken any other laxative for constipation than Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. Their parents were given it by their parents; the grandparents are using it today. It is the one laxative ideally suited to all the family, safe for the little ones, effective in grownups, so compounded that elderly people, who are constantly forced to take a laxative because the intestinal muscles are weakening, find increased dosage unnecessary. This wonderful constipation remedy has been used continuously for 30 years, and over 10 million bottles are now sold annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world! The cost averages but a cent a dose. Every druggist sells it, and under a guarantee to do as claimed or your money will be refunded.

Millions of carefully conducted homes are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. Mr. Henry Ricker, Chippewa, Ont., says it is the best medicine they have ever used, and Mrs. M. Martin of Massey, Ont., uses it herself and recommends it to her friends. There is scarcely a day that someone in a family does not need it for constipation, flatulency, autointoxication, biliousness, intestinal poisoning, headaches, colic and cramps, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a scientifically-balanced compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. The formula is on the package. As the popularity of this natural vegetable laxative increases, the public discards the harsher physics like calomel, coal-tar in candy form, salt waters and powders. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin empties the bowels more cleanly and without any danger.

THIRTY-FIRST ANNIVERSARY FALLIS' LINE

Bright and Cheerful Services in the Methodist Church—Excellent Music By Choir.

INSPIRING SERMONS.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 3.—The Fallis Line Methodist church held its anniversary services on Sunday, October 1, Rev. R. Forbes Stillman, of Omemee, preaching at 2.30 p.m. and again at 7 o'clock; there was a good attendance in the afternoon and in the evening the church was well filled. The organist of the Methodist church, Millbrook, Miss E. Hetherington, and four members of the choir, Mrs. P. Stinson, Miss May Byam, Messrs. J. L. Byam and F. Alcorn, provided the music for the occasion, which was the thirty-first anniversary since the church was built in 1891. The musical numbers for the afternoon were a quartette, "There is a Land", and following the sermon a duet, "Despised and Rejected", by Messrs. Byam and Alcorn. In the evening the selections were, "Like silver bells at Eventide" and "He is Mine".

Rev. Mr. Stillman read for his lesson at the first service Matthews 6th chapter, taking his text from the 28th verse "Consider the lillies of the field, how they grow"; Jesus is here teaching the ethics of His Kingdom, the fifth chapter describing the latter as being "righteousness, and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost", and then He goes on to explain how the Kingdom within will manifest itself in the life. The speaker dealt with this under four heads, viz: in almsgiving, in prayer, in fasting, and in business methods; of course there are counterfeits of the real thing in all these essentials, but the Kingdom and generosity go together, the child of God will find seasons of fellowship with his Father as necessary as daily food, the real Christian fasts, sorrow for the sin, heedlessness, and carelessness of those calling themselves followers of Christ, being an inducing cause, while the joy which grips the soul when some wandering one is brought to the Saviour, may also lead to a season of fasting the physical nature being forgotten because of spiritual exaltation; Mr. Stillman very clearly illustrated this latter fact through a personal experience while working amongst the Indians in the West in association with the late Rev. Dr. Crosby. The world says, "Lay up treasure here", but the Christian business man follows His Master's injunction, "Lay up for yourselves treasure in heaven", and if his business can't be carried on with this motive he has only one alternative, to get out and try something else which will stand the test. The selfish desire for gain both of power and wealth, individual and national, led to the recent war, and the speaker deprecated the singing of such songs as "Rule Britannia" believing it to be a manifestation of the same desire for selfish predominance. The question naturally arises, "What about provision for wife, children, and old age?" but in this whole chapter Jesus is teaching of God's loving care for birds and flowers, and then the conclusion, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things will be added unto you." The Psalmist says: "I have been young and now am old, yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread"; even yet, however, we so fail to grasp this underlying principle that Christ's manner of address; "O Ye of little faith" is still sadly true. To serve rather than to get is the challenge which the church is putting up to the business man to-day, and it is meeting with keen opposition, even persecution, from the wordly minded.

Some useful lessons from the words of the text, "Consider the lillies", formed the conclusion of the sermon —all nature helps the lily to grow, and this is equally true in human life of God makes "all things work together for good to them that love Him"; each part of the lily, root, stem, leaves and flowers, has its own function to perform, and God has His children classified too, with a plan for every life; those doing the lowlier tasks here will find in eternity that "the first shall be last", the story of the rich man and Lazarus being a notable example; each part helps the whole, none works for itself, in nature and if the injunction, "in honor preferring one another" were put into practice in individual, community, and national life, it would work a revolution in present conditions which would make the Kingdom seem very near.

Rev. Mr. Stillman's sermon at night was from the 15th chapter of uke, dealing with "the lost sheep, the lost coin, and the lost boy", and was of an evangelistic nature, making a deep impression upon his hearers. The trustees of the church were asking a thankoffering of $70 and the major portion of this amount was realized with other members still to send in their subscriptions. Those going from Millbrook to assist with the service, and their friends, were as usual recipients of the warm-hearted hospitality always extended on the anniversary occasion.

Makes the ideal washing machine soap

Palmolive Princess Soap Flakes were perfected for fancy washing, such as blouses, lingerie, frocks and frills of crepe and silk and satin. This means they are the finest soap, the purest soap and whole soap, flaked into snowy wafers—thin, crisp and curly.

But—such pure, fine whole soap proves the most efficient of all washing machine soaps.

Palmolive Princess Flakes wash more thoroughly than laundry soap and are more economical because, being all soap, they go so much farther.

Saves wear on clothes

Don't blame it on poor material, broken threads and thin spots which shorten the wear of clothes. They are not due to faulty fabric, but instead charge them up to injurious laundry soap ingredients.

Use pure soap, free from corrosive ingredients, and your clothes and household linens will give the wear they should. Such pure soap, in the ideal form, is yours in Palmolive Princess Soap Flakes.

Keeps woolens soft

Whether you are squeezing out a sweater or a pair of leggings or mittens or having a grand blanket washing, use Palmolive Princess Soap Flakes.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 3.— The tag day held on Saturday in behalf of the Children's Aid Society was highly successful and all day and until late in the evening a bevy of young girls worked diligently in this good cause. The work was under the direction of a committee of ladies Mesdames Marling, Burgess, S. Spence, S. Hunter, and S. J. Gibson and the following girls did the tagging: Miss Yvonne Stuart, Iva Windsor, Grace Watson, Winifred Payne, Beatrice Johnston, Helen Burgess, Maud Nixon, Josie McIlmoyl, Alice Gibson, Margaret Young, Mildred Darling, Lottie Lemay, Hazel Crawford, Odell Watson, Ivah Hendren and Clarice Kidd. Shortly after 9 o'clock in the evening Messrs. W. H. Casement, Weaver, and S. Spence joined the ladies and the young girls in the G.W.V.A. rooms the boxes were opened and contents counted. The girls, though very anxious to learn the results of their individual labors, sat very still till the money was counted and the gratifying total of $83.66 was announced after which the ladies served coffee and cake which were much appreciated. It was a splendid day's work for a worthy cause.

Ironized Yeast Will Ironize Your Nerves

To Produce Great Natural Nerve Strength, Yeast Should Be Ironized and Not Merely Mixed With Iron. There is Only One Ironized Yeast in the World

Now, Mr. Man, tighten your fist and clamp your jaws. Tighter. Now still tighter. As tight as you can. Notice how weak is the tightest you can go? Vitamines and iron in your body made it possible for you to do these two things. If you had still more vitamines, ironized, you could tighten your fist and your jaws almost as tight as a vise. Ironized Yeast will enable you to do it, because ironized yeast combines concentrated vitamines with natural organic iron, in such strength that it gives amazing power to nerves and organs in half the usual time. It is the most powerful reconstructive in the world today for tired, exhausted men and women. It is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. Give your nerves the natural food-strength they lack. They do not need stimulation, they need natural force. Here it is, Ironized Yeast! This will give you great blood power, great nerve power, an avalanche of energy, brain clearness, stronger muscle, firmer flesh, a clear eye and memory,—and you'll smile the smile of health and power. Ironized Yeast is sold at all drug stores, at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 60 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. Harold F. Giving an Englishman's impressions of the trans-Canada tour, Mr. Gregory pictured the enormous possibilities of the west in years to come, when with ample immigration and inhabitants the rich prairie Provinces will be opened up and developed.

Embarrassing Hairs Can Be Quickly Removed

(Beauty Culture.)

Hairs can be easily banished from the under-arms, neck and face by this quick, painless method: Mix into a stiff paste some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Excepting in very stubborn growths, one application is sufficient. To avoid disappointment, buy the delatone in an original package and mix fresh.

MAGNESIA FINE FOR DYSPEPTICS

Neutralizes Dangerous Stomach Acids Which Cause Indigestion.

The almost universal use of Magnesia by physicians and stomach specialists is due to the fact that it instantly neutralizes the dangerous stomach acids which cause nearly all digestive stomach trouble. With acid gone and stomach sweet, easy and painless digestion invariably follows. Old dyspeptics, whom Indigestion and sour, weak and sickly stomach, have made miserable for years, find quick and lasting relief in this simple remedy, and are again able to eat what they please. A glass of hot Magnesia water after meals prevents all trouble.

Prepare Magnesia water at home by dropping one teaspoonful or four tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia in a glass of hot water. Any reliable druggist can sell you the genuine Bisurated Magnesia and stomach sufferers and dyspeptics who follow this plan and avoid the use of pepsin, charcoal, soda mints, drugs and stomach medicines will soon find that the stomach, relieved of irritating acid and gas, soon resumes its normal tone, and will do its work alone without the aid of artificial digestents.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK.

WINNIPEG, Man., October 3. — Receipts yesterday were 2900 cattle and calves, 340 hogs and 350 sheep and lambs.

Trading was slow on the cattle market, killing classes appearing to be slightly draggy with weaker undertone, while the better classes of stockers and feeders moved at steady prices. The remainder of medium offerings were slow with the bidding tending lower.

The hog market opened with packers bidding 10.50 for selects fed and watered.

Bulls good, lambs offering changed hands at $10 to $11, wtih good mutton sheep going out at $5 to $5.50.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, October 3. — Very little change is noted in the egg situation at different consuming centres in Canada. The best grades are inclined to advance. Ontario country markets very firm and higher; shippers paying 31 to 35c to producers and stores making sales of graded firsts at 40 f.o.b. cases free, and candled current receipts at 34 f. o.b., cases returned. The export demand for eggs is improving. Sales have been made of storage firsts at 40 f.o.b. Montreal, also at 19 shillings and 19 shillings 6 pence, and a sale is reported at 20 shillings c.i.f.

Toronto firm, specials jobbing 46 to 47; extras 42 to 43; firsts 36 to 37, seconds 30.

Montreal firm, specials 42 to 45; extras 37 to 40; firsts 32

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3. — While there appears to be a fair amount of f.o.b. Montreal business in grain here the market is for the most part extremely dull with cable demand practically at a standstill. Business in the local flour market is also very dull and there is little change in the millfeed market, with the rolled oats market quiet.

There is practically no demand for baled hay and the market both for butter and cheese is quiet in the extreme with prices for butter showing a tendency to weaken. A fair business prevails in eggs.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK.

CHICAGO, October 3. — Cattle receipts 31,000; strictly good and choice native beef steers strong to 15c higher; other grades and western grassers 10 to 15c lower. Top matured steers $12.45; best long yearlings, $12.25; bulk beef steers $9.50 to $11.25 bulk western grassers early $7 to $7.50; few loads up to $9; in between grades beef cows and heifers slow; unevenly lower; other grades and canners about steady; bulls, stockers and feeders steady to weak; in spots lower; veal calves evenly 50 to 75c lower; bulk desirable bologna bulls 4 to $4.25; bulk beef cows and heifers $4.25 to $7.25; bulk desirable vealers $11 to $11.50.

Hogs, receipts 35,000; steady on desirable kinds early; closing unevenly weak to 15c lower on plainer kinds; bulk 180 to 240 pound average $10.25 to $10.40; top $10.45 early; bulk 140 to 170 pound average $10.20 to $10.40; top $10.45 early; bulk 140 to 170 pound average $9.90 to $10.20; good and choice 250 to 300 pound butchers $10 to $10.25; bulk packing sows $7.75 to $8.85; pigs mostly $9.25 to $9.75; estimated holdover 13,000.

Sheep receipts 24,000; fat native lambs opened 50 to 75c lower, closing mostly 50c below general trade Friday; top native $13.85 to city butchers; $13.75 to packers; bulk around $13.50, and the culls mostly $8.50 to $9; ten cars choice Idaho lambs $14.40 with 900 feeders off to $14.25; 6 doubles Montana feeders, $14.75; sheep steady; aged feeding wethers $7; choice feeding yearling wethers $12.00.

CHICAGO GRAINS.

CHICAGO, October 3. — Wheat prices fell yesterday as a result of the stoppage of warlike news from Dardanelles. The market closed easy 1 to 1 1-2c net lower, with December $1.04 1-2 to $1.04 5-8, and May $1.07 5-8 to $1.07 3-4. Corn gained 1-8 to 7-8c; oats finished 1-8c off to 3-8c and 1-2c up, and provisions unchanged to 7c higher.

Notice that the amount of wheat on ocean passage had increased 800,000 bushels for the week was offset by the fact that the United States visible supply showed but little enlargement and that exporters were bidding 1c a bushel more than on Saturday for wheat at ports on the Gulf of Mexico. It was reported also from Minneapolis that the farmers' deliveries in the northwest were much smaller than of late and that the demand for wheat at Winnipeg was in proportion to the arrivals.

Bullish estimates of the 1922 yield of corn were chiefly responsible for the strength displayed by corn and oats.

Scarcity of offerings gave an upward slant to the provision market.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 3. — (Special.) — For the continued strength in to-day's stock market the Turkish news was the reason which lay most on the surface. But it was hard to set this down as the principal cause, when the other markets were so unresponsive.

The foreign exchanges did little one way or the other, neither did English or French Government bonds. These markets, in which International banking opinion is most clearly reflected, were evidently satisfied with the recovery of the previous day, that this had been ample recognition of the better outlook for peace in the Near East. Another interpretation might well have been that the markets of the world not having allowed themselves to be upset over the Turkish crisis of a week ago were not exhibiting any undue elation over the prospects of a settlement.

The New York stock market, beyond expressing satisfaction that the threat of trouble in Europe had been very much diminished, was plainly interested much more in other matters. It took up the operations in special stocks where these had been interrupted by the general market re-action which started a fortnight ago. The evident meaning of this was that, according to expert judgment this re-action had been sufficiently thorough and had fulfilled its purpose of eliminating such weakness as had crept into the Wall Street situation during the summer campaign and had rendered the position comparatively strong again.

The notion that Monday's advance had been nothing more than the hasty dispersal of a short interest, was disproved. Such upward movements as occurred today in the Standard Oil stocks, among the industrials and in the anthracite coal shares and shares of the northwestern carriers among the rails could be ascribed in any degree at all to mere "short covering."

Whether or not to-day's upturn in a variety of selected stocks implied resumption of the movement which culminated soon after Labor Day was still an open question. But there was no reason why the market, having taken a favorable view of outside surroundings up to a month ago, should feel any different frame of mind now.

During this past month the labor controversies have been disposed of. The autumn crop movement has got well along without anything to arouse misgivings that Wall Street will have to be cut down in its credit supply or will have to pay materially higher rates. The steel trade has risen from a 50 to 75 per cent. production and the anticipated rush of traffic has begun over the railways with the certainty that it will pile up unusual earnings for the transportation companies during the coming months.

In a word, the outside situation so far from being any less hopeful than it was at the start of September, is distinctly better.

MARKET NEWS.

Washington hears that Obregon has killed Vera Crux tax re[illegible] the State for attempting to fix a State impost on petroleulm in addition to the Federal tax.

Toronto—Riordon owns the most valuable timber limits in Canada and are working at capacity, and have recently increased the price of their product 10 per cent. There is one drawback the company owe the banks, are short of working capital and are not paying bond interest. I understand that a plan of reorganization will be announced within the next few weeks, which will provide working capital and will provide for the reduction in share capital. The shares look an exceptionally attractive speculation, there being no reason which the new shares which they will be exchanged for should not again go on a dividend basis and consequently have a big appreciation.

MARKET OPINION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Prices firm throughout most of the first hour, but there were concessions in the leading stocks. RBC. was again weak, while Midvale continued firm. This contrary movement of two companies which were all but merged is causing much comment as Midvale was the backbone of the proposed three company combine, and gossip now has it that BSB. would not be adverse to having Midvale as its partner.

The hard coal roads seemed little disposed to follow the lead of Lackawanna, although they should benefit by a big demand for anthracite which should bring about increased traffic.

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—We hear on good authority that Baldwin Gold Mines, now selling at ten cents, will be moved up to fifteen cents very shortly.

NO DESIRE TO DESTROY THE SHIPPING OF CANADA.

OTTAWA, October 3 (Canadian Press). — "We have no desire to destroy Canadian shipping, but this Government is not here to protect shipping interests at the expense of the shipper and the grain industry. If we find that you are using the coasting laws so as to force Canadian wheat into American channels, the Government will have to consider amending the laws."

This was what the Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade, told the representatives of the Lake shipping interests to-day during a discussion of the grain rates.

A YOUNG MEN'S CLUB OF THE BOARD OF TRADE

Delegates of the Chamber of Commerce who were in Toronto visiting the Young Men's Club of the Board of Trade were greatly pleased with the cordial reception they received. They also acquired most important information regarding the establishing of a similar young men's organization in this city. They have now everything that is required to organize their association at once and by cooperating with the Toronto Young Men's Club they expect to commence very soon.

A meeting for the purpose of organizing will be held a week from Friday, October 13, at the Chamber of Commerce Council Rooms. There will be present four representatives, officers of the Toronto Young Men's Club, who will explain the activities and the purpose of their club. At this meeting young men wishing to join will be enrolled and an organization will be started. After an association has been formed twenty-five members of the Toronto Club will visit the club here and take part in the proposed programme.

ALL SAINTS' A.Y.P.A. RALLY NIGHT.

All Saints' A.Y.P.A. got off to a real good start last evening at their rally meeting for the coming season. Nearly all the old members were out and about twenty new ones were added to the roll. A very encouraging report was read by the secretary-treasurer of the activities of this branch for the past season, and also of their financial standing on which to start the coming year.

The attention of the members was called to the annual District Council meeting which is to be held in Omemee on October 12th. All the officers were asked to be present and as many of the members as possible.

After the accumulated business had been disposed of, the balance of the evening was spent in games and contests. The contests provoked great amusement and keen rivalry and the prizes were eagerly sought after—in fact, one contest had to be run off twice to decide the winner.

All the members, both old and new, were chosen on two teams, the Reds and Blues, for an extensive membership campaign throughout October and November. The losing team are to entertain the winners the first meeting in December. A chart has been prepared to record the progress of each team, and the race is sure to be close.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, October 16th, at which Rev. R. B. Grobb will give a short address on his trip to the Old World.

Refreshments were served and everybody voted that they had had a real good time.

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned, Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

TIME CLOCKS IN POSTAL SERVICE

Proposed at Ottawa Convention But No Recommendation Made.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 3. —(Canadian Press.)— Important changes in regard to registered articles met with the approval of the first conference of Dominion postal officials at yesterday afternoons' sitting. Votes taken favored:

(1) Increase in the maximum indemnity for the loss of registered articles. The present maximum is $25. The new maximum suggested is $100.

(2) Indemnity to include abstraction and damage.

In regard to the last-named vote, indemnity is now paid only if the registered article is totally lost. Should the decision of the conference be adopted, indemnity will be paid if the contents are missing or damaged.

The time clock as a substitute for the present attendance book did not receive much favor. Replies received from the larger post offices, it was said, were against time clocks mainly on two grounds: (1) That with time clocks, clerks in charge of the various offices were unable to go to the time book an dsee who was or was not thre. There was also no record of say a week previous and (2) employees in city post offices did not all have the same hours of duty.

To these objections, the point was made that they had in ivew the older form of time clock and not the latest models, which could not be beaten. "I have seen the latest time clocks at work and I have seen them beaten," obsereyd one postal official.

No formal vote on the question was taken however. The conference continues to-day and Wednesday.

FINE WEATHER IN WEST CONTINUES

Manitoba's Threshing May Be Completed This Week.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Excellent weather has prevailed throughout the west during the past seven days and harvesting is nearing completion and still revealing yields of high quality grain, according to the weekly crop report of the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railuway, which was issued yesterday.

It is expected that little threshing will remain undone in Manitoba by the latter part of the week. Seventy-five to eighty-five per cent. of the work is now completed. Yields are keeping up to expectations. Reports from the Province indicate that there is a small percentage only of sprouting. Plowing has already started with the ground in excellent shape. Five to ten per cent. of the work is completed. There is a greatly increased acreage this year under corn and sunflowers and there are many new silos being erected in the province. Live stock is fattening on excellent pastures and on the whole there is a plentiful supply of winter feed.

In Saskatchewan threshing is ninety-five per cent. finished. With the exception of a few isolated places, harvesting will be completed this week. There is a tendency among farmers to hold back wheat in order to prevent a slump in prices, according to the report. A large number of farmers are compelled, however, to market promptly in order to meet heavy expenditures.

Splendid weather has been experienced in Alberta during the past week so that harvesting has progressed under most favorable conditions, The bulk of the crop is threshed and the balance only requires a few days more of present weather to finish. An outstanding feature of this season's crop is the high grade of wheat produced.

In the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway district, some interruption has been caused by rain, but the majority of places have now completed harvesting. Marketing so far is light, due principally to the desire of farmers to advance plowing while weather and ground are in the best of condition. An increased acreage over last year is expected.

Fruit harvesting in British Columbia is progressing under excellent conditions, apples and tomatoes are being marketed in large quantities. Packing houses are filled to capacity. It is reported that some canneries are closing down on account of shortage of fuel.

INDIFFERENT TO EUROPEAN POWERS.

China Leans Somewhat to United States.

QUEBEC, Oct. 3 — Among the prominent and most interesting Cabin passengers who came out on the Canadian Pacific Steamer Tunisian was the Rev. Dr. Murdock Mackenzie, who has spent 32 years' missionary work in China in behalf of the Canadian Presbyterian Church. Doctor Mackenzie is returning from a furlough and on his way to Toronto to attend a missionary board meeting in that city, before returning to China. In the course of an interview he said Christianity was making good headway in China. He carried on his work in South Western China and said the feeling in that country was one of indifference towards the risk of the European powers, but any leaning that they might have was towards the United States. He gave as his reason because England has gone to war with China and taken the navy away from that nation. He also referred to the war between France and that country, who had also taken a part of Chinese territory, and said although Germany had not gone to war with China, she would force her to give up considerable rights in Shantung. Consequently China did not have much interest in the outside world politics or European diplomacy. Thie grievance of the Chinese against the United States is because the United States did not help China at the signing of the peace treaty at Versailles or the conference at Washington. That threw on China the burden of fighting on their resources. He said that the leaders in China were not the class that were embracing Christianity. They as a rule considered a foreign influence which might detract their prestige. A large section of the Chinese, however, are indifferent to Christianity, but there were a great many in favor of Christianity if Christianity would help China, as an illustration he referred to a conference of missioner held in Shanghai, which was attended by one thousand delegates, fully one half of which were Chinese and that the chairman was a Chinaman in contrast witih a similar meeting held in 1907, when there were only a dozen Chinese delegates. To indicate the progress that Christianity was making in China. Doctor Mackenzie said that Christianity was becoming naturalized in China, which is a good thing as it will help on the cause. The Chinese, he said, were adverse to a Republic, that is the leaders in the different provinces are because they are all together militaristic in their mentality and fear that a centralized government would interfere with their authority in the provinces, where they by their military government they are lords within themselves. Speaking of the resources of China, Doctor Mackenzie said they were tremendous in quantity and value.

STORING VEGETABLES

Winter storage of vegetables is an old question often discussed, but apparently not yet well understood. To store the crop seems a comparatively easy task, but to guard against heavy loss while in storage is sometimes quite a problem for the most experienced growers.

Some of the first and most important factors influencing the keeping of vegetables in storage are to see that the vegetables are free from disease, well grown, fully matured and free from injuries such as bruises caused by careless handling at harvest time. It these important points are kept in mind and carefully attended to at the time of selecting the material for storage, much worry and subsequent loss in dollars and cents will be avoided by the grower later on.

For the storage of such crops as beets carrots, potatoes, cabbage, celery, parsnips, and turnips, a properly constructed frost-proof cellar should be available, with adequate ventilation to keep the temperature as constant as possible around 36° F. at all times during the storage period. By no means should a storage cellar become excessively damp, because excessive moisture favors the development of many of the common diseases attacking vegetables in storage, and more especially when in warm, ill-ventilated cellars. Moderate-sized, slatted bins or crates should be used for storage of roots and potatoes, while cabbage can be stored on slatted shelves or in bins. Celery is usually stored in the root cellar. The plants are stripped of all rough leaves and placed in an upright position on moist sand, more sand being placed around the roots. However, where only small quantities of vegetables are to be stored for household use, and a basement is available, a compartment or room should be provided therein, of such construction as to exclude the heat from the furnace and with suitable vents in the wall to provide good ventilation. It is not advisable to store a great quantity of cabbage or turnips in the cellar of a dwelling house. A good earthen floor in the storage room is to be preferred to cement. Where an earthen floor can be had in a well constructed vegetable room, it is seldom necessary to store the carrots, beets, parsnips, and potatoes in sand, because, as a rule, sufficient moisture will escape from the floor to keep the air moist enough to prevent the vegetable from withering up.

Onions require quite different conditions, while in storage, to the other varieties of vegetables. A dry, cool, dark room is best suited for this crop, where the temperature can be kept around 34 degrees F. By no means should onions be stored in a cellar, except where it is possible to maintain a dry, cool atmosphere.

Squash and pumpkins should be stored in a dry, moderately warm room, when a temperature of 50 degrees F. can be maintained. Particularly careful handling is necessary at harvest time if this crop is to be kept for any length of time. Place the squash or pumpkins on shelves or on a table, in a single layer.

Ball Fans Gathering

Heavy Booking of Space in the Press Stand—New York's Millions Will Supply Crowds.

UMPIRES CHOSEN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—W. J. Klem and W. McCormick, for the National League, and C. B. Owens and George Hildebrand, for the American League, were announced yesterday as the umpires for the world's series by Commissioner K. M. Landis.

The Press Gang.

Among the writers who will report the game for newspapers from other countries are a squad from England, two from Japan, one from France, one from Russia, one from Cuba, a couple from Brazil and the Argentine, a half-score from Canada and one from Sweden. The latter probably was attracted by the Giants' latest pitching acquisition, one Mr. Cvengros. Cvengros, however, is not a world series eligible.

Press reservations have been made by men representing every large city in the United States and Canada. Many are from the Pacific Coast, while the minor league cities, at least the larger of them, have sent writers along with the fans. Business managers of both the clubs have announced that the requests for seat reservations are much larger than last year, when the Yanks and Giants were principals.

It is possible to seat about 40,000 persons in the Polo Grounds, where all the games will be played. Each team will alternate in being "the home team," with the Giants enjoying the comforts of the home bench on the first day.

New York Agog.

Whatever may be the interest out beyond the Hudson in this series between the Manhattan teams, there are enough fans among the six million folks of Greater New York to keep up a lively sputter-sputter of speculative chatter on the ifs and ands and whats and whys of the chances of the teams.

"Babe" Ruth, notwithstanding the fact that he was kept out of the game for more than a month for being temperamental ,and antagonistic to the much revered umpires, and gave way to Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals for home run honors, is expected to be somewhat of a terror to the Giant twirlers.

Yank Pitchers Best.

The big four of the Yankee pitching staff—Bush, Shawkey, Hoyt and Mays—are rated by the experts to be much better than McGraw's moundsmen, Nehf, Jess and Virgil Barnes, Jack Scott. McQuillan and Ryan. Bush won 26 games for the Yankees this season, and Shawkey and Hoyt both won a good majority of their games. Carl Mays, the underhand flinging star of the 1921 season, has had an off-year.

Jess Barnes and Scott have been the best of the Giants, while Ryan has shown excellent form and may get a chance against the Americans.

Giants' Pitching Staff Weak

Br lliant Hurling Will Be McGraw's Main Problem When His Team Plays in This Year's World Series.

By BILLY EVANS.

In the world series of 1921 the Giants' pitching staff, by its superb work against the Yankees, made McGraw seem well fortified.

Undoubtedly nobody understood the situation better than McGraw, because during the winter and in the spring he was angling constantly for pitching strength.

Perhaps Fred Toney's showing in the big series convinced McGraw that he was through. However, Bob Shawkey of the Yankees met with no better success than Toney, and Bob has gone great for the American Leaguers this year.

No Better Pitcher.

There is no better pitcher in baseball than the erratic Phil Douglas. McGraw realized what a difficult matter it was to keep Douglas in his winning ways. Early in the year Douglas was very successful, then came the crash that put the big pitcher out of organized ball.

Fred Toney won 18 games for the Giants last year. Incidentally he was a great man to have around to finish games. Douglas won 15 starts. His deceptive spitball also made him an ideal pitcher to finish a game when some pitcher faltered.

McGraw has been forced to go along without these pitchers a greater part of the season. Toney, from the start, was of little or no use. Douglas pitched remarkable ball in spots.

All Kinds of Trades.

However, to bolster up the rest of the staff, McGraw has resorted to all kinds of trades and sales.

Good work by Ryan, who scarcely was listed as a regular last season, has helped. The purchase of McQuillan from Boston also was a master stroke. In dire extremity McGraw even resurrected John Scott, released by Cincinnati because it was believed a bad arm had ended his pitching days for all time.

If the Giants represent the National League in the world series this fall pitching will be the big issue with McGraw. It has been his big woe all season.

Phil Douglas' Work.

I have umpired in a half dozen world series and been a spectator at as many more. In all that time I have never seen better twirling than that delivered by Phil Douglas last fall.

In making such a statement I am taking into consideration the remarkable feats of Mathewson, Brown, Babe Adams, Faber, Bender, Plank and many other stars of olden days.

Douglas certainly was McGraw's ace in the clash of last year. He will be greatly missed if the Giants win the right to play in the 1922 event.

Ask the Yankees.

If you have your doubts as to Douglas' work last fall just confer with any member of the New York Yankees. They all have a whole-some regard for his prowess.

The big mountaineer worked three great games against the Yankees, one a defeat, two of them victories. He was the man who saved the day for the Giants when the Yankees were riding high.

Pitching has been, and still is, McGraw's big problem. It is a difficult matter to compute what the loss of Douglas means to the Giants.

vanquished Philadelphia the same day. The Cubs defeated the Pirates, 5 to 2, chiefly on Pittsburgh's own misplays.

That placed Chicago first, Pittsburgh second and New York third. The Giants, however, had three games remaining to play with Boston and, if they won all of them, their percentage would equal that of the Cubs and the campaign would result in a tie. New York did win and an extra game was decided upon to settle the issue, Chicago winning.

The whole situation, however, had created by an incident in a game between the Giants and Cubs on September 23, in which Fred Merkle, the Giants' first baseman, pulled what has since been regarded as the "biggest bone" play in history.

In the particular game in which Merkle erred the ninth inning had been reached and two Giants were out. McCormick was on third base and Merkle was on first when Bridwell, the Giant batter, hit a clean liner over second base. McCormick scored and Bridwell touched first base.

In the midst of the pandemonium Evers, playing second base for the Cubs, jumped astride that bag and called for the ball to be thrown for him. When Evers received the ball Manager Frank Chance of Chicago asserted that Merkle was out for failure to touch second base. While bedlam broke loose Umpire O'Day suspended play and left the field to think out the problem.

O'Day returned when most of the crowd had gone and declared that Merkle was out, thus nullifying the run that McCormick would have scored, and ruled the game therefore was a tie, one to one. Then, when the season ended in a tie, the playoff was necessary.

The Senior Collegiate Race Won By Legon

STURGEON WON JUNIOR.

Ernie Legon, hockey, rugby and baseball star, demonstrated his ability in another line of sport yesterday afternoon when he galloped home in front of the field in the annual Collegiate Institute senior road race. Legon, running well within himself, crossed the finishing line eleven seconds in front of the second man, Stan. Stacey, winner of The Examiner's five-mile road race last Thanksgiving Day.

The course was from the Collegiate via McDonnel street to the Bonner-Worth plant, over to Jackson Park and return to the Collegiate via Smith, George and McDonnel streets. Legon covered the distance in 20 minutes and 29 seconds, remarkably good time considering the sultry weather conditions.

A field of twelve runners started in the senior event and half of them found the going too hard and threw up the sponge before the course was negotiated.

2.—Stan. Stacey, 20 mins. 40 secs.
3.—J. Thornton, 20 mins. 45 secs.

The junior race, which was also run yesterday, was captured by B. Sturgeon, who covered the course from Jackson Park to the Collegiate Institute in 13 mins. 52 secs., running an excellent race.

The six starters all finished as follows:

2.—Henry, 13 mins. 58 secs.
3.—Miller, 14 mins. 12 secs.
4.—Doughty, 14 mins. 35 secs.
5.—Pogue, 14 mins. 40 secs.
6.—Robinson, 15 mins. 18 secs.

The annual Collegiate field day will be held at the Exhibition Grounds on Friday, while the jumps will take place on Wednesday.

LESLIE NUNAMAKER GETS RELEASED

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3.—Leslie Nunamaker, veteran American League catcher, was yesterday unconditionally released by the Cleveland Indians to become manager of the Chattanooga team of the Southern Association next year. Previous to coming to the Cleveland club four years ago, he was behind the plate for the Browns and Red Sox.

THE RULES OF RUGBY

OFF-SIDE.

(1)—From the moment when the ball is placed on the ground during a scrimmage until it has been put into play, the players of both teams must be altogether behind the ball except that the head and arms of the man who puts the ball into play may be in front of the ball while so doing. A player is offside if the ball has been last touched by one of his own side behind him.

(2)—A player being off-side is put on-side when the ball touches an opponent or when one of his side has run in front of him either with the ball or having touched it behind him.

(3)—A player being off-side (a) must not touch the ball; (b) must allow an opponent a fair chance to handle abounding ball or make a running catch; he must give three yards only to an opponent waiting to catch the ball; (c) must not obstruct or annoy opponent.

Penalty—In case of an offense against this rule the opposite side shall have a scrimmage twenty-five yards in advance of the place where the off-side play occured. If the offence occurs behind the goal line the scrimmage will take place ten yards out, unless the 25-yard penalty exceeds this point. (Exception-Offencce (c) committed in goal by defending side score a rouge. (d)—If the offence occurs in the field and the distance penalty would bring the scrimmage within the ten-yard line, the ball shall not be scrimmaged on that line by the side not offending.

For off-side during scrimmage by the side in possession the penalty shall be the loss of the ball only; for off-side during a scrimmage by the side not in possession the penalty shall be the loss of fifteen yards The next down shall be the same as that during which the offence occured unless the original ten yards are gained.

Note 1—The penalty "25 yards in advance of the place, etc." is particularly applicable to section (3) (a) and (b) above resulting from a kick.

Note 2—The penalty "loss of one down and 15 yards, etc." applies to off-side during the scrimmage.

(4)—In case a distance penalty is ayarded within 25 yards of the penalized team's goal line, the distance penalty shall be one-half the distance between the point and the said goal line, but in no case shall the ball be brought within the one yard line.

(5)—The players of both sides are to be allowed a reasonable opportunity to be on-side when the ball is about to be put into play.

(6)— In case of a kick-off or free-kick, the kicker's side shall not be in front of the ball when it is kicked, and in case of infringement the opposite side shall scrimmage the ball where the kick was made or allowed by the referee.

FREE-KICKS.

(1)—When a player makes a fair catch and does not attempt to run, but marks the spot with his foot, he shall be awarded a free kick and he must take the kick.

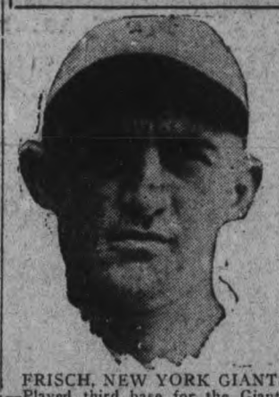
()—When a side is awarded a free kick, the referee shall mark the spot and the player who is to take thet kick shall kick the ball from any point directly behind the mark. In case of infringements the opposite side shall scrimmage the ball where the mark was made.

(3)—If a place kick is taken from a free kick, another player of his side may hold the ball for "placement." This latter player need not necessarily be "on-side" with reference to the position of the ball.

WORLD SERIES COMPARISONS

SECOND BASE

By BILLY EVANS



FRISCH, NEW YORK GIANTS—Played third base for the Giants last year and did a fine job of it. Was shifted to second when McGraw secured Heinie Groh from Cincinnati.

Frisch is one of the greatest ball players that has broken into the majors in years. Came dirert from Fordham College to the big show and achieved greatness overnight. Frisch is playing second even better than he did third.

Frisch is a very fast man. Prefers to bat left handed, but can turn around to suit the pitching. He is a great hitter and is constantly improving. Has a wonderful arm.

WARD, NEW YORK AMERICANS—Ward is a much better ball player than often given credit for. Is a clever fielder and a good thrower. Is at his best on difficult chances. When he slips up, it is usually on what would be called an easy chance. Played great ball in the series last year, despite his error in one game that cost that contest.

FINISH OF NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE IN 1908 WAS CLOSEST

When Giants, Cubs and Pirates Fought It Out and Chicago Won in a Memorable Game of Merkle's "Bone" Play.

A REMINISCENCE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(Associated Press).—As close as the American League championship race has been this year between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns, and as equally exciting as it was last year between the Yankees and the Cleveland Indians, neither compares to that of the National League in the season of 1908.

The New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs finished in a tie, which the Cubs won, after those two clubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates had entered the last week of the campaign racing neck and neck. That season was perhaps the most remarkable in the history of baseball.

Pittsburgh was at the top of the heap on October 3. New York played Philadelphia that day and the Quakers defeated Mathewson—Coveleski twirled for Philadelphia—3 to 2; Pittsburgh and the Cubs both won their games, and the Giants fell with a thud into third place.

Chicago and Pittsburgh met in what was thought would be the deciding game of the season. If either Chicago or Pittsburgh captured that game it won the pennant, but if the contest ended in a tie New York would win, providing that it

GUNNERS TRIMMED BY THE ROTARIANS

Score 14 to 11 in the Only Soft Ball Game Played Last Night.

The Rotarians and Machine Gunners clashed in a game in the Men's Softball League at the Armouries last evening, the Rotarians winning, 14 to 11, after a merry tussle. The Gunners started off strong, getting six in the first two innings. At the end of the fifth it was 10 to 9 in favour of the Gunners.

The Rotarians took the lead in the six, getting two and holding the Gunners scoreless. They increased their lead and held the Gunners to one to the end of the game.

Matthews pitched for the Rotary Club. He was not as effective as with Lawn Bowlers, but was strong with the bat. Piercy twirled for Machine Gunners and did well, receiving good support.

DR. SHEEHY AS RUGBY COACH

Consented to Take Charge of Peterboro's O.R.F.U. Team's Practices.

Dr. R. V. Sheehy was appointed coach of Peterborough's O.R.F.U. team at the meeting of the rugby club last night. He was reluctant to accept the responsibility, affirming that it would require a great deal of personal attention which he felt would conflict with his professional duties. However, after considerable pressure from the members and players, he consented to assuming the job of training the local team. Dr. Sheehy has the confidence of the rugby crowd, and his experience with Ottawa College and Varsity should be specially qualify him as coach.

The club decided to affiliate with the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association.

The attendance last night was highly encouraging to Dr. Wood and his corps of helpers who are promoting the game. Dr. McPherson discussed various aspects of the game in an entertaining and instructive way, and Mr. C. S. Browne of the Collegiate staff reviewed the rules, particularly those which have been recently changed, and also those which come up most frequently in games. He emphasized the spirit of the game, and urged the players to play up to the rugby code and thereby maintain the best traditions of the game.

Other questions regarding the O. R. F. U. team were considered, but these will be developed as the season advances.

RUGBY NEWS

	Won.	Lost.
Excelsiors	2	0
Belmonts	1	0
Collegiates	1	1
Crescents	0	2

The following table shows the points scored for and against the teams:

	For.	Against.
Excelsiors	24	12
Belmonts	27	15
Collegiates	15	12
Crescents	3	30

Beresford Hay, playing a middle wing position for the Crescents, will be out of the game probably for the rest of the season with a fracture of a small bone in the wrist.

Either the Exhibition Park or Central Park should be lighted for the evening workouts. Posts are up on both grounds, and the cost should not be a serious matter. Collegiates are in a class by themselves, but most of the players on the other teams cannot turn out until evening, and the days are ending near six o'clock just now and will grow shorter. Lighted grounds would help the signal practices, and should be provided, if possible, right away.

One impression of the Collegiate games is that they might be well advised to forget the City League contest as such and simply use the games as workouts for their intercollegiate matches. In other words, instead of playing for points and drifting into the style of their City League competitors, they might open up all they've got without worrying about the score. Of course, there is the danger that such a plan might cultivate indifference or carelessness, but that would be a minor chance when the teams is set to avoid it.

FOOTBALL

The Junior League games for Saturday are: C.P.C. vs. Woollens at King Edward, Mr. Calladine refereeing, and De Laval vs. C.G.E. at the Oval, Mr. Dyer refereeing. Kick-off in each game at 1.30 o'clock.

Comrades and Woollens will meet in the Gordon Cup series at King Edward Park. Kick-off at 3 o'clock. Mr. J. Clark will referee.

This game should be a fine exhibition of football. These teams met two weeks ago when Comrades were winners by the score 4-0, but Woollens are out to prove the result was wrong.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE OPENS ROAD SHOW SEASON NEXT WEEK

A Splendid List of New York Attractions

Starting on Monday next the regular theatrical season at the popular Grand Opera House will be in full swing. The list of attractions booked by the Trans-Canada Theatres is better than ever for Peterborough, and includes some of the biggest hits on Broadway in the past two seasons. On Monday next will see the wonderful musical extravaganza hit of the past two years on the roof garden, New York, when "Listen to Me" opens a one night engagement. This company of over 50 artists has been the sensation of the continent, and goes to the Alexander Theatre in Toronto after here. This is by far the biggest musical attraction on the road this season. A partial list of coming attractions for the month of October is as follows:

"Listen to Me."
De Feo Opera Co." (This is the same wonderful company that was at Toronto Exhibition.)
"Sonya."
"The Dumbells" (2 days.)
"Harveys' Minstrels."
"Hunkey Dory."
"The Bat" (2 days.)

There are several smaller attractions booked in during the month, and altogether the present season looks to be filled with stage gems of the very best for Peterborough Theatre goers. It is to be hoped that the patronage will warrant the booking of many more such attractions as mentioned above.

Every attraction named above is guaranteed to be the very best the Trans-Canada Theatres have ever booked in Peterborough, and will on all these attractions endeavor to secure the most reasonable scale of prices for this city.

RACE MAYFLOWER ONLY IN TRIALS.

Specially Designed Fishing Vessel Withdrawn From Main Event.

BOSTON, October 3 (Canadian Press). — The Mayflower Association, owners of the schooner Mayflower, debarred by the Canadian trustees of the International Fishermen's Trophy as a contender in this year's cup series, to be raced off Gloucester this month, yesterday formally withdrew the Mayflower's entry for the International event, but asked the right to have her compete in the elimination trials.

In a message to William J. MacInnis, chairman of the American Fishermen's Race Committee, Gloucester, J. Henry Hunt, chairman of the Mayflower Association, said:

"We withdraw the entry of the schooner Mayflower as a contestant for the International Fishermen's Cup, but to determine whether she is a real contribution to the models of our fishing fleet, and to satisfy public interest, we request the privilege of participating in the trial races. Please answer at your earliest convenience."

AT THE GRAND.

GORGEOUS PRODUCTION COMING.

When the tuneful musical extravaganza, "Listen to Me," with book, lyrics and music by the master mind in play writing, Charles George is presented at the Grand for one night only, Monday, Oct. 9th, theatre-goers will get their first glimpse in many years of the most loved of all musical productions.

The general expense in producing and operating a big extravaganza in recent years has increased so many fold that it has been looked upon with disfavor by the producers to take the long chances of breaking even on the investment; therefore the reason for the scarcity of this type of entertainment. Unlike the musical comedy, it requires gorgeous scenic settings, scores of novel costumes, wonderful lighting effects and a big company to properly stage same, to say nothing about the number of mechanics required.

LeComte and Flesher have shouldered the load and trusting to luck have invested thousands of dollars in modern equipment, and "Listen to Me" is presented in two acts and seven scenes, making four wonderful transformations, whirling the auditor from New York to the North Pole, then through Candyland and back to the starting point, presenting the most bewildering and kaleidoscopic effects ever presented on any stage. A cast of par-excellence, including Betty Dawn Martin, Barbara Bronell, Bessie Delmore, Joe B. McGee, Billy Murhpy, Ross Robertson, Chester M. Gates are supported by a chorus of bewitching feminity, who present the novel ballets and ensembles fetchingly.

"Casey's Twins" "a little bit of everything entertaining", is the offering of Jimmie Evans' Revue for the first three days of their final week here. The Revue has an exceptionally good programme for their last week's showing in Peterboro. There is plenty of fun in the skit concerning the famous twins, with Grace Gould as Mrs. Casey, and Florence Pippin as Mrs. Cohen, while Jimmy Evans takes the part of Mr. Casey, and Joe Devine naturally falls into the role of Mr. Cohen. Burt Ryan, is Jack Hunter, George Wheeler the Census Taker, and Kitty Fraser has a duel role as Henry and Nora. The Irish and Hebrew mixture achieved in this funny little offering gives plenty of scope to the peculiar talents of Jimmy and Joe.

George Wheeler sings in good voice, "The Sands of the Desert"; "My Mammy Knows" is Grace Gould's contribution in her usual dainty style; and Florence Pippin and the Girls have a rollicking chorus in "Good-Bye, Shanghai." Miss Pippin also has a fine xylophone specialty, with Roy Elles and Dolly Jollymore doing L'Adagio as their dance number.

Rudolph Valentino is back in his old form at the Capitol Theatre in the screening of Ibanez' novel, "Blood and Sand". This is the type of part that suits the popular star, the gay, insouciant role of a matador in the Spanish bull-fighting arena. The atmosphere of the bull-ring dominates the whole picture, and there is one massive scene given over to a presentation of the fight, with the bull charging madly as the nimble picadors leap out of his clumsy way; the cheering of thousands of men and women applauding the bloody sport; the sawdust-men covering up the long trails of gore; the victorious toreador in his brightly-colored suit receiving the plaudits of the multitude with dignified importance.

Valentino is the idol of the populace, the champion matador of the bull-ring, both in Seville and in Madrid. As "the little shoemaker", the boy apprentice who runs away from awl and last and pits his skill in the arena against the charging, blinded animals, he conflicts with his mother's wish that he should learn a safer calling, after. Juan Gallardo, the handsome, dark-eyed matador, becomes an expert, and then, at the height of his triumph, he meets Carmen the lovely convent-bred Spanish beauty and marries her.

Following scenes show him in the hey-dey of his popularity, spoiled, imperious, beginning to drink to excess, the object of the regard of Dona Sol, a lady who gives a convincing interpretation of a real vampire of the screen. Nita Naldi is this heartless, excitement-mad adventuress, who enslaves the young matador and finally ruins him completely. As he lies dying in the darkened inner room of the arena, his wife weeping on his bosom, she shrugs her shoulders in momentary compassion over his fate.

Plumitas is a bandit whose life runs strangely with the career of the victorious matador, and there is a quaint, aged philosopher who follows the lives of the two. The background are arranged with all the artistic skill and wealth of detail necessary to complete a really splendid production, while Juan has a fine supporting cast in his delineation in his best vein of the daring, superstitious, passionate idol of the bull arena, gay and moody by turns at first upheld triumphantly by a good woman's love; finally defeated through the power of an evil attachment.

The clippings from Canadian news papers this week aroused gales of merriment from a well-filled house last night, and "Felix in the Swim" depicts the adventures of the funny animated cat.

AT THE ROYAL.

The Royal Theatre presents its usual varied and entertaining programme for the first three days of this week, with a little bit of screen novelties to round out an excellent offering. There is a thrilling, out-of-door feature in the William Fox picture, "Trooper O'Neil" with Charles Jones in the stellar role, A romance of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, it deals with the activities of a number of that force, "Trooper O'Neill', who endeavour to bring to jutsice a murderer from the wilds of the Canadian backwoods. Falling in love with Marie, a dainty French girl he later discovers, or so he believes that she has killed the dead man, and starts out to bring her to justice. In the conflict of love and duty, the latter wins out, but Fate intervenes at a critical moment, and straightens the tangle.

"The Tin Broncho" is an excellent fun-maker and Mutt and Jeff have a laughable interlude in "Long Live the King". The Fox newsettes are particularly good, and the Hudson Bay travels series, "Hide and Go Seek' are interesting sidelights on the trapping of fur-bearing animals.

QUEBEC, Oct. 3.— Among the prominent and most interesting cabin passengers who came out on the Canadian Pacific steamer Tunisian was the Rev. Dr. Murdock Mackenzie, who has spent 32 years missionary work in China on behalf of the Canadian Presbyterian church Doctor Mackenzie is returning from a furlough and on his way to Toronto.

CARPENTIER-SIKI FIGHT BY ROUNDS

ROUND-BY-ROUND REPORT OF BATTLE AS IT IS BOUND TO BE WAGED — MUSTAPHA KEMAL TO CHALLENGE WINNER.

Round 1—Carpentier rushed from his corner and kicked Siki in the stomach. The referee cautioned Siki against unfair tactics. Siki hit Carpentier a clean left hook on the chin. The crowd hissed. Carpentier butted Siki three times without a return and then bit him in the left ear. Siki was again warned by the referee to conduct himself like a gentleman or leave the ring. The Frenchman swung his foot at Siki's head, but the Senegalese dodged the blow. The referee threatened to stop the fight if Siki evaded either one of Carpentier's feet again. Deschamps sent out for more feet.

Round 2—They sparred. Siki clipped Carpentier on the head with a right swing. It stunned Carpentier, who slipped and fell to the floor. Siki helped him to his feet, whereupon Carpentier signalled to Deschamps for a forward pass. Deschamps threw him an axe. Carpentier struck Siki several blows with it. The referee pushed Siki into a corner and threatened to disqualify him for bleeding. Deschamps sent out for more axes.

Round 3—Siki, rushing from his corner, slipped and fell on the floor. Carpentier jumped on him with both feet. Siki managed to get up and batter the Frenchman about the ring. The referee gave the round to Carpentier on the ground that all the footprints were on Siki.

Round 4—Siki hit Carpentier with clean lefts and rights. He outboxed and outfought the French hero, Carpentier scored with butts, elbows and knees. Deschamps jumped into the ring and protested hysterically that Siki was fighting like a gentleman. Deschamps hit Siki over the head with a stuffed club at the bell. The referee seemed undecided, but Deschamps handed him a cigar, after which he awarded the round to Carpentier and cautioned Siki against delivering any further clean blows.

Round 5—The round opened with both men cautious. Carpentier led with his right heel and followed it with a straight knee to the chest. Deschamps demanded that Siki be disqualified for grunting. Siki landed a left uppercut and followed this with a right swing to the stomach and a right and left to the solar plexus. Deschamps leaped into the ring and called attention to the fact that Siki was using his hands.

Carpentier jumped feet foremost at Siki and knocked him down. He sat on his head while Deschamps sat on his feet. The referee took a seat between them and announced that it was Deschamps' round by a wide margin.

Round 6—As Siki walked from his corner he suddenly turned a complete somersault and landed on his face. It was discovered that somebody had poisoned him as he sat in his corner. Carpentier leaped upon Siki and struck him over the head with a water bucket. The crowd was in an uproar. Carpentier's supporters demanded that he be given more buckets. The round ended with the referee cautioning Siki against fouling. The crowd cheered.

Round 7—Siki, now driven totally insane, rushed from his corner and drove Carpentier all over the ring, reigning blows on him from all angles. Deschamps moved that the fight be stopped on the ground Carpentier had run out of unfair tactics. Siki landed a clean right to Carpentier's jaw and knocked him deader than a stuffed mackerel. The referee disqualified Siki for having curly hair and dandruff. The crowd cheered for Alsace-Lorraine, and demanded its money back. The judges went into executive session and announced that Bill Beckett had won through non-attendance. A match between Mustapha Kemal and the Sheik of Araby will be held next Tuesday night. No atrocities barred.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child to-morrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig Syrup.

The report was made by Rev. Dr. Fallis, head of that institution.
"We lost the Ontario Provincial Government printing, which we had held for the past 17 years, because we didn't tender low enough. That is the only reason," he asserted.

THRACE MAY PROVE A STUMBLING BLOCK IN MUDANIA PARLEY

Press Excluded From Conference—Greece Refuses to Evacuate and Calls Up Further Military Classes.

PROTECT REFUGEES

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. —(Special.)— The press is barred from the Mudania Conference. Thrace may prove a stumbling block in negotiations, and it is understood that Greece refuses to evacuate Thrace, and calls up further military classes.

AGREE TO CONFERENCE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 4. — —(Canadian Press.) — An official communique from Mudania confirms the announcement that Turkish Nationalists have accepted in principle the Allies 'note regarding Near Eastern settlement.

The joint Allied note to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Turkish Nationalist leader, was despatched at 1.30 from Paris, signed by Premier Poincare for France, Lord Curzon for Great Britain and Count Soforza for Italy. In it three allied governments invited the Angora Assembly to a conference at Venice or elsewhere, with plenipotentiaries of Great Britain, France, Italy, Roumania, Jugo Slavia and Greece, with the object of negotiating and consolidating a final treaty of peace between Turkey, Greec and the Allied powers.

RUSSIA ON HORIZON.

Russia loomed on the horizon today for the first time as likely to prove an important figure in the settlement of the Turkish problem. Negotiations at Mudania have brought to light the fact that Mustapha Kemal Pasha's advisors are urging him to obtain from the allies a pledge for fulfillment of alt conditions of the so-called national pact, including control of the Straits and modifications or annullment of capitulations. Should he succeed in this it is said that he will at the same time attempt to abrogate the treaty made with the Soviet Foreign Minister, which permits Soviet and Black Sea countries to share in the freedom of the Straits.

EVACUATION BY REFUGEES.

SYMRNA, Oct. 4. — (Canadian Press.)— Local Turkish authorities have extended the time limit for evacuation of Christian refugees from Symrna to October 8, owing to a discovery in the suburbs of considerable numbers of persons who had been unable to leave under provisions of the original Turkish invitation. These refugees are now being marshalled by Turkish gendarmes in a house to house search and are being turned over to relief organizations for embarkation.

MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON.

LONDON, Oct. 4. — (Canadian Press.)— Former Premier Venizelos of Greece, called on United States' Ambassador Harvey to-day and asked the Ambassador to send a message to Washington requesting the United States' Government to intercede with the Allies and request them to occupy Thrace pending final disposition of that territory.

AGREEMENT CONCLUDED.

LONDON, Oct. 4. — (Canadian Press.)—An agreement has been concluded between Allied generals and Ismte Pasha, Turkish Nationalist representative, who has been in consultation at Mudania over the question of an armistice, says an Exchange Telegraph message from Constantinople to-day. It is expected, it is added, the agreement will be signed to-day.

Baby Fails to Free Woman Bootlegger

DETROIT, October 4. — Dora Peltier, 35 years old, mistook a policeman for a service station employee, and sold him a drink, she admitted when arraigned before Judge Thomas M. Cotter, on the charge of violating the Prohibition Law.

"This is your third offence, isn't it?" the judge asked. "I think if I sent you away for a while, you might get cured."

"Why, judge, it would be almost a crime to do that. I have a little baby to take care of, and a rooming house. Times are awfully hard. I didn't mean to commmit a crime. I thought this policeman was a friend of a man who used to room at the house," she declared.

The judge imposed a fine of $425 or three months in the House of Correction.

FIRST MEETING THE CABINET IN TEN DAYS

WAR CLOUD LIFTS

OTTAWA, Oct. 4. — (Canadian Press).—When the Cabinet Ministers assemble this afternoon for the first meeting in more than ten days, they will find plenty of grist for the Government mill to grind. This afternoon's meeting is understood to be primarily for the purpose of discussing the Near East situation, but the lifting of the war cloud and the likelihood of an amicable settlement of differences between Great Britain and Turkey leaves the coast clear for the discussion ot a number of matters more local in their nature. First and foremost is the railway situation. The appointment of a Board to direct operations of the Canadian National Railways is easily the most important matter which the Government has to consider, assuming that the Near East situation is clearing up. The control of a great national railway system by two distinct and separate boards is admittedly not a satisfactory method of operation, and the Government is supposedly anxious to appoint members of the Board which, it is hoped, will knit the Canadian National and Grand Trunk Railways into one strong efficient road.

The illness of Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways, is understood to have been a factor in delaying the creation of a new Board but it is stated that the difficulty of securing a suitable man for the post of President was the chief cause of delay. The utmost secrecy in regard to the personnel of the Board prevails in official circles, but it is thought that an announcement will be forthcoming soon.

RECOGNIZE HEAD OF GREEK CHURCH.

Revolutionary Committee Seeks to Forestall Antagonism.

LONDON, October 4 (Canadian Press). — Athens advices to Greek quarters in London state that the revolutionary committee in the Greek capital has decided to recognise Meletios Metaxakis as Ecumenical Patriarch, head of the Greek Church, in order to terminate church antagonism.

The Holy Synod has promised to concur in this decision, these advices say.

PEARCE LIBERALS CHOICE.

TORONTO, Oct. 4.— (Canadian Press.)—South-east Toronto Liberals last night chose Claude Pearce as their candidate for the by-election on Oct. 23. P. J. Mulqueen and J. E. Doody also were named, but withdrew and the choice of Mr. Pearce was name unanimously. Mr. Pearce was nominated by Mr. Mulqueen and Miss Gibbs.

Shah Creates Harem Hug Which Is the Fastest Shimmy on Record

BIARRIAZ, France, Oct. 4. — Rivalling King Alfonso as a creator of dances, the Shah of Persia has set all-Biarritz society doing the "harem hug," which the corpulent monarch originated with Jenny Dolly at the Acacias, the new champagne palace of Oscar Mouvet. The Dolly sisters, Jenny and Rosy, were the star performers of the new place.

At Deauville King Alfonso created the "Barcelona glide," which is half waltz and half tango, danced to slow music. When the Shah saw the dance he dubbed it the "mourners' parade" and immediately created the harem hug, which consists of three hops with each foot and one step sideways, then pivot and repeat.

Fastest Shimmy.

Fashionable dancers who have tried the harem hug say it is the fastest shimmy ever seen in Europe. The Shah is telling his friends it is a splendid reducer, as it has caused him to lose 10 pounds.

Not to be outdone, Andre de Fouquieres, the French Chesterfield, has started the "float trot," which is a sea dance performed by monocled men and beautiful girls attired in one-piece bathing suits, the jazz band being stationed on a raft a few yards from shore.

Frantic curiosity was aroused among the male population here when Helene de Liancon, famous society beauty, appeared with a black waterproofed beauty spot, the shape of a heart, glued to her left leg two inches above the knee.

To excited inquirers the famous beauty explained that it was the badge of the new "Society of Bachelorettes," the insignia implying that the wearer is seeking a husband.

Fired by the example, dozens of unmarried girls are now wearing quaint devices, including locks of male hair. One beauty jingles a miniature saucepan from her wrist as a sign that she knows how to cook.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

This is to indicate that she has renounced the vanities of the world and is turning toward serious things.

Most brides expect to be kept in all the little luxuries to which they haven't been accustomed.

GOOD WORK BY SCHOOL DOCTOR WAS ENDORSED

EXCELLENT REPORT

Dr. A. W. McPherson submitted a commendably comprehensive report to the Education Board last evening, detailing the scope of the work accomplished last year by himself as schools physician and Nurse Miss Jory. The report showed pretty conclusively that these two important officials have efficiently carried on their duties of conserving the physical health of school children, and seeing to it that no child lacks medical attention when needed.

During the year the number of pupils examining was 1,448, about fifty per cent. of the total number of scholars in the Public schools; the number of defect slips sent out was 397; 200 pupils with permanent teeth affected were examined; 185 with enlarged tonsils; 26 with defective vision. The number of defect slips returned by parents was 187.

The method adopted by the doctor and nurse is to examine each child, noting any particular defects that should be remedied, and referring to the parents for information in connection therewith. Should the defects found not be attended to, Nurse Jory then visits the children's homes ,and takes the matter up with their parents. And here Dr. McPherson stressed his assurance that every single child needing treatment, and who is debarred by financial conditions at home from enjoying the privilege of medical treatment, is attended to free of charge. Then the undernourished were supplied with milk during the past year by the Home and School Associations, and also by Geo. A. Gillespie, of Peterborough Milk Products, Limited.

Dr. McPherson explained that in reporting 1,448 pupils examined, representing three and a half schools, this meant that the ground in those schools had been thoroughly covered. His policy is to examine defectives, and cleaning up his work in hand before undertaking new cases, handling at one time no more defectives than be cared for effectively.

Referring to diphtheria and scarlet fever in schools, the doctor assured the board that he planned to effectively safeguard the children in the schools from contact with carriers of these dread diseases, and that the board need not worry in that connection.

The members of the Board were a unit in extending to Dr. McPherson and Nurse Jory the warmest appreciation of their acceptable work in their respective offices.

AGAINST WOMEN FOR MINISTRY

Methodists Have Decided Against Their Admission to Pulpits.

TORONTO, Oct. 4. — (Canadian Press.)—At the opening of the Methodist General Conference to-day, notices of a meeting were submitted in relation to the election of delegates to the general conference and election of general superintendents. The notices of meeting were moved by Rev. Dr. Young of Toronto. One set provided that at the election of general conference delegates by annual conferences, both ministers and laymen should vote together alike for ministerial and lay delegates. Discipline at present provides that ministers elect ministerial delegates and laymen elect the lay delegates.

There seems to be no doubt that Rev. Dr. Chown will again be the unanimous choice as general superintendent and if the conference decided to have more than one he will be the senior.

One again women have lost out in their efforts to gain admission to the Methodist ministry. By a vote of 17 to 16 the Discipline committee has decided against recommending their admission to pulpits of the Methodist church.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OBJECTED TO CARD PARTIES IN SCHOOLS

But Voted Permission to Home and School Associations to Hold Concerts in Aid of Milk Fund.

ROUTINE BUSINESS LAST EVENING

Anxious to raise a milk fund for their respective schools, ladies of the local Home and School Associations through Chairman A. A. Fowler, last evening requested permission to give concerts and card parties in the schools for which a fee would be charged. On Mr. Fowler presenting this request to the Board, Roland Denne promptly exclaimed "Let them have card parties in their own homes, the schools were not built for that."

Mrs. Morris feared some objection to the card party side of the request although most people do not object to cards at home.

Mr. Wearing—"You'll run into serious opposition from some quarters by opening the schools to card parties.

Mr. Worth acquiesced in this view, but he saw no objection to concerts in the schools to produce a revenue for the purpose named.

The Board seem to hold a "full hand" in opposition to the pictured and spotted pasteboards finding place in school buildings; and so, on motion by Messrs. McKone and E. B. Fowler, the ladies may go ahead with their concert plans.

Working Permits

In the report of Attendance Officer Abraham he said he had reported to the Provincial Attendance Officer the lack of part-time classes for a certain class of adolescents. He also reported a number of permits issued to adolescents where unfortunate home conditions justified such consideration.

Miscellaneous Business

G. N. Gordon, M.P., was thanked for furnishing colored copies of the arms of Canada for hanging up in al most every room in public schools

A request from the Girls' Athletic Association of the P.C.I. that the Gymnasium of the Y. W. C. A. be rented for basket ball practice on Monday and Thursday evenings went to the Supervision Committee with power to act. This was the motion of Mr. Denne and Mrs. Morris H. R. H. Kenner emphasized the obvious benefits derived by pupils in the P.C.I. from a boys' and a girls' glee club, also an orchestra, as maintained last year. He hoped(the Board would allow the expenses of a musical instructor for these organizations three times a week. On motion of Messrs. Denne and Worth this was referred to the Committee on appointments.

On motion of Mr. Denne, the usual grant of $40 was voted for the P.C.I. annual field day next Friday in the Exhibition Park.

There were present Chairman A. A. Fowler, Mrs. W. R. Morris, J. A. McKone, J. W. Worth, Roland Denne, E. B. Fowler and Joseph Wearing.

SPEEDING RUINS IMPROVED ROADS.

Motorists Incur Big Maintenance Bill.

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, October 4 (Canadian Press). — The Hon. J. L. Perrin, Minister of Roads, speaking at the fall meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade at Bury, yesterday afternoon, warned automobile owners that excessive speeding was the ruination of good roads, and that unless a stop was made, he would not guarantee the maintenance of the 1,500 miles of Provincial Highways in this Province.

He claimed that the damage caused by excessive speed during the current year was far in excess of that caused by trucks, and placed the damage at $2,000,000.

The Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, spoke along the same lines, and both Ministers admitted that the present system of traffic control was a failure.

Mr. Nicol stated that while $10,000 had been collected in fines for speeding, it had cost the Government about $80,000 to maintain its traffic control, and even at this price it was totally inadequate.

DISCUSSED REQUIREMENTS OF NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Board of Management.

OTTAWA, October 4 (Canadian Press). — The requirements of the Canadian National and Grand Trunk Railways for the ensuing year were fully discussed at a lengthy conference to-day between D. H. Hanna, president of the Canadian National ...es, W. D. Robb, vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk system, and the Hon. George P. Graham, acting Minister of Railways and Canals.

Work necessary for the betterment of the joint system, as well as steps to be taken in bringing about further co-ordination of the two wings of the National system were, it is understood, gone over fully and carefully by the executive heads of the two units.

Railway matters, it is believed, are likely to be to the fore at to-day's meeting of the Cabinet Council, though whether or not these will include any further progress toward the appointment of the board of management of the National system is problematical.

Plans in regard to the appointment of the executive head of the National system were, it is understood, considerably delayed owing to the serious illness of the Minister of Railways, Hon. W. C. Kennedy in whose hands the negotiations were prior to his illness.

These were taken over by other members of the Government when it was found that Mr. Kennedy's absence from Ottawa was likely to be protracted, and if is believed that the necessary appointments to the board will now be forthcoming without much further delay.

POLAND'S LIQUOR LAW.

WARSAW, October 4 (Canadian Press). — Poland took a new step towards Prohibition yesterday by the organisation of a Governmental Commission to restrict the liquor traffic.

CITY'S AMUSEMENT TAX WAS QUASHED.

Statute Invoked By By-Law Declared Ultra Vires.

MOOSEJAW, Sask, Oct. 4. — The amusement tax bylaw passed by the city and at present in force, is invalid and is set aside and quasred by Judge Ousley, in a decision handed down to-day in the case of Walter Clarke vs. the City of Moose Jaw. His Honor gives the city the right to appeal.

"In my opinion," he states in the judgment, "the bylaw is invalid on the ground that the respondent municipality by passing the bylaw seeks to raise revenue for the city by means of indirect taxation, and if this be so, then the statute under which the city claim to pass the by-law is ultra vires."

His Honor expressed the opinion that the province has not the power to delegate to the city power to impose the tax. He also says that the tax should be a provincial tax.

ANOTHER HUNTER SHOT.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., October 4. — David Brennan, a well known water front man here. was shot dead yesterday while packing a deer (which he had shot) on his shoulders. He was going through the bush when he was mistaken for a deer by another hunter, who fired. Deceased came to Prince Rupert from Nova Scotia.

BERNIER IS BACK FROM BAFFIN BAY.

Report to Minister of Interior Expected To-Day.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 4. — Canadian Press. — A report on the trip to Baffin Land and the polar regions by R. W. Craig of the Department of the Interior and Captain Joseph Bernier, in the C.G.S. Arctic is expected to be in the hands of the Minister of the Interior to-morrow. The Arctic returned to Quebec yesterday. her return causing some surprise as her trip was expected to have taken almost a year to complete. The purpose of the journey is being kept secret until Mr. Craig's report is in the hands of the Minister of the Interior, though it is believed to have to do with the establishment of Canadian jurisdiction over certain territory in the regions visited. Mr. Craig's report will, it is expected, be presented to-morrow, and may be immediately placed in the hands of the Cabinet Council at its meeting.

A large crowd attended the social held in the parish hall on Friday evening. Progressive euchre and dancing were indulged in. The prize winners were Mrs. Bert Lucas and Mr. Harry O'Rielly of Lindsay. The prizes were two Eversharp pencils. Misses Mary Collins and Carmilita O'Neil were the hostesses of the evening.

LUNCHROOMS FOR POSTAL WORKERS

Also Suggested That Postmasters Make Promotions.

OTTAWA, October 4 (Canadian Press). — The question of promotions gave rise, at yesterday afternoon's sitting of the conference of Dominion postal officials, to a brief but keen discussion. Topics of the day had run over many phases of post office work, but generally highly technical.

W. E. Lemon, postmaster, Toronto, would like the conference to express its opinion whether postmasters and the heads of branches should not hold promotion in their hands.

"I would suggest appointing postal clerks from among letter-carriers," urged J. E. E. Leonard, postmaster, Montreal. "I would have the law amended so as to permit of such a course." He thought the way to promotion should be opened to the letter-carrier, and that other things being equal, the letter-carrier should be given the preference.

Mr. Leonard's suggestion evidently met with considerable approval, although the conference did not formally go on record on the question. Written examinations, it was said, had not always given the best results.

There was also considerable discussion pro and con regarding the provision of lunch rooms for employees and the provision of individual lockers for outer clothing, as opposed to the check room.

RUM SMUGGLERS CAUGHT ON BEACH

The Halifax Prohibition Officers Had Reception Party As Cargo Landed.

HALIFAN, N.S., October 4 (Canadian Press). — Inspector Tracey, Chief of the Nova Scotia Prohibition Enforcement Officers, made a midnight raid on a liquor smuggling party on a sandy beach near Chester last night, seized one hundred gallons of rum, and procured fines totalling $900.00 against four members of the smuggling party.

The inspector and his assistants, acting on information, took up their positions near the beach at six o'clock last evening and waited until half-past eleven for the smugglers.

Two automobiles came along and signalled to a craft out on the bay.

A little later a dory came into the beach and landed twenty five-gallon kegs of rum, which was transferred to the automobiles.

Then the officers swooped down.

A slight show of resistance was quelled by a couple of revolver shots and the party of eight men captured.

Four, appearing to have no criminal complicity, were released, while the remaining four were rushed to Mahone and tried.

The whole transaction was over and the officers back in Halifax with the rum by eight o'clock this morning.

It was a Prohibition enforcement record.

JURY DISAGREED.

Judge Directed Them to Stay Out Till He Sent for Them.

ST. JOHN, N.B., October 4 (Canadian Press). — The case of John Paris, charged with the murder of Sadie McAuley, went to the jury at three o'clock.

During the afternoon and evening the jury reported twice that they were unable to agree.

On the last occasion Chief Justice McKeown instructed the jury to return and continue until they could agree or until he sent for them.

Amendments Proposed in Committee Rejected After Brief Debate — Would Destroy Fruits of Long and Bitter Struggle.

OATH IS OBLIGATORY.

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—(Canadian Press).—The Irish Parliament is making unexpectedly smooth and rapid progress in the debate in committee on the draft of the constitution. The draft is going through with very slight amendment in committee and doubtless will be adopted without essential alterations. Today, Clouse XVII., making the oath of allegiance obligatory upon all members of the Free State Parliament in accordance with the formula contained in the Anglo-Irish Treaty, was adopted by a large majority in its original form. Attempts were made to amend the oath to meet the objections of the Anti-Treatyites and Laborites, but these were rejected after brief debate. The speakers for the Government argued that any amendment would be throwing away Ireland's harvest from the long and bitter struggle.

The adoption of Clause XVII. is regarded as removing the last obstacle to giving the treaty form of law and as insuring that the constitution will be ready for submission to the British Parliament for ratification at the coming autumn session.

FORM OF OATH.

Article XVII. of the new constitution, which contains the oath, reads:

"The oath to be taken by Members of Parliament (Oireachtas) shall be in the following form:

"'I do solemnly swear true faith and allegiance to the Irish Free State as by law established, and that I will be faithful to H.M. King George V., his heirs and successors by law in virtue of the common citizenship of Ireland with Great Britain and her adherence to and membership of the group of nations forming the British Commonwealth of Nations.'

"Such oath shall be taken and subscribed to by every member of the Parliament before taking his seat therein, before the representative of the Crown or some person authorised by him."

IS NOT OPTIONAL.

Mr. O'Higgins said that he could not admit the suggestions appearing in the press, which stated that the oath was optional. He declared that such a position was opposed to common sense. No British or Irish signatory would admit that the oath which gave so much trouble and tension in the last stage of the negotiations was not to be taken by all the members of Parliament, precedent to taking their seats in the Dail, he asserted.

Gavin O'Duffy, former Foreign Minister, moved an amendment modifying the oath in such a manner as its sponsors claimed, would not drive the anti-treaty partisans and Labourites into direct action against the treaty.

An amendment from the Labour group sought to add a new paragraph in which the swearer would undertake to act in matters concerning the Fee State, only on the advice of the executive.

Both amendments wee defeated.

Mr. O'Higgins supporting the Government's position, pointed out that the Republicans who sat at Westminster, took a full oath of allegiance, as did Republicans in the Parliament of South Africa and every other country.

Clause 17, which contained the oath, was then voted and agreed upon without division.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, October 4.—There were no developments in the local grain market, but business in coarse grains was stronger with prices up one cent. A fair business was passing in the flour market. No changes were reported in the millfeed market. Rolled oats continue scarce. There is practically no de...d for baled hay. The butter market is at a standstill while there is nothing to report in cheese. Egg prices have stiffened one cent a dozen.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, Man., October 4. — Receipts to-day 2300 cattle and calves; 200 hogs and 90 sheep and lambs.

There as a poor demand on the cattle market this morninng for the majority of the killing classes, trade in the butcher division being generally slow with buyers bidding mostly weaker. Stockers and feeders were slow sellers around steady prices.

Packers were bidding $10 for select hogs with prospects of $10.50 later on.

The sheep and lamb market was in line with yesterday's close, bulk good lambs $10.50 to $11, and mutton sheep $5 to $6.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, October 4. — The egg situation is such that indicates much more confidence in the future. A further general advance is anticipated. Storage stocks are reported to be moving freely and sales of straight storage are reported at 40. cases returnable. The export situation remains unchanged.

Toronto unchanged. Poultry pickers are on strike.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, October 4. — Wheat prices developed an upward tendency yesterday owing to unneasiness regarding the outcome of the armistice conference at Mudania and as a result of heavy speculative buying of corn.

The wheat market closed firm 3-4 to 1 5-8c net higher, with December $1.06 to $1.06 1-8 and May $1.08 1-2 to $1.08 5-8. Corn gained 5-8 to 1 3-8c and oats 1 1-4 to 1 3-8 to 1 5-8c. The finish in provisions was unchanged to 7c lower.

Nervousness among wheat traders associated itself in particular with unlooked for strength shown by the Liverpool market, a circumstance difficult to harmonize with prospective peace at the Dardanelles. A decrease in the Canadian visible supply total notwithstanding the big movement of wheat from farms in Canada was an additional bullish factor. Fresh estimation of world import requirements and of the 1922 Canadian yield were of only temporary effect in easing the market during the middle of the Board of Trade session.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, Oct. 4. — Cattle receipts 13,000; choice and prime native beef steers and yearlings strong to higher; lower grades slow, uneven, about steady.

Hogs, receipts 26,000; opened slow around 25c lower; closing weak with some sales underweight and heavy packers 40c lower.

CROP REPORT

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—The exceptionally favorable weather of the past week has had an important influence on the progress of events in the rural sections. The gathering of the harvest has been practically completed with the exception of roots and apples. Fall fairs and school fairs have been making new records of success.

Silo filling has been concluded and has shown the corn crop, which earlier in the season did not promise well, to be well up to the average or better. Practically all the silos have been well filled and there has been moreover an encouraging increase in the number of silos. One Eastern Ontario county reports 25 new silos erected during this season.

The sowing of fall wheat is also finished and in many instances the wheat is up and looking well. The acreage appears to be about average. The continued warm weather will have a tendency to hasten growth to the point of danger when severe frosts come.

Fall plowing is being retarded by the lack of rain as in many sections the land is too hard for the plough.

On the other hand, the dry weather has been favorable for potatoes and roots, which are coming out of the ground for the most part free from rot or other diseases. Potatoes are turning out very well, but the prices are very low at country points. South Simcoe reports as low as 45c a bag being offered there, while in Peel carload lots are being shipped at from 50c to 65c a bag. In other sections prices are only slightly higher.

In fruit the rush of peaches is now over, but the grape harvest is nearing its height. Grapes are moving freely at $75 per ton.

The milk supply is being well maintained and live stock conditions generally are favorable.

In live stock marketing lambs have continued strong in price. North Simcoe reports that several farmers who followed the instructions in regard to docking and castrating last spring have led all others in prices secured on the market, lambs selling freely at $12.25 per cwt. for best quality.

In regard to bacon hogs, interest is being shown in making preparations for grading. One representative reports that he has been requested on a number of occasions to assist farmers in selecting sows of the best bacon type for breeding purposes.

From Timiskaming comes a particularly optimistic report as follows: "In many respects the district has concluded one of the best years it has had for a number of years. Only yesterday an old settler told me that in all his experience in the last fifteen years in the district he had never harvested a better crop than he has this year. Mining towns throughout the district are flourishing, more particularly the gold mining towns in the north end of the district. New properties are being discovered and opened up practically every week. I do not think there ever was a time when outside interest, men and capital, were more interested in this portion of Northern Ontaro than at the present time."

TURKS RETIREMENT SLOW.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3. —(Canadian Press).—The preliminary conference for the settlement of peace in the Near East began at Mudania today with the Allied generals and Ismet Pasha, representing the Turkish Nationalists, present. The meeting was called to order at three o'clock in the afternoon, but was shortly adjourned to Wednesday to permit the attendance of the Greek representatives.

General Mazarakis and Colonel Sarriyannis, who were yesterday appointed by the Greek Cabinet to act in the Mudania conference in behalf of Greece, arrived at Mudania on a Greek destroyer this evening, and will take their places at the conference table tomorrow.

General Harington, Commander-in-Chief of the Allied forces, will deal with the military questions in the negotiations as he deems best, a free hand having been given him by his Government in these matters. Subjects of a political or economic nature will be referred to the Allied High Commissioners, who will communicate with their Governments. The Commissioners will be in continuous contact with Mudania by wireless.

Control Greek Troops.

The Allied Ministers in Constantinople are understood to have drawn the attention of the Greek Government to the necessity of keeping the Greek troops in Thrace under control so as to avoid the possibility of a conflict. This was due to representations of the Angora Government that the Mohammedan population in Thrace were suffering exactions at the hands of the Greeks and the Greek troops are in a dangerous state of unrest.

Turks Are Tardy.

Up to the present the Turks have made no real preparations for their withdrawal from the neutral zone, and according to an official report, their slight retirement today was not of appreciable depth.

THE VETERAN CHARGES.

Charges made by the official publication of the Great War Veterans that returned soldiers are being discriminated against in appointments in the post office and finance departments should be investigated.

The impression must not be allowed to gain ground that Canada has forgotten the services of the men who answered her call in the hour of need. Other qualifications being equal, war veterans should have first care in Government appointments, and the people of Canada have been of the opinion that such a preference has been exercised in all such appointments.

Complaints from the veterans themselves that such is not the case, and that they are being passed over in favor of others, demand an official inquiry. The truth or otherwise of the charges could easily be established, and should be.

If the State itself does not see that the men who fought are given a fair chance, how is to be expected that private firms and individuals will accord an opportunity to those who sacrificed so much in the common interest?

MADE IN PETERBOROUGH.

Belleville is preparing to hold a huge "made-in-Belleville" exhibition in the near future, the manufacturers of the Bay of Quinte City having unanimously agreed to co-operate in the enterprise by making a display of their products.

The idea is to demonstrate Belleville's progress as a manufacturing centre and to acquaint the citizens with the goods manufactured in their own community.

The Examiner hopes that the feasibility of such an exhibition in Peterborough may impress local manufacturers.

Few centres in Ontario could produce such a varied and lengthy list of manufactured articles as Peterborough with its numerous industries.

Demonstrations made by some of our factories at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition indicated how successfully a made-in-Peterborough exhibition could be staged.

Peterborough is badly in need of a sanatorium for the treatment of consumptives. A made-in-Peterborough exhibition, with the proceeds devoted to a Sanatorium Fund, might serve two very useful and desirable purposes.

THE POWER ASSOCIATION.

The completion of the organization of the Central Ontario Power Association at yesterday's meeting should mean much to this whole district.

Seventeen municipalities were represented at Port Hope, and it is hoped that every municipality using Trent power will ally itself with the new organization.

The old motto that in union there is strength is hackneyed, but still one hundred per cent. true and the Power Association should not be long in demonstrating that fact in so far as power and other matters affecting this section of Ontario are concerned.

Individual municipalities are handicapped in many respects in securing action; a combination of all the municipalities in one district intelligently directed can accomplish things that would be impossible if they acted independently of each other.

There are many features in regard to power conditions in Central Ontario that require adjustment, and the executive of the new Association will not have to seek very far to find scope for their energy and activity.

It is to be hoped that the organization will prove itself very useful to the people of the district served by the Association.

A NECESSARY CHANGE.

Some of the American railways are conducting a "safer level crossing campaign" in the hope of educating motorists to the necessity of exercising care in crossing railway tracks.

That there is every need of such education the almost daily list of level crossing accidents indicates, and in this respect Canada shows no improvement over the neighboring republic.

The level crossing is a death trap.

In the neighborhood of Peterborough there are a number of such crossings, so situated that it is difficult to see for any distance on either side of the road, and if the number of these is multiplied many times over, it is possible to imagine how many such danger spots are to be found in the province.

In this connection there is one improvement that could be easily and inexpensively made. The danger signals warning travellers of the proximity of railway tracks remain just where they were first placed, in most cases just a few feet from the tracks. That was far enough in the days of horse and wagon traffic, but conditions are different now. The automobile has made road traffic speedier, and the signals do not serve their original purpose. If they were placed several hundred yards from the railway, motorists would be given a fair warning of a dangerous crossing, instead of being right in the danger zone before they realize it, as in many cases they find themselves to-day.

LEARNING ABOUT CANADA.

Axiomatic as the admonition may be, "Know your own land first" seems to be advice largely honored by non-observance in Canada, points out the Montreal Star. While we may dislike intensely to admit the fact, it remains unpleasantly obvious that the average Canadian's ignorance of his own country is something little short of astonishing. To what extent the system of school instruction is responsible for this, it would not be easy to determine off-hand, but anybody who desires to convince himself that ignorance is more common than knowledge need only to ask the first half-dozen Quebec youths he meets to name the six principal rivers in Ontario, or demand of six youths in Ontario the names of the six principal rivers in Quebec. The answers are liable to be more than disconcerting.

It may be argued that knowledge of rivers does not help the young Canadian to make his way in life. But knowledge of rivers implies knowledge of geography, which in turn entails acquaintance with the principal features of the various provinces. The man who knows his own land best is the man best fitted to study other lands in relation to hiso wn. The transcontinental tour organized by the Montreal Board of Trade in celebration of the jubilee of that body has afforded almost continuous proof of this truism. Accompanied by a party of British Parliamentarians, the Board of Trade members are now on the final lap of their route home. They have visited every province between Montreal and the Pacific—many of them for the first time. They have come into contact with western views, western thought, western ideals, and they have doubtless been surprised at the marked lines of divergence between these views and those of the East.

But the principal value and significance of the trip have lain in the mutual profits derived from an exchange of opinions and the consequent solution of many misunderstandings. Problems that are not to be solved easily have been threshed out, and the leading business men of the Metropolis have a better conception of what the West wants, thinks, and believes than they ever had before. One inevitable outcome is indicated in the announcement made by the President of the Board that Montreal will invite the Boards of Trade of the West to a Dominion conference on financial and economic questions in this city next year.

If the tour had no other outcome but this, it would not have been made in vain. But that is only one development. The eyes of the British Parliamentarians must have been opened widely as to the possibilities and resources of the Dominion, and it is incredible that they will go home and keep their knowledge thus acquired to themselves. Altogether Canada may count this cross-country tour as a happily conceived event, from which the Dominion at large is more than likely to derive substantial and permanent benefit.

THE FIRE SITUATION

There can be no question as to the seriousness of an y situation which calls for the issuance of a Royal Proclamation by His Excellency the Governor General and for a direct message to the public from the Honorable Prime Minister of Canada. In the most emphatic manner, all citizens within our wide Dominion have been directed to give observance to Fire Prevention Week and are requested to correct those conditions which menace prosperity by the destruction of created wealth and developed resources. Conservation is imperative if we are honourably to meet out national obligations and in no way can conservation be more effectively applied than by the prevention of needless fire waste. In taking its direct and indirect toll of almost $100,000,000 annually from the pockets of the people of Canada, fire adds to the high cost of living and gives nothing in return for the vast expenditure save the regretful memory that eighty per cent of the loss was caused by inexcusable thoughtlessness and carelessness that is almost akin to crime.

There appears to be an almost incurable mania of the human soul, "never to lock the stable door until the horse has been stolen." Tuberculosis could be forehanded as yellow fever and bubonic plague have been. So could anarchy and Bolshevism. So could graft and bossism. But society stupidly prefers to wait until the virus is lodged in its system before beginning the work of extermination. In the same way, we have tackled the fire waste problem "hind end foremost." If Hector and Priam had negotiated a loan from the Assyrians for the rebuilding of Troy when the Greeks first besieged it and had then evacuated the city until the waste was complete, they would have acted no more foolishly than we. They, however, manned the walls, fought the foe, tried to prevent the impending catastrophe and acted the part of men and citizens.

Up to the present time, in dealing with fire waste we have placed almost undivided emphasis upon reimbursing property-owners for preventable losses. Some day, our children or our grandchildren will read the story of our misdirected efforts with amusement, if not with pity and contempt. They will have discovered what we are too intelligent to recognize, that nine out of every ten fires are absolutely unnecessary. Of course, we know it—but indifference and inertia and torpor born of a supposed inexhaustible plenitude of wealth have emasculated the powers of self-restraint. "Who cares? We are rich enough to bear it," is the response of smug complacency. And so we stand, prodigals at heart, upon the threshold of a period in which national supremacy will largely depend upon individual and collective economy.

"Prevention of Loss," must be made the rallying cry of our attack upon the fire waste. For centuries, Chinese physicians have endeavored to prevent diesase rather than to cure it. The trend of our own medicine and surgery is increasingly prophylactic. The merchant takes frequent account of his stock to insure its commercial value. The manufacturer scans his inventory at close intervals to forestall dangerous business symptoms. The same principle, so effectively applied in other directions by modern thought, will not fail in its application to fire loss. Disease, commercial distress and fire have a common cause—Negligence. They also have a common cure that may be expressed in a single word—Carefulness. Every individual is under as great obligation to maintain his property free from fire hazard as he is to keep his body immune from disease. In its deepest sense, fire prevention is a mental attitude applied to one phase only of the manifold evils that affect civilization.

How best can a change of viewpoint be effected? No concrete gain is to be anticipated if fire prevention effort is confined to a campaign of kindly persuasion observed but one week out of the fifty-two. It must be assigned to the realm of inescapable duty, enforced by the sanctions of the law and made effective by public opinion. The people must be educated in the idea that fires are not accidents but that they are due to acts or omissions of individuals who are responsible for the burden their negligence imposes upon the community at large. The object of Fire Prevention Week will not be attained unless throughout Canada, its observation be made the clarion call to a new moral awakening and clearer perception of the duties of Canadian citizenship.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Commencing from to-day Babe Ruth will drive Kemal Pasha out of the principal head lines in the United States newspapers.

Quebec sets the pace for Canada in many respects. Witness the fact that there is to be a "hygiene week" during this month, in which addresses on health matters are to be given everywhere.

As the Ottawa Journal puts it, the Toronto Telegram has not yet traced the Near East situation to the Drury Government, but no doubt is preparing the evidence.

Veterans of Canada's first overseas contingent must have been in a reminiscent mood yesterday, the anniversary of the sailing of the Canadian Expeditionary Force from Gaspe Bay.

Judging by the reason assigned for the new diseases, a lot of Peterborough drivers must be suffering from "automobile foot," said to be caused by stepping on the accelerator.

Every day should be "Fire Prevention Day." On the basis of population, the loss in Canada amounts to $5.22 per capita as compared with .90 per capita in Great Britain.

THE MYSTERY MIND

His course was strange for and direct a house-to-house canvasser. He made no further calls, but turned up to Eighth Street, then walked west to Sixth Avenue and diagonally up Greenwich Avenue to the express subway station at Twelfth Street and Seventh. There he took a New Cortlandt Park train and rode nearly ten miles to the north, alighting at Dyckman Street.

Passing by the mushroom growths of apartment buildings, which would have been his natural field of operations if he had been a genuine peddler, he made his way to Broadway and turned again to the north and once more into an unpaved and unnamed street to the west, little more than an alley leading in a general direction toward the Hudson and mounting the slight preliminary rise which behind became Inwood Hill.

Here was a relic of old New York, a rambling frame farmhouse still surrounded by its fields and barns. There was some live stock in sight; chickens scratched about in the yard and road; more, a number of cheap garments hung out on a line to dry, the wash of a farmers wife.

Dupont lumbered up the center of the road, adopting the walk of a man who had been trudging city streets interminably and who resented this bit of country dirt. In the plain sight from Broadway, once the brow of the hill was mounted, but concealed from the house, was a man on watch. His interest seemed to be in the inmates of this little farm.

The hypnotist paid no attention to him. As Dupont passed, however, the watcher mouthed a message, just loud enough to carry.

"All inside, boss No one has left, no one has arrived." It was Jake the operative who had worked with Dupont at Jamaica Bay.

Dupont set down his grip, pulling out a colored pocket handkerchief to mop his face and neck. Under its cover he could speak.

"Wait till night unless they spot me and I don't come out."

"Gotcha, boss"

"How many of you?"

"Two now, ten at dark."

"Right"

Wearily the peddlar took up his case of samples, continuing to the house. At the front door he looked about in vain for a bell and, finding none, knocked vigorously. There was no response, but he persisted. Finally a hatchet-faced woman answered to his knock with a scowl. She was dressed in rather ragged print goods, still wet in spots from her washing. Her hair was skinned back into a scrawny knot caught and held with two huge hairpins. A greasy sunbonnet hung down her back, its strings tied carelessly about her neck. The make-up, as a slatterly farmer's wife, was perfect. Yet Dupont suspected her to be Lydia, the wife of Case, described to him by Violet.

"We don't want nawthing," she drawled, with a nasal twang, after a moment's inspection of the canvasser. Then she attempted to shut the door.

He put his foot in the jamb and pushed in by her, as he had done at Washington Square. With a few muttered words he opened his case, spreading it out and making himself at home so that it would be difficult to eject him in a hurry. Meanwhile, swiftly, surely, he studied the interior arrangement without appearing to do so.

Here was no farmhouse. Heavy shutters had been rigged inside each window. Huge timbers had been fashioned to barricade the door. To a casual observer the preparations would not be obvious because muslin curtains had been hung to conceal them, while a general effort had been made to keep up a correspondence with the outside of the place.

His intrusion had been utterly unexpected, because a further room lay wide open before him. Although a black-shrouded figure, with muttered exclamations, hastened to pull sliding doors between Dupont and himself, Dupont had a glimpse of sombre hangings and a strange, barbaric altar.

Case, the hunchback, rushed into the room from some back wing of the house, excited. He was followed by a girl in knee dresses and pigtails, whom Dupont nevertheless recognized as Vera. Vera Collins, in fact, by some miracle of consistency, had abandoned cosmetics and had cultivated a tan and freckles and a shiny nose.

"He pushed in," she answered, sullenly.

"Father" Vera spoke in the same dialect. There was an ironical twinge to her words as she addressed Case. "The men are watching still. I just saw one."

"What of it?"

"They may question this peddler," Vera explained. "He has seen our arrangements."

"He hasn't seen anything," insisted Lydia. "Look at him He's a stupid Russian Jew"

At that moment the lid of a chest, apparently placed in a little alcove as a window seat, was pushed up from within, and Renard stepped out. He was dressed as Case, in farmer's garb. From his expression of surprise, Dupont grasped that he had betrayed the entrance to a secret passage.

"What the hell—" he began, in English, seeing Dupont.

Vera hastened to explain in Spanish. Renard grinned finally.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—Refusal of unemployed to accept work unless at exorbitant wages gravely threatens the harvest situation throughout northwestern Manitoba, according to Hon. Neil Cameron, Provincial Minister of Agriculture. Many men were refusing to go to the harvest fields for less than $7.00 or $8.00 a day, he said.

"The situation to say the least, is very acute,' Mr. Cameron said. He did not think any crops actually had been spoiled as yet, but grain was standing out in the field and unstooked and horses were idle for want of men to do the ploughing.

Don't Let Your Battery Freeze

These simple health hints will help keep your battery in good condition for winter driving. The best way to remember them is to cut out this advertisement and tack it up in your garage.

1. Keep the battery fully charged. Don't let its specific gravity drop below 1.280. A fully-charged battery never freezes.

2. Fill the battery with water regularly every two weeks, to bring the level of the solution 3/8 of an inch above the tops of the insulators.

The nearest Willard Battery Station will gladly give your battery this care. Bring it in today and have its specific gravity tested, and water put in. Make sure it is fit for the rigors of winter. The Willard Station serves all batteries with equal care regardless of make.

Winter Storage

KEMAL HAILED AS CONQUEROR

Great Reception For Turkish National Leader at Angora Yesterday.

LONDON, Oct. 4. — (Canadian Press.) — Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Turkish Nationalist leader, entered Angora yesterday as a conqueror and with a conqueror's honors, says a despatch to the Daily Express from Constantinople.

Kemal was received at the station by a deputation of members of the National Assembly and was driven to the Legislature building through decorated and troop lined streets and under triumphal arches. The Assembly, which was in full session, congratulated Kemal on his great victories over the Greeks. Afterwards Kemal attended a banquet given by the municipality. A general holiday had been declared in honor of the arrival of Kemal.

MILLBROOK MINISTERS HELD MEETING OF THE ASSOCIATION

Paper Presented By Rev. G. I. Craw of Springville —C.M.E. Baseball League Issue Official Schedule For the Season — Millbrook News.

MILLBROOK, October 4. — The October meeting of the Ministerial Association was held in the Sunday School Hall of St. Thomas' Church on Monday at 9.30 a.m., Rev. Canon Allen occupying the chair in the absence of both the president, Rev. S. T. Tucker and the vice-president, Rev. R. M. Paterson.

The paper for this meeting was prepared by Rev. G. I. Craw, of Springville, his subject being, "The Ideal Pattern," and the close interest with which it was listened to, together with the liveliness of the discussion which followed, bore abundant testimony to the excellence of the subject matter presented.

Besides the chairman and the speaker, five other members were present, including Revs. J. E. Beckel, of Bethany, S. G. Rorke, of Cavan, H. Wilkinson, of Pontypool, C. R. Spencer, and the secretary, G. S. Gervan, of Millbrook.

The next meeting will be held on the second Monday in November instead of the first as usual, the latter being Thanksgiving Day this year. Rev. C. R. Spencer is to be the speaker.

Drinking Fountain.

The new white marble drinking fountain, installed at the joint expense of the village and township Councils, has now been placed in position at the east side of the Town Hall, replacing the iron pipe which formerly served the public at that point. Doubtless the new fountain is more sanitary since it permits the iron cup, which was used by everyone, to be discarded, no receptacle being required according to the present arrangement. The matter of filling pitchers or pails, however, is another question, and has been arranged for by having a pipe boxed in about three feet from the drinking fountain, where a good flow is maintained, and which is quite convenient for those accuseomed to secure their supply of drinking water at the Town Hall.

Baseball Meeting.

An official meeting of the executive of the C. M. E. Baseball League was called for Monday, 2nd October, at 8 p.m., the following members being notified to attend: Dr. Hamilton and B. Ryley, of Bethany, T. Shields, of Mount Pleasant, M. M. Weir and E. Mitchell, of Omemee, R. H. Edmunds and P. Stinson, of Millbrook.

The meeting was held in Captain McGill's office, the chair being occupied by Mr. Stinson, president of the League; none of the members from either Mount Pleasant or Omemee were present.

Owing to the fact that Mount Pleasant failed to finish the schedule and also to the lateness of the season, the executive unanimously decided to issue the following official schedule of the unfinished second round.

	Won	Tie	To Play	Lost
Bethany	3	1	1	1
Omemee	2	0	0	4
Mt. Pleasant	0	0	1	5

This concludes the series for the season, but as the games have furnished good sport, and been well attended this summer, there will be a general desire that a similar league will be formed again next year.

The Millbrook team had the highest score for the first round their record being four games won, and two lost.

Rally Day Service Held in the Church—Beef Ring Closed For the Season.

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 4.—The rally day service was observed in the Methodist church on Sunday evening, the service commencing at 7 o'clock. The church was handsomely decorated with flowers and grain and credit is due the ladies of the Sunday school who took such an active part in providing the flowers and material for decorating as well as assisting in many different ways towards making the service a success.

The crowd was unusually large, and benches had to be placed in the aisles to accommodate the people.

The entire membership of the Sunday school joined in the parade, the smaller boys and girls carrying bouquets of flowers and placing them on huge trays held by Misses Lottie Earle and Viola Gainer.

Membership Increase.

Rev. R. M. Patterson took charge of the programme and every one present greatly enjoyed the splendid address which the pastor so ably gave.

The secretary of the Sunday school gave a splendid report which went to show that the membership of the school was one hundred and thirty-five and there was an average attendance of ninety-five, an increase of about ten over last year.

Excellent music was provided by the choir, a duet was rendered by Miss Mildred White and Frank Dawson, entitled "My Task."

A rally day offering was taken and everyone gave genrously to the worthy cause, making a good sum of money to send to the general treasury.

Beef Ring Closed.

The beef ring which has been giving splendid satisfaction in this community for the last four months, closed the last of September for this season.

A meeting of the shareholders was held in the U.F.O. hall on Tuesday night to conclude the business for the past year, and to appoint new officers to fill the place of any retiring officers for the next season, 1923.

Everyone was thoroughly satisfied with the success of this year's ring, and the business was soon settled up without any errors.

The president, Mr. James Campbell, resigned, as well as the vice-president, W. H. Barnard, and Secretary Ceveland Byers, and the offices were filled as follows: President, Wilfrid Brown; Vice-President, Fred Wood; Secretary, Harold Bebee. The present inspector, George Anderson, was appointed for another term, and the butcher, Harry Dawson, will also continue his present position for the ensuing year.

Another meeting was called on Saturday evening to determine as to whether they would go on and buy cattle and keep the ring going for some weks longer or not. But the shareholders decided that they would close the ring for this season and open it again in June 1923. It was also decided to enlarge the ring to 20 members instead of 16.

Personals.

Everyone is enjoying the fine weather on the water. Many boats are noticed on the lake, both fishing and shooting. The last two weeks have been ideal weather for such sport.

VENIZELOS PR TESTING THE RETURN OF THRACE

Foints Out That Turks Destroyed $1,500,000 Armenians.

LONDON, Oct. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Former Premier Venizelos of Greece, in a long letter to the Times, protesting against the return of Thrace to the Turks, who, since the beginning of the war, he declares, have destroyed in Asia Minor more than a million and a half Armenians, says: "If it is not necessary to give further guarantees to Kemal that the promise concerning the return of Eastern Thrace will meet with no obstacle in its execution, this province, as a last resort, could be occupied by Allied troops until the execution of the treaty. If Kemal withdraws from the neutral zone and British troops are thus freed from the present pressure exercised upon them, they will constitute a sufficient force in conjunction with detachments of troops belonging to other Allied Powers, whose contingents are relatively small, to occupy the whole of Eastern Thrace. This military occupation would give them, power and the right of absolute control of Greek administration so that all the Turkish fears regarding the security of their co-religionists might be allayed."

A STERN FIGHT AND A TRIANGULAR CONTEST.

LONDON, Oct. 4. — (Canadian Press).—There remains no doubt that the Newport (Wales) by-election to fill the House of Commons' vacancy caused by the death of James Haslam (Coalition Liberal), will be a triangular contest on the old lines and a stern fight is expected. Polling takes place on October 18.

The Liberals have adopted as their candidate, Lyndon Moore, a local solicitor, who has been conspicuous in the town's affairs for thirty years. The Laborites have nominated J. W. Bowen, a postal worker, who opposed the late member, and the Conservatives nominated Reginald Clarry, of Swansea, who has local business and social connections. Clarry, however, may be handicapped through the Conservative headquarters refusing to ratify his candidature because it is not being conducted on the Coalition ticket.

Summer resorts are deserted except for the last beaux of summer.

"This Freedom"

(By Jeannette)

Public opinion with regard to the merits of A.S.M. Hutchinson's latest novel, "This Freedom" seems to be as equally divided as it was over its immediate predecessor, "If Winter Comes". The latter book is now in its 31st British edition, a fact that shows that, while Mr. Hutchinson's brain children may not be liked by all, they are at least read by the great majority of the book reading public. They are evidently capable of arousing curiosity and interest, which is just about as much as any author can demand and a great deal more than most of them receive.

"This Freedom" has the same baffling quality that inhabited the pages of "If Winter Comes". The painstaking reader who wades through pages of long-drawn-out dissertion willl finally be rewarded by dramatic bits that form the highllights of the story but the impatient one who goes just so far and then throws the volume down with a hearty "Bosh!" will have his champions also.

Exaggeration marks the heavily-drawn characters. They have no soft, redeeming instincts of humour or of pathos. There isn't a spark of funny laughable incident in the whole three hundred and seventy-two pages. They are tragic and morose and ineffective, in turn, but never comical as most humans are at some time or another in their existence. Over the entire volume looms a brooding Fate that justifies its looming presence in the few last swift-moving chapters. The fingers of Destiny, awesome and morbid, guides the life of Rosalie from the first instant of her introduction into the tale. The characters at times, in the exaggerated emphasis placed upon their main characteristics by their creator, assume the proportions of those dark elongated figures cast upon a screen when one walks behind a lighted lamp, representations of humans, truly enough, but unnatural, grotesque shadowy representations.

Mr. Hutchinson has evidently set out to prove a contention that the way of the modern woman, in her insistence on individual liberty, is a bad and terrible thing, both for herself and for the nation. Whether he has proved it or not, is problematical. The heroine, Rosalie, with her twisted conceptions of men and things, is the product of a home which is ruled by the old-fashioned woman, the ineffective, meek type which the author holds up to ridicule and yet professes to believe is the proper ideal for a woman, after all. Treating with a scornful pen the education of Rosalie at her mother's knee, he goes on to enumerate the dreadful things that transpire from education supervised by a cold-hearted, hired educationalist, without sentiment of any sort, and yet returns in the last poignant sentences to the "mother's knee" idea once more. The triple tragedy which he brings down on the head of the luckless woman who has demanded that her individuality be recognized, in the moral and physical destruction of her three children, is nullified in its emphasis by the fact, recorded in the first chapters of the novel, of the suicide of Anna, the child of an extremely normal home, where the mother never had any rights, and never thought for a moment that she should have. The discerning reader might say that the author had merely moved in a vicious circle, in which he had proved the utter failure as a mother of two types of women; the old and the new, symbolized in a sentence of his which described them both accurately enough. "She (Rosalie's mother belonged to that dark age when duty towards others was the guiding principle of moral life; she came only to the threshold of this enlightened age in which duty to oneself is known to be the paramount and first and last consideration of life as it should be lived." After this illuminating sentence, he proceeds to illlustrate the terrible fate which befell the woman who considered her own lindividuaity as the prime consideration of life.

Extreme, exaggerated and contradictory as the theme appears to be, there are some wonderful pen-portraits in the volume, recalling Dickens, but with a swift, nervous touch to their rapid delineations that never marred the mild and lovabe pen of Dickens. And there are little insets of sincere and moving thought, in eloquent measures, as where he enlarges on the sentence: "Rosalie ran to her mother to cry", and goes on: "Oh, it is the defeats you want where to tell—some one you can take the defeats to, the failures, the lost things; the lamps that are gone out, the hopes that are ashes, the springs that spring no more, the secret sordid things that eat you up, that hedge you all about, that draw you down. Those To have some one to tell those to! Yes, there's a thought that comes with living: Let who may receive a man's triumphs; to whom a soul can take its defeats, that one has the imprint of Godhood. They walk near God."

Rosalie's disike of men, 'tame cats' as she calls them; her contrary desire to do the work that men do; her egoistic belief in herself; her hard-hearted quality that allows her to rob the cousin who has always been kind to her of that cousin's suitor, and that makes her cling to business success for herself while her home and children go to ruin without her, may be the atributes of the modern woman, but they are strongly exaggerated in this book. There is some thing rather humorous in the conclusion of Rosalie that men marry for a home; "because all this had come to her with secret, fond amusement as she watched Harry delightedly and entrancedly fussing about the houses they explored", a conclusion that upsets all the ancient theories of woman's longings and desires in the picture of Rosalie yearning for a desk in the heart of the business world, while her husband, a successful lawyer, longs for a cosy nest. The finger of Fate pauses momentarily while Rosalie returns to her home and gives up her career, but her husband unthinkingly irritates her, when he says: "Do you know, it's almost exactly a year since you chucked it?" And she thinks: "Chucked it"! "The light expression smote her. O manlike man that thus could phrase divorce that from her heart's engrossment had cut her life asunder!" Ths remarkable bit of exaggerated sentiment contains only one inadequate exclamation-point to mark its extreme foolishness in the average reader's mind, but the author, while evidently quite sincere in his sympathy for the poor woman, condemned to a life of ease with three beautiful children and a devoted husband, turns in the next chapter to the dire results that follow upon her return to the business world.

In this book, as in its predecessor, the author uses a reiterated expression to mark, as in music, the oncoming, inexorable Destiny which has been foreshadowed since the beginning of the story. He starts with "There was a mirage in her face", and repeats this at intervals to express the dual personality of the heroine, then, in the last chapters, changes to "Strike on!" a phrase that recurs with the same intense frequency as the "Look here" expression of Mark Sabre in the trial scene in "If Winter Comes". Irritiating yet effective at the commencement, it loses its power when the author uses it alike in conection with the sensible request of Hugh that his childhood nickname of "Huggo" be dropped, and with the dreadful occurrence of the daughter's death in shameful circumstances. To Rosalie, evidently, and to the high-pitched, tense mind of her creator, these two dissimilar things are nearly akin in their power to wound and hurt—the heart of a woman who is pictured as being heartless and cruel in the real things of life.

RADIO IN POLITICS

New York Police Department has its own broadcasting station. It is considered one of the finest in the country. From it police departments in other cities, with radio receiving equipment, get first information of criminals at large. Superintendent M. R. Brennan of the Police Telegraph Bureau is shown broadcasting such a report.

Radio will take the picturesque out of politics.

When wireless telephone apparatus will become common in American homes and conversation by air will be as popular as by line, then politicians predict an end to political campaigning as it is known today.

The flare and blare of the old-time political rally has gradually been waning, until now we have only the annual campaign without its former glamor. There still remain, however, the mass meeting and the rallying trumpeters, the "swing around the circle," rear platform speeches, visiting celebrities and their spectacular reception at each stopping place.

Less Strain.

But all this will be gone when radio is adopted into politics. Then the politician will stay at home and broadcast his speeches. Only the local mass meetings will remain, and even they will be different from what they used to be.

Radio concerts — and perhaps later on, radio movies and news pictures of the speakers—will take the place of all these. In between selections will come a political speech.

For those who will have no private radio receiving set the radio mass meeting will be provided. There, loud speakers, such as have been used for the reception of important presidential speeches, will take up the centre of the platform.

This is no flight of the imagination, either. Senator Harry S. New of Indiana started it last year when he broadcast his speeches to his constituents from the Government station at Arlington.

Fall Campaign.

In New York, radio will play an important part in this fall's campaign. Radio companies have besieged the state chairmen of both parties for the contract to disseminate their candidates' voices to every radio-equipped home in the state.

"We are considering the advisability of erecting a broadcasting station of our own," Samuel Koenig, chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, recently said. "It is certain that by fall we shall have made some arrangement to utilize this newest marvel of communication."

But there is one consolation in this possibility. That is, the audience need not sit through the whole of a monotonous political speech. All a listener need do in the future is tune out! And search for a more entertaining program from some other station.

ORGANIZATION OF MEN'S CLUBS PROPOSED AT RURAL DEANERY

Representation Large.

Important phases of the work of the Anglican church in this district received thoughtful attention and consideration in the group sessions at the annual meeting of the Rural Deanery of Peterborough and Northumberland counties which was held in Peterborough on Tuesday. Incidentally this was the last convention of the Deanery representing the two counties, the southern section being henceforth affiliated with the lakeshore towns. The section thus separated from Peterborough includes the parishes of Cobourg, Colborne, Brighton, Gore's Landing and Grafton.

The sessions were held in All Saints' parish hall during the day and at St. John's in the evening, and were among the most largely attended in the history of the Deanery. Miss Halliday of Peterborough, presided over the Women's Auxiliary group which was opened by Rev. Major Belford of Warkworth and Brighton. A greeting of welcome was extended the visitors by Mrs. Harris, president of the All Saints' Women's Auxiliary Reports were made by practically all the branches, and Miss Halliday was re-elected as Deanery officer. Mrs. Daniels, of Toronto, spoke on various activities of the Auxiliary, dealing particularly with the work of the Dorcas society. The oldest visitor present was Mrs. Thompson of Brighton, now in her eighty-fifth year, who motored sixty-five miles from Brighton to be present at the 11 a.m. service.

Sunday Schools.

Mr. A. J. Jenkins of Campbellford, was chairman of the Sunday school group. "Does the Sunday school interfere with church attendance," was one of the subjects discussed, and the co-relative topic of methods of obviating any tendency in this direction was considerd. Graded unions, the grading of classes and adult Bible classes, and also 'teen age boys and girls were points that came up during this session. Special attention was given to the effects of the Canadian Standard Efficiency Tests, and Rev. Canon Sawers of Cobourg, told of the success he had experienced with the Tuxis square, the results of which were shown in the training of boys for leadership and service.

The A.Y.P.A.

Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton, of Norwood, was chairman of the A.Y.P.A. group meeting. Delegates were present from Campbellford, Hastings, Young's Point, Peterborough, Norwood, Havelock and Lakefield. Emphasis was given to the advantages of the A.Y.P.A. from the standpoint of fraternity and service. A resolution was passed recommending that the societies in the Deanery corresponding with the A.Y.P.A., but not affiliated with, should be urged to unite with it. Fraternal visits between branches were also recommended.

The Men's Group.

At the session of the men's group, Rural Dean Rev, C. E. Clarke, of Campbellford, presided with an attendance of thirty delegates. Following a discussion on men's clubs it was moved by Dr. Byers and seconded by Mr. J. A. Aylmer that this meeting, "representing the laymen of the Church of England of the Deanery of Northumberland and Peterborough, urge the calling of the leading laymen to consider the formation of mens' clubs."

The four clergymen of Peterborough were requested to appoint a committee of men to put this proposal forward by visiting the parishes and speaking at meetings. It was also resolved that the existing form of convention with the organized subcommittees or groups be an annual affair, as it was felt that this would prove a great benefit to the parishes.

Hospitality Appreciated.

Supper was served to the delegates in All Saints 'parish hall, at the close of which a vote of thanks to the Anglican ladies of Peterborough for their splendid hospitality was moved by Miss Blanche Graham of Lakefield and seconded by Mrs. Holdcroft of Havelock.

The Evening Meeting.

Another large attendance marked the evening session in the parish hall at St. John's church. Rural Dean Clarke presided, and addresses were given by Mrs. Daniels and Rev. J. E. Gibson, of Toronto.

In a helpful address on the work of the children's auxiliaries, Mrs. Daniels said that the children were the hope of the church. Their training in the Little Helpers branch and the the Junior Auxiliary made it easier to teach the children so that the message of the church would be passed on to others.

Work Among Boys.

Boys' work was the subject presented by Rev. Mr. Gibson, who has charge of a large summer camp for boys. It had been found, he said, that many young men were not reached by the church at the age when they needed its guiding and steadying influences. Money and leadership were important factors in this department, Rev .Mr. Gibson said. Business men and others gave generously of their means toward this work, and the development of the boys was accomplished by good amusements, games and sports. Boys naturally turn in their difficulties to men for help and advice and it is most important that they should have the right guidance at such times.

Rural Dean Clarke spoke on the resolutions of the afternoon, and it was stated that as a result of these meetings a Sunday School Association wil be formed in the Deanery. This was the first occasion on whch the A.Y.P.A. was officially recognized by an invitation to be present, and it was intimated that this would be an annual feature.

IF BACK HURTS TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

EAT LESS MEAT IF KIDNEYS FEEL LIKE LEAD OR BLADDER BOTHERS.

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing ocasionally, else we would have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, se vere headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment that you feel an ache or a pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few mornings and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is mad: from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

POWER ISSUES THIS DISTRICT

Peterborough Represented at a Meeting Held in Port Hope Yesterday — Purchase Central Ontario System.

PORT HOPE, October 4. Canadian Press. — Representatives from seventeen municipalities gathered here yesterday to discuss the advisability of purchasing the Central Ontario power system and place it on a similar basis to the power development in Western Ontario.

Towns and cities represented included Cobourg, Deseronto. Lindsay, Peterboro, Oshawa, Port Hope, Millbrook, East Whitby, Wellington, Stirling, Kingston, Bowmanville, Colborne, Brighton, Belleville, Pickering and Newcastle.

The first item transacted was the formation of an association to be known as the Midland Municipal Association. Mayor O'Reilly of Lindsay was elected to the presidency; Mayor John Stacey of Oshawa, vice-president; J. O. Herity, Belleville, secretary, and T. H. Stinson, of Lindsay, acting secretary.

A board of management composed of delegates from every town or city represented here to-day, was also formed.

Entrance fee was fixed at $10 for villages, $15 for towns and $25 for cities.

Following a bitter discussion which threatened at one time to resolve itself into a debate over private vs. public ownership, the following resolution was drawn up and adopted: "Resolved that this meeting appoint a committee to negotiate with the government through the Hydro-Electric Commission for the purchase of properties of the Central Power System at actual value, and when the price and terms are settled same to be submitted to a meeting of all the municipalities interested, and if found satisfactory to that meeting, to be sent on to the various municipalities, the same to be later submitted to the electorate."

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

800 ARE ARRESTED FOR SHRINE RIOTING, INDIA

LONDON, Oct. 4— (Canadian Press Cable—A Reuter cable from Armritsar, India, says that, apart from those cases with which a magistrate dealt on the spot, 800 Akalis Sikhs have been arrested in connection with the shrine riots at Guru Ka Bagh, Punjab. Two hundred and thirty have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from three to six months, besides being fined. Forty were sentenced to a fortnight's solitary confinement.

Late in August the Akalis (Sikh fanatics caused a good deal of lawlessness by their movement to seize the property of the Shrine at the Guru Ka Bagh. The leaders included an ex-Deputy President of the Punjab Council, and eight members of the Sikh organization for the reform of the Shrines.

Met Local Board.

A resolution was passed that the whole Council meet the Board of Works of the city of Peterborough and City Engineer Parsons, in regard to deepening the Romaine Street culvert on Monaghan Road.

On the evening of 27th September, the North Monaghan Council met the City Board of Works in regard to deepening of this culvert for the proposed drainage scheme at Brownton.

City Engineer Parsons reported that the sewer on Monaghan Road was very close to the bottom of the culvert.

After the matter was discussed, it was left with the City Engineer and the Township Engineer to inspect the culvert and report forthwith to their respective Councils.

A resolution was passed that a grant be made to Road Division No. 4 for grading on the South Monaghan boundary, the total cost of the work not to exceed $50.00.

At a previous meeting of the North Monaghan Council, a resolution was moved by J. S. Bell, and seconded by John Barns, that the grant from the Department of Public Highways for 913.99, being a 20 per cent. subsidy on township roads for the year 1921, be distributed on the basis of 20 per cent. of the amount of money raised in each road division of the township.

R. A. Dobbin made an amendment, seconded by Deputy Reeve Lillico, that the clerk be instructed to interview E. A. Peck, the township solicitor, asking for his written advice as to whether it is legal for the township to use the 20 per cent. grant for general township purposes, their opinion being that this money should be used to reduce the general township rate.

The disposal of the Government grant will be left in abeyance until advice from the solicitor is received.

At the meeting on 27th September, Reeve Rye voted for the amendment, although he stated clearly that he did not think that this was in accordance with the Good Roads programme.

The meeting then adjourned.

The next meeting of the Council will be held on Monday, 9th October, at the Court House, Peterborough, at 2 p.m.

Tailored Costumes

So many attractive blouses are shown, too. Most of them have plain, round collars with which a colored silk tie may be worn.

They are made both with long and short sleeves; some are bloused very full ,others are quite trim and tailored with rows of prim little buttons down the front.

The blouses are made of dimity, voile, pongee or batiste and the skirts of serge, twill and flannel.

A TRAVELLER IN MANY COUNTRIES VISITS MILLBROOK

An interesting visitor to Peterborough yesterday was Mr. James White of Melbourne, Australia, who, with Mrs. White, is the guest at present of Mr. and Mrs. H. Elson, of Millbrook. Mr. White, who, with his wife, has been a constant traveller over the continents of Europe and America for the last nine or ten years, was encountered by Mr. Elson while the latter was in France last summer. "I liked the looks of him, so I asked him over to see what Canada is like," remarked Mr. Elson.

Mr. and Mrs. White on one of their periodical trip,s spent several months in the Old Country, just prior to the war ,and are now returning to their home after a visit to the devastated regions and to Ireland, Scotland and England. Mr. White, who was born in the County Cavan, Ireland, re-visited his old home, which is now one of counties included in the Irish Free State. He and his wife travelled with perfect safety from one end of Ireland to the other, he says, but he noticed a lamentable business depression, in the manufacturing centres, particularly in Belfast.

Although he has been a resident of Australia for the last twenty-three years ,and is very much attached to that country, Mr. White is especially enthusiastic over the future possibilities of Canada, and remarked that, if he had not already established himself in Melbourne, he would like nothing better than to live in our Dominion. There is a freer, more open atmosphere here, he asserts ,and compared Australia unfavorably with Canada with regard to its scenery. The complaint Mr. White had of Ausfralian trees was rather an odd one. He objects to their eternal greenness. With very little cold weather and only slight frosts, the trees in that country are green from one year's end to the other, "a dark, gloomy green" that Mr. White could not see any beauty in. The October tints of orange ,and red and gold in our Canadain woods were to him a revelation of splendid colour.

Questioned with regard to New Zealand, "the workman's paradise," as it has been called, Mr. White said that it was, in reality, a paradise for workmen ,and for the lowest type of workman. The laborer, he declared, in New Zealand, a man with no trade or calling, the butcher's cart driver, the helper of the plasterer and the carpenter, received big wages out of proportion to their ability, while the clerical worker received a much lower wage.

Mr. and Mrs. White sail from Vancouver for their home on the 20th of this month. Referring to the wonderful mountain ranges of British Columbia, Mr. White observed that he had no doubt that Canada would in time surpass Switzerland in tourist traffic. He had been in Switzerland nine or ten times, he said, and could see nothing in their much-advertised mountains, with plenty of artificial scenery, to equal the wonderful natural grandeur of the Western Rockies.

WHERE TO HUNT IN CANADA.

There are many districts contiguous to the Canadian National Railways where the hunter can get his limit bag of game. In the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec they are numerous and within a few hours' travel of your home. The excitement of the chase is wonderfully fascinating, and, in addition, a week or two in the woods furnishes the finest kind of a vacation. Abundance of moose, deer, bear and game birds are to be obtained with a minimum of effort and expense.

One Minute Late

by Jack Lait

DIXIE DAISY, the nifty young Geo'gia peach with the melodious daown Saouth accent, was heading back to the Big Burg after a short season at Saratoga, where the hosses were running. Daisy loved the hosses. In her country, before the flivvers of modern tincan commerce had rattled the romance out of life, fast steeds and fair ladies were the headline attractions of those celestial regions south of Mr. Mason's and Mr. Dixon's line. Daisy loved the combination. She contributed the looks and carried them wherever the ponies operated.

Not alone her love of thoroughbred equinity lured her to Saratoga. At that propinquitous spa were crowds; and those crowds were prosperous, boisterous and numerous. Daisy's profession thrived best in just that surrounding. For her calling, as everyone knows, was the intricate and precarious art of extracting from the pockets of the populace that handsome living which the world owed her since Abraham Lincoln had rudely given her great-grandfather's slaves their freedom and thus driven her to this life.

She had plucked a reasonable residue from the hiding places of the wads and the wallets during the season—not much, but the assessed modicum for the time spent. Daisy collected the living the No'thern world owed her by no harum scarum guesswork, but on an efficiency system like any other up-to-date business institution; she calculated so much for expense, so much more for overhead, wear and tear, leakage and breakage, depreciation, good will and taxes, to which she added a pro rata sinking fund and the profit dividend; all that totaled about $100 a day, and that was the round figure fixed as the quota.

Saratoga hadn't run any ahead of this objective. The bookies had been hitting the sporty rather consistently, and currency was comparatively scarce. Instead of a clean-up, the racing span had been just bread and apple sauce, and Daisy felt aggrieved. She decided to give the up-State resort the Autumn air, and glide back to Manhattan, where the out-of-town buyers and the heavy influx of foreign fish might yield a handsomer per diem. The books hadn't been any too sweet to her, for she had ventured a few of her hard-hooked dollars against the wrong entries, and she was peeved with the breaks all around.

Carter Lewlands put in a miserable breakfast with her at the hotel before she made for the train. Carter was shamelessly in love with Daisy. An upstanding young merchant of inherited banking ethics and Christian Vermont stock, he would naturally get dizzy over a dip from Dixie—poetic justice or ironic fate or the paradoxical perversity of nature looks after such as that.

Lewlands had met Daisy in the stands, had skidded hard on sight, had gone completely off the broad road of his characteristic balance when she had turned her appealing Big Bertha eyes on him and let loose that humming-bird Southern lingo, flavored with honey and seasoned with attar of American Beauties.

Many a society bud had whirled a wily lassoo for Carter Lewlands, and many a society mother had aimed a mean harpoon at him. But he had twisted and ducked and side-stepped until Daisy's eyes had thrown up his hands and Daisy's pouting lips had brought down his guard. When she was with him, the music of her pappy Georgia talk tinkled in his ear, and all night long he could hear her little dulcet intonations. He got to thinking in that musical pitch, and his thoughts were of love as sugary as her voice and wedding bells as silver as her notes.

Daisy took it all in, not exactly decided whether to work him or ignore him. She was known to him only as Dorothy Pollard, the name which she had registered at the hotel, and he took her for an Atlanta deb, adventurous and modern enough to go a-journeying without a chaperone to the one bright spot on the dismal map; a girl whose blood accelerated with the royal thrill of racing, and who would follow the ponies anywhere to serve her spirited fancies.

For more than a week he had devoted every available minute to looking into Daisy's eyes and listening to Daisy's lilting, lulling lying.

Now, Daisy, though she had her faults and failings, had never leaned toward gold digging or that next-nastier specialty, "cold-finger work," which, as everyone should know, is the specific art of nicking an amorous gent or lady for the valuables while said loving one is in the act of using both arms in hugging, or the like; and it is an ancient profession, just as well established as safe-blowing or the other nobler practises that have been charted, blue-printed and all but copyrighted in the progress through the ages of the devious methods whereby property may be transferred without recourse to the vulgarities of trade and traffic.

Though Daisy had always attracted men, she had used her charms only to oil herself out of corners. She depended on her skill and never on her allure to bring in the returns. Lewlands' pointed courtship had not been irritating, neither had it been inspiring. It rather miffed her that she felt, somehow, a repellance against giving him the "touch" on the numerous occasions when he was so utterly preoccupied that she could have sawed off his leg and he wouldn't have known she was operating. He had quite disarmed her, which was a dead loss, considering how much of her time he was consuming.

During the farewell breakfast, in the course of which Lewlands earnestly pleaded with Daisy to marry him, to remain at Saratoga for a while longer, at least, and see if she couldn't learn to care for him, to give him her home address so that he could follow her—to yield him some sort of encouragement: something! Daisy toyed with her table tools and listened. She had put on the Southern Ritz at their first meeting so that she could maintain her standing at the hotel, and she had never steered off the character, so she couldn't lean across the board now and talk to Lewlands like a Dutch niece and explain to him that he was barking up a poison ivy vine. Everyone loves to pose for what he or she is not—for something better, higher, finer—and she unconsciously loved his bland acceptance of her as a rich, proper, well bred, respectable girl.

So she languidly assured him, with many expressions of regret, that she did not love him, and, therefore, it would be futile for him to coax further hours that could mean only reiterated refusals. No, she was not in love with any other man (and that was true), and she had no defined objections against him. But every girl expects that great throbbing, palpitating emotion when she meets the man she loves, and Daisy could get no such reaction from Lewlands, as clever and clean and clear and devoted and upright as he unquestionably was. It was most lamentable, but there it was.

Lewlands offered her wealth and position—maybe not as aristocratic a position as her own, he ventured to say, for Southern folks are regarded as socially ultra—but still he held a place as the descendant of a sturdy old New England family; he offered her the first love that he, raised in New York and now past thirty, had ever held forth to any woman; he offered her all that he had and was. She shook her head.

"As for position, Cahtah," she told him, "the Pollahds ahn't pahticulahly wallthy, noh ah they pehhaps of the soht of a'stocracy that the Nohthe'n newspapehs love to write fool stohies abaout. Mah grandfahthe' fo't with Gen'l Lee and his daddy was a big cotton groweh befoh Ab'm Linc'n wahped aout ev'thing in ouah countreh. Since then we've sort o' gone to seed, f'nancially: that is, we haven't what we'd lahk to have to m'ntain the manneh of life that the Pollahds maht p'sue if they had plenteh. Haheveh, we-all ah satisfahed with the little we-all have, and moneh wouldn' be an impohtant inducement, Cahtah. The Pollahd women have always mahied fo' love."

"But I offer you love—I only mention who I am and what I am and what I have as a sort of identifying label, you see. You've never heard of the Lewlands. I feel like a cad, putting myself in the position, almost, of extending bribes—and I know that what I have could scarcely amount to much as a fortune against the much greater ones that must have been laid at the feet of so beautiful a girl as you, Dorothy. But I love you, and I am clutching at every straw within my grasp to keep myself from sinking."

"Waill, Ah'm afraid yo' sunk, Cahtah. Ah've often fancied what love maght be like when it comes, and so fah Ah haven't felt anything lahk it. Ah'm mighteh fond of you, but it isn't that wild flutteh that A'hm waitin' foh some man to bring me. We've been togaither, naow, moh' o' less, a couple of weeks, and a girl can tell in that time whetheh it's the grand passion oh not. So—heh's mah hand foh a friendleh good bah."

Lewlands looked at it a moment.

"No," he said, low and with a tremor of his chest, "give me the other one."

Carter Lewlands took her slim, left hand in his brown, strong right. He held it hard and lovingly. His own left stole down into the pocket of his sport coat and he brought it up with a little purple velvet box, which he laid on the table. Without releasing her hand, he touched a little button and the lid of the velvet case jumped up. Carter took from the slit in the satin padding a ring.

"Dorothy," he said, huskily, "I want you to take this—from me."

She looked and saw a brilliant, fire-spitting ruby, surrounded with quarter-carat diamonds.

"Oh, Cahtah!" she gasped, and he felt a little back pull of her left hand, but he held it firmly.

"I bought it yesterday, Dorothy," he said. "I had hoped for a different answer to-day. I had hoped to put this ring on the proper finger as an engagement token."

"But Ah never——"

"No. It was a gamble. I still would give anything you could name that I could command for the privilege of putting it there. But, if that is impossible, I want you to have it, anyway, as a souvenir—a remembrance from one man who loves you and always will. I am not going to put it on the 'engagement' finger. You may wear it on the little one, or on the other hand if you wish. But I ask you to accept it as a gift."

"Oh, Ah couldn't—it is a very valuable ring."

"It is yours. I will be handsomely repaid if I know that, now and then, as you glance at it, you may have a thought of me—a kindly one, I hope, though I am afraid any more tender or more vibrant one than friendship for a chap you met at the races or sympathy for a chump who is nursing a one-sided love affair, is now out of the question. Take it, dear."

Dixie Daisy, pickpocket, looked across at the man—the sucker. He meant nothing in her life, never had, never could. In his hand was a ring worth thousands, that he offered her as her own, with no strings attached, no obligations, not even a moral responsibility or a conscientious scruple.

Daisy was thinking.

Here was a windfall, made to order. She would have chanced a stretch in Sing Sing for half that ring, and would have spent a week walking on eggshells over a mine of dynamite for a crack at it. And here it was being handed to her, gratis, in fee simple, for services to be rendered, to wit: giving a kindly thought to the yap that was pushing it at her!

And, though her aristocratic lineage was all hokum and bunkum, and she was a crook and the daughter of two crooks, something within her rebelled at her accepting this hand-out.

Daisy paid her bill, and, accompanied by a boy with her luggage and Carter Lewlands with a wan expression that tried to be resignation but only managed to achieve chagrin, she reached her taxi.

"Good bah. Good luck," said Daisy.

Daisy's thoughts were clicking in workmanly manner. Lewlands, without doubt, would soon discover his loss. Yes, he would probably take right to his room and open the box with intent to gaze ruefully at the desolated ring, whereupon he would see that he had been trimmed, and in all probabilities would suspect who had done it, for he had put the ring back in the case himself at the table and had walked out with Daisy at his pocket side immediately afterward.

But—would he? Would he conjecture that the girl he adored could have done such a thing? Daisy puckered her forehead at this: she didn't want to hide behind his infatuation nor make capital of it, even to get a better start.

She had given him a fictitious name and a blind address. She would be swallowed up in New York and would probably never again meet him. If she should, of course, she would lie; she would never even give him one of the smiles that he was ready to die for; her denial would be curt, businesslike and cold turkey if she were ever faced with an accusation. Long before that could happen, she would have "pushed" the bauble and converted it of encouragement: something. Daisy toyed with flatfoots couldn't find it in nine years—she had learned that early, that jewelry and any other identifiable thing must be converted and must cover its tracks.

Her train was routed via Schenectady and Albany. She planted herself comfortably in the chair car and purred with a heart easy and a spirit light.

The train pulled up at Schenectady on the dot. It left Schenectady half a minute late, arrived in Albany three-quarters of a minute late, and lost another fifteen seconds in the depot, with the result that when the porter of the chair car lifted his rubber-topped stepping-stool as the train jerked with the first start of its onward exit, he saw a man in knickerbockers frantically waving at him as he ran at top speed over tracks and past everything at him.

Dixie Daisy was looking out of the window on the other side of the car. She turned to reach for the magazine she had laid down, when her eyes beheld the last man she would have looked for there—then: Carter Lewlands, striding up the aisle.

He had already found her. He came to her chair, and she saw at once that it was to be a showdown.

Lewlands did not raise his hat, nor did he make any allowance for the courteous uses of such occasions. If he had ever read any dicta on "How to Greet a Lady When Meeting Her in a Parlor Car," the suggestions had been lost on him. He did not, however, "start a riot." He stopped at her chair, his chin set, bent down to where only she could hear what he was about to utter, and said:

"Give me my ring."

"Yoah ring?" inquired Daisy, in her farthest-South drawl and her most syrupy scale. "Ah daon't quaht understand. Whah'd you come from, anneway, Cahtah, so sudden?"

"I came by motor—directly to Albany. I knew your train was going by way of Schenectady. I found that I had been robbed two minutes after you left the hotel. I figured I could make it to Albany ahead of the train if I stepped on her a bit. My car was standing in front of the door, and, believe me, I made every other machine on the road look as though it were going backward. And here I am—made it by an eyelash."

"Waill—sit daown. What's the big eyedee?"

"No, I don't care to sit, and I don't want to prolong this conversation. I want to get out at the first stop and get back to where I left my car. You took my ring, Dorothy, and I want it back."

"Ah took yo' ring? Which ring, Cahtah?"

"Why, your—I mean—oh, don't jockey. I know you took it and you know which one you took. Now, come through, or I'll go through. You don't want a scene, do you?"

"Scene? Ring? Cahtah, yo' absuhd."

The train had crossed the river and ground down to a halt, not a station stop. Daisy changed her tactics, tilted her nose in the air, gave Lewlands a contemptuous toss, picked up her patent leather case with one hand and her hand-bag with the other, and started down the car. Lewlands, without a second's hesitation, followed her. She reached the platform one step ahead of him. The door closed behind him. They were alone out there. The door was open, though the platform was down and it was a three-foot jump to the tracks. Daisy made for the opening. Lewlands seized her by the wrist and gave it a twist that threw the hand-bag to the floor. He put his foot on it as she made an effort to free her hand. She clawed at his face.

"Where's the ring?" breathed Lewlands. She only scratched at him harder. "Tell me, or I'll break your arm, you little crook. It cost me the sweetest memory of my life to do this. But I told you I come of New England stock. We may not be romantic lovers, but we're close traders."

"Le' go mah ahm, you dihty Yankee," protested Daisy, as she squirmed.

"You wouldn't take it as a free gift, eh? But you'd steal it."

"Yes, Ah'd steal it befoh Ah'd be beholden to such as you foh it."

"I see—a pickpocket with ethics. Well, I'm a banker without any, maybe. You wouldn't take a gift from a man you don't love, and I wouldn't have one taken away from me by even a girl I do—I did—love. One of my ancestors helped throw the tea in Boston Harbor because the tax was an injustice, not because it was an expense. Where's the ring—talk up before I snap that elbow, and I'll do it, so help me."

"In—in the bag," fumed Daisy.

Lewlands threw her to one side and snatched the bag. Just then the train lurched forward. Lewlands steadied himself a second, then made a running leap, with the bag in his hand. Daisy stood unsteadily and saw him disappear. Then she made her way back into the car.

"He'll play the deuce ketchin' this train naow," she speculated. "And if he wahs ahead to N'Yo'k, Ah won't be aboahd, because li'l Daisy's gettin oat at P'keepsie to backtrack. Mah wrist aches, Ah've made mahself notohious to a lot of strangehs, Ah've lost mah expainsive puhse, a neahly new paowdeh pad, 80 cents and a hand-embroidered hanky. Gee, that bihd's a hahd loser! Ah'm maghty glad Ah got that ring in mah stocking, and the roll I copped off him befoh he grabbed mah ahm, mean old brute."

"Where's the ring?" Breathed Lewlands. She Only Scratched at Him Harder. "Tell me or I'll break your arm, you little crook!"

The C. G. E. Win Easily In The Final Game Of Picton Series

PICTON WERE EASY FOR C. G. E. IN FINAL

SCORE 11 TO 1.

In the third and deciding game of the semi-final round in the intermediate series of the O.B.A.A. at Colborne yesterday, the C.G.E. team disposed of Picton ,the champions of the last two years, by the score of 11 to 1, and will meet St. Aidans, of Toronto next.

Frost pitched one of his best games, yielding only seven hits, while the Canadian Generals clouted Croft for fifteen, two of them being triples by Abbie Rose and Ford Campbell. Frost was steady all through the game and never failed in the pinches.

Defensively, the Peterborough team had almost a perfect card, while Picton wobbled badly in spots, the infield beng notably weak. The score by innings was:

C.G.E. ..... 050 010 410—11
Picton ..... 000 010 000— 1

Picton brought a crowd of supporters with them, and the C. G. E. were accompanied by about thirty-five loyal followers. Colborne, Trenton and other towns along the front supplied the rest. The umpires were Barnes at the plate and Kemmel on bases.

SEVEN GAMES WORLD'S SERIES

Experience Shows That Attendance Will Be Small If More Than Seven Games Are Scheduled.

(By Billy Evans)

The world series of 1922 will consist of seven games.

In 1919 the world series, which had always been a seven-game test, was changed to a nine-game affair.

Unfortunately, the first year of the nine-game series was featured by the baseball scandal, in which a number of Chicago American league players were concerned. Their expulsion from baseball resulted.

In 1920 the series went only seven games because Cleveland, after winning the first game and losing the next two, won four in succession.

Last year the two New York clubs went eight games before the Giants succeeded in winning the necessary five.

It is a very interesting and unusual fact that the attendance in the final and deciding game of the 1921 series was the smallest of the entire eight games.

Nearly 37,000 people saw the seventh ame, while only a few more than 25,000 were present at the desiding contest. That was a big surprise. It made it appear as if a nine-game series was a bit too long drawn out.

When the national commission went to the nine games instead of seven, the yell went up that is was merely greed on the part of the magnates that caused the shigt.

The argument that it would give more people a chance to see the series was scoffed at. The feeling was that the added two games was simply another bit of commercialism on the part of the club owners.

When the attendance fell off so badly in the final games last year, which was the eighth of the series, it must have decided Judge Landis in favor of a seven-game series.

It made it appear as if the fans were surfeited with baseball.

The argument was advanced that since all the games were played in New York it wasn't a fair test for the longer series. Going back to seven games, however, will win the favor of a great many fans, since it will make them feel that money, after all, is not bigger than the game.

House appropriated $2,500 to exterminate bugs at the capital. But since they are elected, what can be done?

ODDS ON SERIES ARE ABOUT EVEN

Early Wagers of 8 to 5 on Yanks Drop to 6 to 5 — Little Money in Sight.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—To-night, on the eve of the world's series, the baseball atmosphere is surcharged with rivalry, for dissension regarding the ability of the two local teams and their individual stars have divided the fans of New York against themselves.

Although the American League players still rule the favorites to reverse the decision of a year ago, the odds are steadily dropping. In place of the 8 to 5 offers prevailing last week, Yankees supporters quote 6 to 5 to-night and there is little heavy wagering even at these short odds.

Visions of the closeness of the play twelve months back when the same clubs grappled for world's series honors and the extraordinary and thrilling climax in the final contest which gave the Giants a championship five games to three, leaves even the most analytic fan shaken in his conclusions. A careful study of the available records and season's averages fails to show an outstanding favorite.

Supporters of the American League pennant winners point to the greatly increased strength of the Yankee's pitching staff. Giant rooters counter with the claim that the Nationals, too, have gained strength since 1921 and in Manager John J. McGraw, the Napoleon of Baseball, have a diamond strategist of incomparable calibre.

Every reserved seat in the stands and boxes has been sold and, given fair weather, such as the local prognostigator heralds for the morrow, the 22,000 unreserved seats should be occupied long before the first Yankee batter takes his place at the plate. The huge horseshoe-shaped stadium will be allutter with flags and pennants, many of which have seen similar service in past series. The advance guard of numerous out-of-town spectators are already taxing the capacity of convention-congested hotels.

The probable batting order:—

Nationals

Bancroft, ss., Groh, 3b; Frisch, 2b Mausel, lf; Young, rf; Kelly, 1b; Stengel cf; Snyder, c; Nehf or Barnes, p.

Americans

Witt, cf; Dugan, 3b; Ruth, lf; Pipp, 1b; Meusel, rf; Schang, c; Ward 2b; Scott, ss; Bush, or Shawkey, p.

HARVEST FESTIVAL APSLEY VILLAGE

St. George's Church Beautifully Decorated—Apsley News.

APSLEY, Oct. 4.—The annual harvest thanksgiving was held at St. George's Church on Friday evening, Sept. 29, which was attended by a fairly large congregation. The church was decorated most beautifully, the glorious tints of the maple leaves now at their best making a glorious setting for the first fruits of the earth which were brought in abundance by the worshippers. Simper's anthem, "Fear Not, O Land," was sung by the choir, who acquitted themselves very creditably, E. L. Spence presiding at the organ.

The Rev. C. Spence preached on the subject of "Sacrifice," as inherent in human nature, dealing particularly with the sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving.

The ladies who devoted such pains to the beautifying of the church were Mrs. Spence, Mrs. J. Downing, Misses A. Coones, J. Tanner, E. Couch, C. and P. Spence and Amy Lean.

Pumpkin Pie Social.

The ladies of the district will be given an opportunity to demonstrate their skill in pastry making on Friday next, when a pumpkin pie social is being held in the parish room. A handsome prize is being given for the best decorated pie.

A.Y.P.A. Met.

The A.Y.P.A. meeting was not held on Saturday evening, there being evidently a counter attraction in the shape of another charivari, a senseless and depraved form of amusement that is no credit to those participating.

Thoughtful Donation.

Mr. W. H. Pattrick, Lakefield, has very kindly donated a large number of books to Rev. C. Spence for use in the parish, a gift that is very deeply appreciated and gratefully acknowledged.

Personal Mention.

The Rev. and Mrs. Spence spent Saturday on Long Lake, the guests of Reeve and Mrs. Brown.

W. Maniece, Peterborough, and A. Knapman, Toronto, were in the village on business Wednesday.

Mrs. Herring, Toronto, has returned home after spending two weeks in Apsley and Jack's Lake.

Miss L. Knox has returned home after nearly two months' visit in Peterborough.

Mrs. Willis left today after spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. Grant.

Mrs. Deane, Toronto, who has been visiting Mrs. C. Tanner, Chandos, has decided to make her home in Apsley and will reside in the house formerly occupied by Mrs. Jones.

Miss Myrtle Windsor spent a few days in Peterborough last week.

Stewart Brown was in Peterborough last week when he qualified for the professional auto drivers' license. He will drive the Apsley-Lakefield stage and started his new duties Monday morning.

Public School Inspector R. Lees is making his periodical visit to the schools in this district.

Mr. and Mrs. Will. Parkes (nee Miss May Wilson) returned from their wedding trip on Thursday.

Theodore Liscum and Miss Teeney Peeves were married at the Methodist parsonage, Coe Hill, on Monday. They have taken up their residence at Purdeyville.

The Post Office Inspector was in the village last week and inspected the local office .

HE'S BASEBALL'S FUNNIEST MAN

In Catcher Frank Dehaney, Ben Egan of the Jersey City club has discovered one of the rarest bugs in baseball. His antics are every bit as funny as those of the famous Nick Altrock of the Washington club.

Dehaney has a green dress, made for him by a Buffalo woman, with which he does the spring and serpentine dances on the coaching lines before each game.

He also has a toy gun and a mouse on a string which he shoots every once in a while. Also a kit of tiny golf clubs for mashing up and down the side lines.

Dehaney is a big fellow, about 6 feet 2 inches tall, and weighs about 185 pounds. He is one of those real-honest-to-goodness born comedians, and if he ever does get into the big show Nick will have a worthy rival.

The International League has two clever comedians in Dehaney and Al Schact with the Reading club.

Those who have seen Dehaney say that he is funnier than either Nick Altrock or Al Schact. He was formerly in the Virginia or the Kitty League.

JENNINGS--THE GIANTS' CHIEF OF STAFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(Associated Press).—New York fans always have admired the generalship of John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, and they give to him without stint full laudation for bringing together, in his devious ways, an aggregation of the present two-time champions, but none is remiss in praising Hughey Jennings, "Napoleon's Chief of Staff."

Hughey is now considered a genuine New Yorker by the throngs that has filled the Polo Grounds nearly all season. Two years ago the rabid followers of the Giants were a little frigid to Jennings when he moved his baggage from Detroit and transplanted his grass-picking habit and his stirring "E-yash" from Navin Field to Harlem.

There was much talk then that McGraw was preparing to retire from the active management, having acquired a part ownership in the club, and some of the fans were skeptical, notwithstanding the record Jennings made with Detroit, winning pennants there in 1907, 1908 and 1909. McGraw kept on but Hughey disproved that old adage about "too many cooks."

Jennings was not a total stranger to the older organization. In his active days he played with Baltimore, Brooklyn and Philadelphia, in the former place with McGraw when the latter was the best third baseman in captivity. Like McGraw, Jennings was an infielder, playing second base and shortstop.

Hughey is a native of Pittston, Pa., where he first saw the dark of a coal mine. He trotted out as a professional 20 years later, beginning with the Louisville, Ky., club as first base and short, going to Baltimore in a trade four years later. In 1898 he was shifted to Brooklyn and in 1891 he became generalissimo of the Philadelphia Nationals.

Two years later Jennings returned to Baltimore, then in the Eastern League, remaining there until 1907, when Detroit drafted him. He became manager his first year and celebrated by winning the pennant. This season was his 16th as a team leader.

THE RULES OF RUGBY

OFF-SIDE INTERFERENCE.

Off-side interference is committed whenever a player who is off-side obstructs or charges against an opponent, whether the offender be directly in front of the player in possession or not. No such interference is permissible except for the purpose of opening a hole in the line, and this interference to be confined to a distance of three yards in advance of the line of scrimmage. The first man to pass beyond this three-yard line must in all cases be the ball carrier, except when the ball is kicked.

Note.—The referee and umpire are to use their judgment in the application of this rule to such plays as end runs, where a player carrying the ball having passed the ball when approaching or on the 3-yard line limit, may of necessity over-step this line.

No such interference is permissible except in the case of players who are within one yard of the line of scrimmage at the time when the ball is put into play. The players of the side in possession who are within one yard of the line of scrimmage shall be formed in a single line at all times.

Note 2.—On a play from a scrimmage in the event of the kicker being prevented the ball and he or one of his side is "held" with the ball, other players of his side in the meantime having crossed the three-yard line in endeavoring to follow down on the kick which did not materialize, the kicker's side shall not be penalized for having crossed the three-yard line. The ball shall be considered dead at the spot where it was held. If this occurs on the third down the other side shall have the ball.

Note 3.—On a play from a scrimmage in the event of the kick being blocked, the kicker's side may recover the ball and may advance it as far as possible for them to do so without being penalized for not being the first of their side to cross the three-yard line.

Note 4.—On a play from a scrimmage in the event of a "fake" kick being attempted, the ball carrier must be the first man to cross the three-yard line.

Running interference is illegal on the line of scrimmage or in any part of the field, whether the offender is off-side or not.

For off-side interference during scrimmage the penalty shall be loss of one down and fifteen yards; if on third down, loss of ball only.

If off-side interference is committed by the side in possession, they having gained possession without having scrimmaged the ball—as, for instance, from a kick, or the recovery of a loose ball, etc.—the penalty shall be a scrimmage by the offending side 15 yards back from the point where the foul occurred and the ensuing down shall be the second down.

Charging.

In case of a free kick an opponent may charge from in line with the mark as soon as the ball is kicked or touches another player of the kicker's side.

Passing.

A player may pass the ball at any time. If a player makes a forward pass within the grounds, the opposite side shall scrimmage the ball at the place where the foul occurred.

If a player makes a forward pass in his opponent's goal, there shall be no score, and the ball shall be scrimmaged by the defending side five yards in front of the goal line and directly in front of the spot where the foul was made.

BOSTON RED SOX PROMINENT IN ANNALS OF WORLD SERIES

Won Coveted Title Four Times—Humble Athletics Were Thrice World Champions—Giants Won Last Year From Yankees and Are Again the Contenders

WHAT RECORDS SHOW

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(Associated Press).—Since 1905, when the former National Baseball Commission was created, a post-season series has been held between the teams which won the championships of their respective leagues, resulting in 10 victories for the American and seven for the National.

Whether this world's series supremacy denoted a better brand of baseball playing in the younger league has been debated every winter in the Old Stove League with facts due from the record books to prove and disprove the same assertions—and, as former Vice-President Tom Marshall used to say, "with the same result and no casualties."

As fantastic as it appears in print the Boston Red Sox, rivals of all who are despondent, hold the palm for world's series honors, being the only club that has won the highest prize in baseball four times and one of the three in the annals of the classic that have won it two times in succession.

And more fantastic, so it seems to the fans of "Sleepy Town," the Philadelphia Athletics, cellar champions for seven years, are the Boston Americans' loudest disputant, having won, back in the days of "The Million Dollar Infield," three world's series, two of them in succession.

The other American League club to humble the National League champs twice without intermission are the Chicago White Sox, now a gilded memory of the "suspicionless" days. Cleveland, with Tris Speaker speaking, is the only other club of the younger circuit to win a world's series.

All the American League clubs except Washington and S. Louis—neither St. Louis team ever has won a pennant—have been champions of their bailiwick.

In the National League five clubs, New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Boston and Cincinnati, have won premier honors, the first two named twice each and the last three once each. The St. Louis Cardinals are the only National League team that never has participated in the biggest athletic event in the country.

A peculiar incident of world's series is that seven of the 17 times it has been played the winner took four games out of five—the best four of seven to win; three times it has been four to two games; and only twice have the winners shut out the losers in all four, though in the 1907 series, Detroit managed to tie one game. The only other tie game was in 1912 when the Red Sox beat the Giants, winning four games to one.

1906—Chicago Americans beat Chicago, 4-2.
1907—Chicago Nationals beat Detroit, 4-1x.
1908—Chicago Nationals beat Detroit, 4-1.
1909—Pittsburgh Nationals beat Detroit, 4-3.
1910—Philadelphia Americans beat Chicago, 4-1.
1911—Philadelphia Americans beat New York, 4-2.
1912—Boston Americans beat New York, 4-1x.
1914—Boston Nationals beat Philadelphia, 4-0.
1915—Boston Americans beat Philadelphia, 4-1.
1916—Boston Americans beat Brooklyn, 4-1.
1918—Boston Americans beat Chicago, 4-2.
1919—Cincinnati Nationals beat Chicago, 5-3.
1920—Cleveland Americans beat Brooklyn, 5-2.

MINOR WORLD'S SERIES READY

Baltimore and St. Paul in Nine-Game Contest.

BALTIMORE, October 4 (Canadian Press). — The so-called Little World's Series between Baltimore, four-time flag winners in the International League, and St. Paul, the champions of the American Association, will get under way here this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Nine games are booked, the honours to go to the first team winning five games.

Contests are scheduled to-day, Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday. Unless rain should interfere, the rivals will leave on Sunday night for St. Paul, and will play on the same days of the week in the western city.

This series will be the third between the two leagues.

Baltimore beat St. Paul in 1920, and last year Louisville carried away the honours for the American Association by downing Baltimore.

The St. Paul players arrived in Baltimore yesterday afternoon.

Doll Derr, of the International League, and Billy Murray, of the American Association, have been selected as the umpires.

Victim of Fire Brings Action Against Propertied Prisoner.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., October 4 (Canadian Press). — In August of last year residents of the village of Springford were stirred by the mysterious burning of the barns on the farm of Eli Barnim, in the village and also of a house on his property, and the subsequent conviction of Charles Veale, of the same village, and his sentence to five years' imprisonment on a charge of arson.

As a sequel to this case, at the sitting of the Supreme Court here, before Justice Middleton next week, Eli Barnim will enter suit for $5,000 damages against Veale.

It is understood that Veale has some property, and on that ground the action is being taken in Civil Court.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Dear Nr. Editor — Permit me through your valuable paper to make a suggestion or two to the City Council, not in any manner of criticism of that body, for they are always equal to requirements of the occasion, but new conditions require new regulations.

The Normal School Students whilst going to and from School, have their brains loaded with studies and their arms loaded with books of all sizes, consequently one cannot be surprised when they monopolize all of the sidewalk.

To avert broken ribs from coming in contact with sharp cornered books and head-on collisions, would it not be advisable to provide a cinder path on the roadway on Benson avenue and make provision by adding a clause to the snow ploughing contract in order to keep the same open in the winter time for all other pedestrians.

Respectfully yours,
PEDESTRIAN.

POWERFUL THEME

Has Story of Jack Holt's Picture, "While Satan Sleeps," at the Capitol To-morrow.

"A man's fight with himself," says A. S. LeVino, adaptor of Jack Holt's latest Paramount picture, "While Satan Sleeps," "is the best description of the theme of this picture. To fight with a material enemy is comparatively easy, but to battle with one's own conscience and best the evil influences at work in one's self, is a scrap that will put a man to the test as nothing else can. That is the kind of a role they have given Jack Holt in this picture."

Many have read Peter B. Kyne's story, "The Parson of Panamint," upon which this new picture was based. Joseph Henabery directed and the cast includes Fritizi Brunette, Wade Boteler, J. P. Lockney, Mabel Van Buren, Will Walling, Fred Huntly and other capable Paramount stock company players.

Fritizi Brunette, remembered for her splendid work as "the other woman" in Paramount's "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," makes a splendid re-appearance in Paramount pictures in Jack Holt's new production. This time she has the role of the courageous, spirited daughter of a saloon-keeper in a rough-and-tumble mining town and she gives a sterling performance. The picture is said to be one of the best in which Mr. Holt has been seen since he became a Paramount star.

AT THE ROYAL.

CHARLES JONES IN ANOTHER TRIUMPH

William Fox has sent out another highly successful bit of entertainment. "Trooper O'Neill" was roundly applauded last night as its closing scene flashed from the Royal Theatre screen. And rightly so, for rarely has a more evenly balanced photoplay been seen here. Charles Jones, the popular star, who portrays Trooper O'Neil, scored a positive triumph. The rest of the cast is well chosen.

The Canadian Northwest Mounted Police is represented with exceptional fidelity, to which the artistic photography adds not a little. Standing out from the well-drawn background, in bold relief, is a swirl of stirring events that whip the action to a high pitch. Through it all, delicately moulded, is a love interest that is most appealing and convincing.

Charles Jones has been seen in many pictures, but his performance in "Trooper O'Neill" places him in the front rank of filmdom. His part, a most forceful and heroic one, is done with admirable art.

The Royal Theatre will show "Trooper O'Neill" for the last time to-night.

AT THE GRAND.

"Casey's Twins" had its second performance at the Grand Opera House last evening. There are plenty of laughs in the team work of Jimmie Evans and Joe Devine in the skits which get quick response from amused audiences. Joe Devine performs a marriage in Casey's Twins", in fine style, and cultivates a real English accent, with a monocle and cane, in "Listen to Me". "All Bunk" is another bit of rollicking foolery.

Evelyn Breen has a spectacular dance number, with some rubber-pointed high kicking, in a specialty that brought her repeated applause; while Joe Devine gets another round of enthusiasm with his vocal spiels. "Ain't Nature Grand?" and "Which Hazel?"

Burt Ryan sings "Sweetheart" in splendid form; Roy Elles gives an exhibition of step dancing that receives several encores; while his dance with Dolly Jollymore is another pretty, clever number. Florence Pippin is as good as ever on another line, with a thrice-repeated xylophone selection, and has the lead in a daintily-colored chorus, "Good-Bye, Shanghai". The chorus of "Bolivar Brown" with Kittens Fraser and girls, brought down the house last night with its surprising repeats.

NOVEL "PONY" COSTUMES.

If pretty girls in beautiful costumes are an asset to a musical play, then "Listen to Me," coming to the Grand for one night only, Monday, 9th October, should stand the stringent test of its daily capacity when it plays this city. Le Comte and Flesher have the chorus girl market cornered in Chicago when it applies to beautiful girls of artistic ability. This is probably due to the prevailing desire of chorus girls for extended seasons. When other attractions have prematurely closed, Le Comte and Flesher have maintained a season of forty weeks' duration.

The chorus girls in "Listen to Me" have plenty to do, for this wonderful extravaganza contains an abundance of work for the singer and dancer. Gorgeous costumes are displayed by them in the many numbers. They make their debut in Satan's palace as devilettes in costumes of red satin, forming an impressive picture in support of the gorgeously gowned six temptations. At the North Pole they become more pronounced in Eskimo clothing of white fur trimmed satin, frivolously partaking of the midnight frolic, until they forcefully appeal to the appetising eye, costumed in the characterisation of candy in fantastic candyland. The limit of costuming is eventually revealed when these agile and gracious little girls glide merrily into prominence in their silvery-lined pale blue satin postman's suits at Cupid's post office.

It is these clever girls who are responsible for the universal appreciation that has descended upon the success of this delightful musical play, for they are ever before you throughout the superb extravaganza.

FOR YOUR FALL HUNT.

Hundreds of sportsmen in Canada take their vacation in the hunting season. They are now getting their equipment ready for the chase. The question "Where to go" is the all-absorbing one. A region easily accessible that ensures real sport and game in plenty is the objective. Let the Canadian National Railways introduce to you the "New North," that vast area in Northern Ontario and Quebec traversed by the Transcontinental Line between Winnipeg and Quebec City. It is virgin country for the hunter and moose particularly are plentiful. Apply City Passenger Office Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways, 324 George Street, Peterborough, Ont.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You do not whisper in company, or draw aside two or three friends in an assemblage and exchange secrets or personal comments.

When in public be sure to keep your voice low and do not mention the names of people about whom you are speaking in such a way that people overhearing you could identify them. Many unpleasant reports have been started in this way.

A FINAL WARNING.

The public has been warned repeatedly to lay in substitutes for coal for the fall and spring, because Canada will not receive more than 50 or 60 per cent. of her supply of coal for this winter.

There is no better or cleaner fuel for grates than peat, and it is one of the best and most convenient substitutes for fall and spring use, at any time.

We are advised that all available peat this season will be harvested and shipped within the next two weeks. So leave your orders with J. E. A. Fitzgerald, while they may be filled, and thus save future regrets. 3d-4-6-7-5758.

THOUSANDS IN PATH OF FIRE

Northern Minnesota's Forest Area a Mass of Flames and Smoke.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Northern Minnesota's forest area to-day continued a veritable sea of sombre colored smoke, dotted with fires, some under control, some admittedly beyond control and the whole threatening further widespread destruction at the slightest provocation of the elements. In St. Louis County there were 105 fires burning, according to latest reports from the Forestry Department. Women and children have been removed from all of the threatened area to places of safety.

A sudden shift in the wind, which has gained a velocity of thirty miles an hour, has put raging forest fires in North-Eastern Minnesota beyond control, State Forestry and National Guard officials said late yesterday. Every motor truck and vehicle of transport has been commandeered in the menaced area to carry settlers and families to safety.

It is estimated that 800,000 persons are in the danger zone. The villages and hamlets encircled by flames are Colon Ellsemere, White Face, Payne, Kelsey, Floodwood, Markham and Central Lake. Fine, a small hamlet of a dozen buildings, has been destroyed. The settlers were carried to safety.

(By Stuart P. West).

NEW YORK, October 4 (Special to The Examiner). — The virtual disappearance of the war cloud in South-Eastern Europe was an influence again in to-day markets, but still mainly a negative one. Sterling, francs, and lire, all went higher, a sharp rebound occurred in both French and British Government bonds. Wheat went lower and cotton higher. All this was, of course, the natural reversal of a situation only a week ago threatened by a war scare, after apprehensions had been relieved.

The general investment list was undoubtedly helped by the European developments, but on the stock exchange, and had been the case the previous day, there were other matters of much more interest and of much more bearing upon the price movement.

Of prime consequence was the overnight announcement that the Standard Oil of California proposed to double its capitalisation and pay a stock dividend of 100 per cent. Wall Street has been discussing such capital readjustments in the Standard Oil Companies for the last month, or ever since the defeat of the soldier bonus removed the possibility either or a restoration of old tax burdens or the creation of new. Such a large disbursement, however, had not been looked for, and the natural result was another violent upturn in the Standard Oil issues led by the California shares and the active revival of speculative interest in the oil group generally.

In the absence of any income account or balance sheet, there is no basis for intelligent criticism regarding this action by Standard Oil. One simply has to accept at its face value the official statement that accumulated surplus, plus expansion of earning power and new oil discoveries had justified this addition to capital obligations. Admitting that permanent earning capacity has been increased in these ways it is a sound principle of finance that capital stock be increased proportionately and that shareholders get the benefit through the gratuitous distribution of the new issue.

At all events, the Standard episode ought to have convinced the most sceptical that there has been a great deal more back of the recent stock market than the haphazard selling one day and the buying back the next on the part of professional operators. The motive for real accumulation of stock by important financial interests having been disclosed in the case of the California company was assumed similarly for others of the Standard Oil subsidiaries, and the incident served to lend more credence to other items of gossip which Wall Street has been hearing in connection with movements in special stocks.

There was another remarkable advance in National Biscuit, in which a split up of the capitalization into smaller units has been discussed, and the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western made further response to the talk of another stock distribution later on in its case.

MARKET NEWS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.— Standard Oil of Calif. plans 100 per cent. stock dividend payable Dec. 30th to stock record Dec. 9th.

BARING'S LETTER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. — GRAIN— May wheat did not go below 107 and closed 1 point higher than yesterday. I think that it ought to go to at least 115.

The stock market continued its advance and if you bought stocks Saturday as advised all last week you have some pretty good profits already. I look for further advances, though a set back of a couple of points may come on Thursday after a further bulge to-day.

N. E. Fuel Oil sold 80 3-4 and is still far from the top.

St. Paul pfd., which I told you to buy near 47, sold above 51, and I would hold it for at least 54. Later it will sell at 70.

AIC, which I had urged you to buy around and below 34, rose to 35 3-4, and is still a good purchase around 35.

Rubber — which I had repeatedly recommended around 50 rose to 53 1-2 and all former bullish advices on it hold good.

KP also rose two points and will go much higher.

CPU rose two points and I hope you bought it at 62 as advised; it will go much higher.

Marine pfd remains a purchase near 57 and the common near 14.

CHM should be bought around 61 and general Motors near 14.

American Hawsrip on the curb remains a good purchase anywhere under 25 and should not be surprised to see it go 50 points higher.

Otherwise there is no change and I look for higher prices in all the stocks mentioned yesterday.

A GOOD BUY.

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—Hear, West Tree, selling at 17, is the one to buy for a quick move. The buying continues to come from good sources. Baldwin, which sold at 6 cents a few days ago, closed at 10 7-8 at noon to-day.

MARKET NEWS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Mexican Seaboard production of October 3rd, amounting to 15,000 barrels, is the smallest since salt water appeared in its wells. Total exhaustion of these Toteco properties is certain, and, in the opinion of oil men, it will occur in a short time.

There is considerable disappointment over the failure of the company to get satisfactory results in its drilling campaign to off-set the loss in Toteco.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Wheat opened about unchanged, but eased off and was ¾ to ⅞ lower under realizing and selling on favorable political news from the Near East and owing to the lack of large export trade and continued large receipts.

Corn and oats followed wheat.

WEDDING BELLS

O'BRIEN—MASON.

Monday morning, October 2, St. Helen's Church, Toronto, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Rev. Father O'Connor united in marriage Mildred Louise, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Malcolm Mason, Toronto, and George Stanley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. O'Brien, of this city.

The charming bride was becomingly attired in periwinkle crepe de chine, wearing a large black Panne velvet hat, white fox fur, and carrying a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

They were attended by Mr. and Miss Elliard, brother and sister of Father Elliard, of Lady of Lourdes' Church, Toronto.

After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the bride's home, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien left on the evening train for Peterborough, en route to Quebec, the bride travelling in navy blue French tailleur with grey and blue duvetyn hat.

They will reside in Outremont, Que.

HARPER—GRANT.

The Toronto Daily Star of October 2 has the following account of the wedding of Mr. T. W. Harper, which took place in Toronto on Saturday. Mr. Harper, who lived for many years in Peterborough, and is a brother of Mrs. Edgar Worth, has many friends and acquaintances in the city:

"Victoria Presbyterian Church was prettily decorated with palms and asters at twilight on Saturday for the marriage of Ruby Laverne Grant to Mr. T. Wm. Harper, manager of the College street branch of the Bank of Toronto, the Rev. D. T. L. McKerroll officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a becoming gown of shadow rose crepe romaine with Spanish silver lace, black Panne velvet picture hat, white fox fur (gift of the groom), and carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. The matron of honor, Mrs. C. A. Pemberton, wore a gown of French blue brocaded georgette embroidered in silver, and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. Little Dorothy Worth of Peterborough, niece of the groom, made a dainty flower girl in sunset taffeta, carrying a basket of pink sweet peas. Mr. Allan Harper acted as his brother's best man, and Mr. Walter Worth of Peterborough and Mr. E. A. Van Norman of Milton as ushers. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Clendenan avenue, Mrs. Grant wearing black paisley trimmed Canton and Mrs. Harper amethyst satin with orchids. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Webb, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, Mrs. Thomas, Woodstock; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Worth, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smythe, Strathroy, and Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Bragg, Bowmanville."

DUNDAS—BURNS.

A quiet wedding took place this morning at 6 o'clock at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Margaret, daughter of John R. Burns, 341 McDonnel street, and the late Mrs. Burns, became the bride of George H. Dundas, of Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dundas, of Fenelon Falls. His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. P. Costello. Mr. John J. Ball played the wedding march, and sang an Ave Maria during the ceremony.

The bride wore a stylish suit of brown with fur trimming, brown hat, and carried a bouquet of roses. Mr. and Mrs. W. Whaley acted as attendants.

After the ceremony, a dainty breakfast was served at the home of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Dundas leaving later for a honeymoon at Toronto and Niagara Falls. They will reside in Peterborough. The bride, who has a large circle of friends in Peterborough, received many beautiful presents in silver and cut glass.

NO CHECK YET TO FLAMES IN NORTH ONTARIO

Haileybury is in Ashes and Many Centres North of Cobalt Have Been Devastated.

MANY LOSE LIVES

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 5. — (Special.)—Northern Ontario, in the region about Haileybury, was swept yesterday by the most destructive forest fires in Ontario's history.

Haileybury, one of the finest towns in the Northland, is in ashes, only a handful of houses remaining, Charlton is gone and Englehart is partly burned. The town of Heaslip is a total loss, the station and other buildings at Thorneloe are in ruins and a dozen smaller places have been fire-swept.

Cobalt was said to be "practically safe" at eight o'clock this morning.

Unofficial reports from the devastated area received by the T. and N. O. Commission indicate that over a score of persons perished in the flames, and it is feared that later reports will increase that figure.

Premier on Hand.

Premier Drury hastened from Toronto last night immediately upon hearing of the disaster, to render every assistance in the power of the Ontario government. The Prime Ministers' train arrived at North Bay at seven o'clock this morning and Mr. Drury, assisted by the chairman of the Government Railway Commission, immediately set to work upon relief measures. Tents and blankets have been already ordered from Toronto, and bread and other foodstuffs and Red Cross supplies for the fire sufferers were despatched to Cobalt by special train shortly after the Prime Minister's arrival.

Three Relief Trains.

Meanwhile the first of three relief trains which were sent north last night to bring out refugees ,arrived at North Bay with five hundred people who swarmed into Cobalt from the devastated area. Cobalt is 103 miles north of North Bay on the T. and N. O. Railway.

TWO HOUSES LEFT.

MATTAWA, Oct. 5.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)) — "Two houses mark the spot that a few hours previous was a promising northern town of New Liskeard, and according to latest reports reaching here this morning many of its inhabitants have lost their lives in the fires that have devastated this district and many towns and settlements north of Cobalt. All along the line of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway flames are hewing their path of destruction, and fears are expressed that all points between North Cobalt and Dane have been completely destroyed. There appears to be no check to the flames, and what were peaceful scenes of habitation just a day ago are now but black spaces barren of human life and vegetation, marking an undulating trail of desolation and destruction for a distance of more than fifty miles.

RELIEF OPERATIONS.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—There are eighteen coaches waiting at Cobalt to bring away any further refugees. The town of Cobalt is crowded with residents of the fire stricken area. About 1,500 persons took an opposite direction and are now in New Liskeard. Premier Drury arrived from Toronto this morning, and, associated with George W. Lee, chairman of T. & O. Commission, is taking personal charge of relief operations. A special train left Toronto early this morning with fourteen thousand blankets and 450 tents, 2,000 ground sheets, a carload of cooking utensils, thousands of lanterns and two whole carloads of general supplies, and twenty members of the Provisional Police Force are in charge.

This morning the wind is from the north-west ,and it is believed here the town of Cobalt, after a night of continual danger, is for the moment safe. All night the outskirts of this town were guarded by citizens against the advance of the onrushing flames. What made the fire all the more disastrous was the speed with which it covered the territory. Haileybury was hit at four o'clock and by six o'clock all that was left were ten or twelve scattered buildings, most of these being on the northern outskirts. A big new court house, the pride of the mining district, was completely obliterated, as was also the Roman Catholic Bishop's Palace, the Roman Catholic Cathedral, Anglican, Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches. The Sisters of Providence Hospital was burned to the ground, but it is understood all the patients were removed by automobiles to Cobalt. Mr. Lee announced this morning that the T. & O. lost fifty cars loaded with freight and five stations, namely, those of North Cobalt, Haileybury, Thornloe, Heaslip and Charlton.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—T. J. Meagher, clerk of the court at Haileybury, which was in session with Mr. Justice Orde presiding when the fire broke out, stated that P. A. Cobbold and wife were trapped in a burning building in that town, and lost their lives. The Judge and all those in court got away safely.

ASSISTANCE FROM MILITARY.

OTTAWA, Oct. 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Hon. G. W. Graham, Minister of Militia and Defense, has wired instructions to the officer command-

G. N. Gordon Took Action in Relief Of Fuel Shortage

The acquisition of considerable fuel for Peterborough in the shape of five hundred cords of dry hardwood slabs in time to tide over the fuel shortage is due to the co-operation of Mr. G. N. Gordon, the local Federa. member.

It appears that the Peterborough Lumber Company, Ltd., purchased this fuel in the north country and experiencing considerable difficulty in securing cars for its transportation here got in touch with Mr. Gordon in the hope that he might be in a position to take action in relief of the situation.

Mr. Gordon immediaely elegraphed the Canadian National-Railway officials at Ottawa urging that cars be appropriated for the carriage of this hardwood to Peterborough.

The resnlt is that this belated fuel is now reaching Peterborough in considerable quantity.

NOISY GHOST TAUNTS POSSE

Screams Like Banshee, Moans, Wails as Police Shoot—Pound at Lair.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.— Despite a special guard of police, a squad of newspaper reporters and photographers and more than 1,000 curious persons, there was a repetition last night of the weird knockings and screeches which terrorized an entire neighborhood on the northside last night.

When the blood-curdling cries first issued from the purple shadows of the quiet residence district around Clifton and Seminary avenues last night, a riot call brought special squads of police scurrying throughout the district. The moonlight had transformed the familiar landscape into one of unreality, and the unearthly moaning, rising to a screech that chilled the marrow of the policemen's bones, kept up all during the night.

In day's garish light, it seemed like a bad dream, but at sunset little squads of patrolmen began filtering through the neighborhood again determined to solve the mystery. They were followed by crowds of sight-seers. The patrolmen set sytematically to work and searched every house in a square block, but all in vain."

The nerve-racking shrieks were varied now and then by mysterious wrappings or thuds, described as resembling the sounds of pebbles dropped on empty coffins.

After a brief period of quiet, ended by the horrid banshee's cry one of the watchers confused by the shadows cast by the full moon, emptied his pistol at a fancied spectral shape, which proved only a shadow.

The crowds scattered at the sound of the shots and the policemen were ordered not to use their pistols under any circumstances, but to grapple barehanded with the "spook" on sight.

After a scream more ghastly than usual, the blue coat's beat on the fence with their nightsticks and then investigated the woodsheds and dog kennels, but found nothing and the neighborhood composed itself to sleep.

But half an hour later another call summoned the police who then settled down to an all night vigil.

HARD TO BELIEVE

On 4th October a man walked into the office and related the following as his own personal experience:

"Three months ago I was going around on crutches from Rheumatism, had Gall Stones and Gravel so severely that my urine was bloody, the doctors had given me up, and was altogether discouraged. One of your Representatives induced me to try your Blood Purifier and Kidney remedy. Look at me now—I do not need crutches, and the other troubles have disappeared. Not only that, but other hard cases in my neighbourhood have been helped in the same way.'

This man has been selling our goods to his neighbours, and sold $160.00 worth for cash in eight days. He is able to work and earn big money as a result of using our Remedies. His name and address will be furnished any one calling at the office, and we will cheerfully corroborate the above. This is not an isolated case, but we have dozens similar. NEW LISKEARD IS DAMAGED TO EXTENT $25,000

Town Not Totally Destroyed as Stated in Earlier Bulletin From Mattawa This Morning.

RAIN FALLING

COBALT, October 5 (Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — The town of New Liskeard has not been destroyed by the forest fires, as was stated in earlier bulletins from Mattawa.

Latest advices this afternoon indicate that the ravage of the fire in that town were confined to the western side of the Temiskaming Railway tracks, and the damage is estimated at only $25,000 in that town.

The hospital was not touched according to the latest report.

In Haileybury four-fifths of the buildings have been destroyed. It is reported that the dead in that town will reach at least twelve.

Several bodies have been found among the debris and in the lake along the water front .

The known dead are Mrs. F. Cobbald whose remains were found beside the ruins of her home; Felix Desjardine, aged 70, a paralytic in the hospital, whom the attendants were unable to move Alf. Rothon, of Sudbury, and child, who was killed in an automobile accident in the exodus from the town.

Rain Now Falling.

Rain is now falling over the entire district, and the situation for the prevention of the further spread of the fires is regarded as very hopeful.

RELIEF TRAIN.

TORONTO, October 5 (Canadian Press). — The Ontario Government relief train left Toronto this morning for North Bay.

The equipment has been borrowed by the Ontario Government from the Dominion Government military stores.

DR. GORDON BATES IN CITY TO-DAY

Canadian Social Hygiene Branch to Be Formed Here

Dr. Gordon Bates of Toronto, representing the Canadian Social Hygiene Council is in the city to-day for the purpose of establishing a local branch of the Council. The Council is an outgrowth of the movement to check the spread of venereal diseases and to impreve social conditions. Similar organizations are being formed all over the country with the approval and support of the Dominion and Provincial governments. At five-fifteen o'clock this afternoon a meeting will be held in the Public Library for organizations purposes and in the evening Dr. Bates will address a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce. Out of a total income of twenty-one million dollars the Provincial government expends three millions dollars on hospitals throughout the province and these hospitals are never free debt due in a measure to the fact that a large percentage of the patients entering hospitals for treatment, suffer from preventable diseases.

Everybody's Hunting Lions in The Wilds of the Ohio Jungle

Hundreds of Men Armed With Pitchforks, Shotguns and Revolvers Engage in Hunt—Lions Said to Have Killed a Cow, a Mule and a Number of Sheep

IN THE OHIO "JUNGLE" (By Courier to Kenton, O.), Oct. 5.—Lou Scherer, keeper of the Toledo Zoo, today was hunting lions, unarmed and unaided, except by a newspaper man whose only experience with lions has been with the social type.

Scherer was working independent of hundreds of men armed with pitchforks, shotguns, rifles and revolvers, and an aviator who is soaring over Ewing Wood, the supposed lair of the lions, in an attempt to spot them. Sherer has had years of experience in the handling of these ferocious beasts, but this is his first lion hunt. He knows all the trick of trap making and baiting, and will test his skill once again today or tomorrow.

Only last Friday night Scherer faced almost certain death when, to save King, a giant lion, and his new mate, Sarah, from tearing each other to pieces in their cage in the Toledo Zoo, he stepped into their cage, armed only with an iron bar, and separated the two raging animals.

Interest in the search for the beasts are increased around Mount Victory late yesterday with the report that the two were seen about 3.30 p.m. by a detachment of Kenton National Guardsmen who spent the night watching a water hole on the A. P. Nave farm four miles east of Victory, where the pair were first reported seen by William Wilkerson.

The Guardsmen, headed by Second Lieutenant Clifford Bailey, joined with the hundreds of others who are scouring the country for the beasts. They carried army rifles and automatic pistols.

Bailey said that while the Guardsmen were sitting near the water, where fresh tracks of the animals have been seen several times, that they say two animals leap the fence of a cornfield and head for the water. Shots were fired and the animals fled, he said. No further trace could be found of them. Bailey says blood spots were found near the water.

In this vicinity the lions are said to have killed a cow, a mule, and a number of sheep.

Arrangements were being made to raise a reward of $10,000 to be paid to the hunter who brings down a lion.

Meanwhile no one is able to shed any light on the antecedents of the beasts. It was at first thought they had escaped from a circus, but telegrams to all which have showed in this section recently declare all lions are present and accounted for.

A dense fog of smoke has been hovering over the entire region for two weeks, and news from Shawinigan, Grandmere and Grandes Piles received this morning predict a terrible general forest conflagration unless rain falls in the immediate future.

SMOKE COVERS MONTREAL.

MONTRREAL, Oct. 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Montreal is to-day overshadowed with dense smoke from many forest fires that are raging throughout the eastern portion of the Province of Quebec.

The sky is completely hidden by a grey pall which makes the burning of electric light in city offices necessary. The odor of burning wood was plainly discernable.

HOLD MEETING THIS EVENING

A Passenger Service Proposed for Lakefield—New Members.

At the regular meeting of the executive council of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. J. E. Sullivan, Mr. F. Overend, and the Secretary, reported on their visit to the meeting of the Young Men's Club of the Toronto Board of Trade, on Monday, October 2nd, and particularly referred to its relation to the formation of a Young Men's Club with the local Chamber of Commerce.

After discussion, the president added the following members of the executive to the delegates to act as a committee to consider and recommend any action that should be taken by the executive council: J. J. Turner, D. R. Wren ,A. W. Macpherson and F. D. Kerr.

Extension to Provincial Highway.

A communication was received from the Minister of Public Highways, Hon. F. C. Biggs, and the Provincial Hotel Committee, advising that serious consideration would be given to the recommendation that the Provincial Highway be extended from Peterborough to the Kaawrtha Lakes. The President advised that Mr. Tooms, M.L.A., had arranged for the Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Highways, to visit the city immediately after October 23rd, to go over the proposed route. In the meantime the Chamber will endeavor to get the cooperation of all interested municipalities, organizations, County Councils, Township Councils, and hotel proprietors.

Passenger Service to Lakefield.

The cooperation of the Chamber was requested by letter from citizens of Lakefield, to request the management of the Canadian National Railways ,to operate a gasoline car on the existing railway between Lakefield and Peterborough. This action was taken.

Canadian Tax Conference.

Advice was received from the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada that a Canadian Tax Conference had been formed which would have for its object the study of the tax problems of the Dominion, Provinces and municipalities in its various phases, and reports on their investigations would be forwarded to all members.

It was decided that the council should secure a membership and receive these reports which will be available for reference and action by members.

New Members.

On election the president welcomed the following new members to the Chamber:

G. B. Edie, Branch Mgr., Fuller Brush Co.
W. A. J. Giles, Druggist.
O. R. Girven, Printer.
D. S. Gordon, Insurance Mgr.
W. A. Shoobert, Mgr., Coco-Cola Co.

General Meeting.

The President, Mr. Jos. J. Duffds, wishes to remind the members and any interested citizens of the General meeting to be held this evening at 7.45 p.m., at which Major G. B. Johnson, Canadian Trade Commissioner to Scotland and Ireland, now en route through Canada, will speak on "Trade Conditions in Great Britain." Major Johnson has first hand information on this subject, owing to the fact that he has just arrived from Glasgow, Scotland.

The president also advised that Mr S. R. Armstrong had kindly consented eo give a short address on some of our civic problems, on which subject he is considered the most capable speaker.

Both subjects being of considerable interest to the citizens the executive extend a cordial invitation to all citizens desirous of attending.

PETERBORO NEEDS TECHNICAL SCHOOLS MR. TOOMS ASSERTS

Says Provision Should Be Made For Adequate Education of Industrial Workers — Points to Other Cities of Province.

Addressed Labor Council.

Peterborough's problem of vocational training and technical education was discussed by Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., at last night's meeting of the Trades and Labour Council, and as a result of his address it was decided to hold a public meeting in the near future for the purpose of stimulating interest in this question.

"Vocational training and technical schools have become of paramount importance to the industrial worker of this city and to the people generally," said Mr. Tooms. "Dr. Miller of the Department of Education, made a survey of the needs and conditions in Peterborough in regard to this matter, and was so impressed with the situation that he submitted a special report, which was published, advocating technical education here. Plans were prepared by Messrs. Blackwell and were approved by Dr. Merchant, who is head of the technical education branch of the department. The cost was estimated at $450,000 for a combination Collegiate Institute and Technical school. Government grants would amount to $140,000, leaving the net cost to the city at $310,000. The Government would pay the debentures as they came due and also one-third of the interest on the whole sum.'

No Action Taken.

"This subject has been discussed for three years and nothing has been done," Mr. Tooms continued. "There has been talk of a Collegiate enlargement, why not a combination school? To have a separate technical school requires a population of 50,000. The Board of Education seems tied to a Collegiate Institute at a probable cost of $215,000, and no Government grant is obtained under those conditions. This would afford no provincial assistance for the industrial worker, and yet the Adolescent Act demands that children remain at school until they are 16, and the age limit may be raised to 18 next year.

Why tie up the industrial workers to Latin and other subjects that are of no practical use to them? Give the children of industry equal opportunity with the children of the professions to secure a suitable education. We can't all belong to the professional class.

Aspect of Cost.

A combination High School and Collegiate would cost $310,000 net. A Collegiate addition alone would cost $215,000. The difference of $90,000 would provide for technical education in connection with a combination institution adequately equipped for wood and metal working ,electric work, draughtsmanship, industrial labour and class rooms for the study of mechanical arithmetic and mathematics generally as applied to industry.

The technical part of the school would supply accommodation for 350 full time students, 450 part time and 550 evening students, and pupils aged 14 having reached the Jr. IV may attend technical school. Some say that this does not work out successfully. It does in the United States. The Adolescent Act has forced on the need of vocational training since children must stay at school until they are 16.

A Weak Argument.

That we can't afford a technical school is a weak argument. This I believe is the argument of the Board of Education. We have to afford an extension of some sort? Why only for the professional class when experts claim that Peterborough is specially adapted for vocational training. The Inspector says the High school should be doubled to include vocational training in Peterborough.

Example of Others.

A technical school is now operating in Hamilton with 86 teachers; also at Ottawa and Sault Ste. Marie. Toronto has two technical schools and is building another, while Windsor is also building one. There are combination schools at Fort William, Niagaar Falls, Sarnia and Sudbury, and there are others in process of building at St. Catharines, Kitchener, Guelph and Renfrew. Plans have been filed for others at Owen Sound and Galt ,and yet the local Board will not see it. What influence is behind it? The only three members who have supported the proposal for a technical school are Mrs. Morris, Mr. J. W. Worth and Mr. Joseph Wearing. These three should get the support of the people. Have they had it? You owe this vocational training to your children. Don't let them tell you they can't afford it. They can if they like. You will be asked to give a fixed reduced assessment to an individual firm for ten years, which would pay the extra cost of a combination school. Let the working people stop and think. But please yourselves. You have intelligence, use it.

Should Have It Now.

Dr. Neal came to the Trades Council and advocated a combined school

DETROIT GIRL ASKS 25,000 HEART BALM

Charges Fontiac Man Did Not Keep Promise to Wed

PONTIAC, Mich., October 5. —A Bulgarian love match alleged to have had its climax in a promise to marry has found its way into the Oakland County Circuit Court, where Miss Filor Sinamian, of Detroit, has sued Toros Manisian, of Pontiac, for $25,000.

The plaintiff alleges that Manisian promised to wed her in August and bought her an engagement ring and a watch and necklace.

His love cooled by 3rd September, Miss Sinamian declares, and although she has always stood ready and willing to marry Manisian, he refuses. She says he furnished an apartment in Pontiac where they were to make their home.

ENGINEERS TO HONOR KELLY

Memorial Unveiled Today to Discoverer of Bessemer Steel Process.

DETROIT, Oct. 5.—Some 70 years ago, an iron-master who faced bankruptcy because the woods around the little town of Eddyville, Ky., were so far from his charcoal furnaces, sat watching a yellow mass of melting iron.

A breath of air, leaking through the defective side of the "finery furnace," struck one corner of the metal and made it glow and sparkle. The man saw a spot on the iron turn a glaring white and become incandescent. He leaned forward, watched for a moment, then leaped to his feet and spoke aloud to himself.

His Discovery.

That day without the semblance of a theory as a background he discovered a law of chemistry which in a few years was to make the steel industry expand with the suddenness of a detonation and change, before his death, the industrial and economic life of the whole world.

Today for the first time since that forgotten incident of air and iron, a great group of American engineers and chemists will go to Wyandotte to pay public tribute to the memory of William Kelly.

A tablet bearing his name, and the title, "discoverer of the Bessemer process," was unveiled in the Wyandotte Library which occupies the corner where Kelly's first commercial steel works stood, and Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck is expected to make the dedicatory address.

While the 7,000 engineers and chemists—they are delegates to the fourth international steel convention which opened in Detroit this week—wait to see this bronze tribute one of their number will relate the story of Kelly's life.

The Birth of Steel.

It will be told how he accidentally discovered that the oxygen in air will unite with the silicon and manganese and other impurities in raw iron and produce steel, and how he conducted experiments in an effort to prove this fact to the public.

It will be told how his father-in-law and his customers put forth bitter and unsuccessful efforts to force him to retain the "good, old charcoal method" for refining iron.

And the rest will be the rather stirring, sometimes pathetic story of an inventive genius who although assailed and ridiculed on every side, stood by his convictions and contributed materially to science without winning a country doctor's share of fame.

THE WEATHER

With temperatures rising as high as 85 degrees in the daytime, and warm nights, there is little of the coolness generally associated with October weather. Last night's lowest was but 64 degrees, about the usual figure for a warm night in July or August. Rain, however, is needed, and for the past month there has been a decided shortage in the rain fall, and for several weeks absolutely none at all, the first prolonged dry-spell this year. The air is full of a smoky haze (probably from the forest fires in Northern Ontario) and this combined with the beautifully variegated tints of the trees, gives us a picture of Nature in her most artistic mood.—W.P.

FOREST FIRES IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Twelve Menacing Settled Localities Attributed to Hunters.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Oct. 5. — (Canadian Press.) — Twelve forest fires in different parts of New Brunswick, and all attributed to hunting parties, were raging yesterday, according to reports reaching the department of lands and mines here. During the month of September only half an inch of rain fell, according to records of the Dominion Meteorological station here and conditions are favorable for a great conflagration similar to the memorable Miramichi fire in 1825, which occurred in October, following an exceptionally dry September.

Several towns have been menaced by bush fires during the past 24 hours, including Camp Bellton and Newcastle and on Canadian National Transcontinental division between McGivney and Moncton forest fires have burned down telegraph and telephone poles along the railway, cutting off communication.

NEW GENERAL MANAGER AND DIRECTORS APPOINTED FOR CANADA'S RAILWAY SPSTEM

Sir Henry Thornton, of London, England, Resigns From Great Eastern Railway to Direct the Destinies of Canada's National Lines—Government Fulfils Election Promise.

NEW DIRECTORS ANNOUNCED.

OTTAWA, October 5 (Canadian Press).— Major-General Sir Henry Worth Thornton, K.B., general manager of the Great Eastern Railway of England, is the new head of the Canadian National Railways.

An Order-in-Council appointing him and the other members of the Board and formally creating the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk lines into the Canadian National Railway System, passed the Cabinet Council yesterday, and was approved by the Acting Governor-General last evening.

Sir Henry arrived in Ottawa yesterday, and final arrangements for his appointment were then made. He leaves again to-day for New York, and will return almost at once to England to settle up his affairs there, returning to Canada to take over the direction of the National System within about a month.

Salary of $50,000.

A contract was signed yesterday afternoon, extending over three years, under which he is to be paid $50,000 per annum. Clauses in he contract, it was stated, give protection to both the Government and to the new president and general manager of the railways in the event of either side wishing to terminate the agreement before the end of three years.

The New Directorate.

The resignations of the existing Board of Directors of the Grand Trunk System were accepted by the Government yesterday, and the new Board was appointed to administer the joint system. The Board consists of the following, in addition to Sir Henry, who is president of the system and chairman of the Board of Management:

John H. Sinclair K.C. New Glasgow, N.S., former member of Parliament for Antigonish.

Ernest R. Decary, ex-president of the Montreal Civic Commission, Montreal.

Tom Moore, president of the Canadian Trades and Labour Congress, Ottawa, representing Labour.

Graham A. Bell, Deputy Minister of Railways.

Gerald G. Ruel, general counsel.

The vice-presidents in charge of traffic and operation are to be appointed after the new general manager returns to Canada and has time to size up the situation.

Cabled Resignation.

The new chairman and general manager of the road is a railway executive of wide experience. He is a naturalised British subject, but was born in the United States, and received a large part of his railway experience on the Pennsylvania Railway system, probably the busiest line in respect to passenger service in the United States. In 1914 he took over the direction of the Great Eastern Railway in England, from which position he resigned by cable yesterday.

In announcing that the Board had been appointed, the Prime Minister stated that the delay in making the appointments had been due to the inability to arrange for Sir Henry Thornton to come to Canada before now. He had landed at New York on Tuesday and came directly to Ottawa. The Government had been in communication with him in England through Hon. P. C. Larkin, the Canadian High Commissioner, but it was necessary for him to visit Ottawa before final details could be arranged.

Headquarters Not Chosen.

The matter of deciding where the headquarters of the system are to be is left to the incoming Board. The new Board, however, will make the annual inspection of the system, together with officials of the road. This will take place before the return of Sir Henry from England, arrangements to this effect having been made by the new president immediately after his appointment.

RACE MAYFLOWER FOR $5,000 PURSE

Canadian Fishermen Challenge the U. S. Fancy Schooner.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Captain Argus Walters is willing to race the International Fishermen's champion Bluenoss of Lunenberg, against the Boston schooner Mayflower, in a special matched race over a forty mile open sea course, with a time limit of five hours, he stated in a wire tonight to Boston, in reply to one of inquiry from here. The course would be off Cape Anne, the purse $5,000, three thousand to the winner and two thousand to the loser, and it would be distinctly understood that race would have no connection with the international events, Captain Walters stipulated.

The telegram of inquiry asked if the Bluenose would accept a challenge for a matched race with the Mayflower in the event the Lunenburg vessel again won the international championship. It also asked how large a purse Captain Walters would consider necessary, and how it should be divided.

Captain Walters replied: "If Bluenose is defender will accept challenge for match race with Mayflower on condition that race is over an open sea course to be mutually agreed upon between the captains of the two vessels. Purse $5,000; winner, $3,000; loser $2,000. It should be distinctly understood that such a race would be a special race and would have no connection whatever with the International Fishermen's races."

Haileybury, North Cobalt and Other North Ontario Towns Wiped Out By Forest Fires

Englehart Also Reported Devastated By Fires That Were Disregarded Until Late Wednesday Afternoon—Strong Winds Suddenly Blew Up and the Whole Country Was Swept By Flames.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE REPORTED.

COBALT, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press).—From ten to thirty dead and property losses of from four to ten million dollars are indefinite but conservative estimates early this morning of the grim results of the forest and town fires which yesterday swept and destroyed at least 2,500 square miles of territory, including the town of Haileybury and other villages and settlements. Refugees are flocking into Cobalt and North Bay this morning. Two or three trains of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railroad are still unheard from.

MANY SCHOOL CHILDREN BELIEVED LOST IN THE FIRES.

Only daylight will reveal the worst. The scenes at Haileybury were beyond description, so suddenly and almost without warning did the holocaust descend. Men who went unmoved through the worst of the battles in France broke into sobs. The children were just leaving school as the fire struck the town, and it is believed that most of the fatalities were caused by mothers waiting in vain for their children to come.

Shamrock and Temiskaming mine have lost some buildings and the firemen are now engaged fighting on the edge of the Concagus ground. North of the town hall is a wall of flame and smoke, and I do not know what is being done. As I write Elk Lake is reported on fire, but as there is no way of getting word except by a trail through the fierce bush I cannot confirm the report. This applies also for Swastika and Kirkland Lake, 60 miles north, where fires were reported this morning.

New Liskeard is still safe. The farming country from Liskeard north to Englehart, and northwest to Elk Lake, is a mass of small fires, and hundreds of farms are wiped out.

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Haileybury, North Cobalt and several smaller places north of these points have been wiped out by forest fires which have reached great proportions, trains operated by the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railroad in the territory where the conflagration is raging have not been heard from and great destruction has been caused throughout the entire country, according to advices received tonight from Cobalt.

It is understood that Heaslit and Elk Lake, two small mining towns, are among the places destroyed by the flames.

No Loss of Life.

Advices from the Canadian Pacific Telegraph Company's offices at Cobalt are to the effect that as far as can be ascertained, no loss of life has occurred in the more populous centres, the people escaping from the doomed places when they saw that destruction was inevitable. Cobalt is crowded with refugees from Hailybury and North Cobalt.

Trains Fail to Report.

Trains due in Cobalt this evening from Englehart and Cochrane have failed to arrive and grave fears are entertained for their safety. One report has it that Englehart has been wiped out, but this could not be confirmed. Messages indicate that the trains leaving the north would be crowded with people endeavoring to get away from the stricken district.

PREMIER DRURY RUSHES TO NORTH COUNTRY.

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Seized with the seriousness of the situation in Northern Ontario where forest fires are ravaging districts and rendering thousands of persons homeless, Premier Drury of Ontario tonight made hurried preparations and left for the scene of devastation.

During his absence Attorney-General Raney will be Acting Premier.

NORTH BAY PREPARING TO RECEIVE REFUGEES.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 4.—(Canadian Press).—According to information given out here tonight by representatives of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, every point on the line between Dane and Cobalt, with the exception of New Liskeard, has suffered severely from the forest fires now raging in Northern Ontario.

Bush fires at several points on the line were not regarded as very dangerous until 3.30 this afternoon when a strong wind sprang up and created a unit of blazing forest, the extent of which cannot at present be ascertained, and which has presented a serious menace to inhabited districts close to the zone of fire.

The town of North Bay is making preparations to receive inhabitants of the districts swept by the fire, and three special trains are leaving here tonight for Cobalt.

SCATTERED BUSH FIRES AT FORT WILLIAM.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 4.—(Canadian Press).—There are a few bush fires in the vicinity of Fort William, according to farmers who came into the city today, but most of them are settlers' fires for clearing land and are under control.

FIRE ROARED INTO HAILEYBURY.

COBALT, October 5. — Urged by a wind of terrific velocity fire yesterday afternoon roared into Haileybury from the bush, and swept away a greater part of the town. Of its three thousand people, practically all are safe, but some deaths are known. Through the inferno that raged between Cobalt and Haileybury it is impossible to pass and impossible to learn any exact details. Haileybury has been isolated. The village at mileage 104 is gone, all but the school and Bailey mills, at the last reports. Refugees from the devastated area were rushed to Cobalt. One freight train whose crew performd heroic work in hauling refugees from North Cobalt, is loaded with women and children waiting to pull out if Cobalt catches fire.

Already the town has had one scare, when a house on the Hudson Bay property burned down not a quarter of a mile from the centre of Cobalt. The wind is blowing forty miles an hour. Owing to the sudden-

HARD BLOW FOR NORTH COUNTRY

Property Loss Will Run Into Millions — Difficult to Ascertain Loss of Life.

NORTH BAY, Sept. 5.—(Canadian Press.) — At midnight last night George W. Lee, chariman of the T. and N. O. Commission issued the following statement: "Towns of Haileybury, North Cobalt, Charlton and Heaslip have been totally destroyed. That part of New Liskeard west of the T. and N. O. tracks has been destroyed. We are unable to secure communication with Uno Park or Earlton. The situation at Cobalt is clear. There is a small fire one mile away, with a mild south-west wind blowing. Everything seems safe for the night. Three trains of an aggregate of twenty-four cars, containing approximately 1,400 people, have left Cobalt for North Bay. Other trains are being prepared. Reported loss of life is considerable and is mounting. Further than that we are unprepared to say.

"Property loss will obviously run into millions of dollars.

"At midnight the fire is still burning briskly, fanned by a subsiding wind. There is no prospect of rain and it apparently remains for the fires to burn themselves out.

"T. and N. O. tracks fronting stations at Haileybury, North Cobalt and Heaslip were destroyed, ties burned and tracks warped. Impossible to maintain traffic.

"It is the hardest blow the north country has yet received."

HOSPITAL'S UPKEEP.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—The cost of operating the general hospital for the last year was $125,156, with revenue $124,073. Of this amount $14,585 was for coal.

DIVIDE CITIES INTO POSTAL AREAS TO IMPROVE SERVICE

NO RESOLUTION.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Plans for the division of the larger Canadian cities into postal areas, following the system in vogue in the larger European cities, were submitted this afternoon at the closing sitting of the conference of Dominion postal officials, E. J. Underwood, Chief Post Office Division, postal service branch, Ottawa, who submitted the scheme argued that by the adoption of postal areas, delivery of mail would be expedited.

A map of Toronto, divided into ten postal districts had been prepared and, if the scheme were adopted similar plans of other cities, would be drawn up so that residents could see in which area their address lay. Mail, instead of being addressed simply to Toronto as the city would bear the number also of the postal district. Montreal would probably be divided into fifteen districts.

Postal officials from Calgary, Vancouver, Winnipeg, London and Hamilton, however, did not think divisions of their cities into postal areas would be undertaken with advantage at the present time. In the western cities, particularly where development was rapid, it was argued, maps would quickly be out of date and have to be revised.

Question of Suspension

During the afternoon the Chairman F. T. Coolican, Ottawa, informed the conference that a committee would be nominated in the near future to prepare rules for the conduct of the postal service.

In a resolution submitted to the chair, J. E. Marrs, Inspector of Railway Mail Service, Toronto, brought up the question whether the power of suspension should not be placed in the hands of postmasters and inspectors. The resolution was

SAYS HARINGTON REFUSED TO OBEY.

LONDON, October 5. Canadian Press Cable. — The policy of the British government in the Near East has occasioned a great and growing conflict of opinion in England, the two views being exemplified by the Manchester Guardian and the London Daily Telegraph.

Yesterday the Guardian's London correspondent says that when Parliament meets the Independent Liberal party will ask for the papers covering the dangerous 16 days following September 15, when the relations with Turkey rendered war imminent.

The correspondent declares that the council of Liberal leaders which on Monday issued a manifesto condemning the Government's Near East policy, was called hurriedly to deal with what was regarded as a grave emergency and the manifesto thereof may be regarded as a parliamentary act while Parliament is not sitting.

The independent Liberal view, says the Guardian's correspondent is that whether or not there may have been any connection between the two events, the attitude of the British government completely changed after the revolution in Greece on Sept. 26th and the outcome was a statement on Sept. 29 about an ultimatum to Mustapha Kemal the Turkish leader. The situation was then described as very grave and bearing the possibility of war.

On the morning of October 1st came a message from General Harrington from which it is deducted that he virtually refused to obey orders as to presenting an ultimatum, and was supported in so doing by the British admiral on the spot and the High Commissioner in Constantinople, Sir Horace Rumbold.

In the opinion of Independent Liberals, General Harrington's action save the British Empire from war, but credit also is given to Lord Curzon for his successful efforts in Paris to have allied cooperation.

DOING GOOD WORK.

The request of the local Home and School Associations for permission to use the schools of the city for the holding of concerts and card parties for the purpose of raising a milk fund calls attention to the excellent work that has been done by these organizations.

The Home and School Associations form a connecting link between the home and the school, and since their inception in Peterborough they have been successful in bringing about many improvments that have been of benefit not only to the pupils but to the teaching staff.

School equipment has been added to, children in poor circumstances have been provided with clothes and other necessities, and a spirit of co-operation has been developed through the activities of the Associations.

The inauguration of a milk fund is another proof of the use of the Home and School bodies. The supplying of milk to children in attendance at school has been carried out for some time in several cities with very gratifying results, and there is every reason to expect that it will prove equally successful in Peterborough.

THE NEW BOARD.

For some time it has been intimated that the Federal Government had decided, for reasons that should be fairly apparent, to go outside of Canada to secure a new head for the Canadian National Railways.

The official announcement confirms the rumor, but Premier King has sprung a surprise in going to England, instead of the United States, for his new general manager.

True, Sir Henry Thornton, of London, England, gained his railway experience in America, but he is a naturalized British subject, and for eight years has been general manager of the Great Eastern Railway.

His is a man-sized task in directing the destinies of Canada's railways, and Canadians will wish him every success in his work.

The railway problem is one of the most serious with which Canada is confronted, and if Sir Henry Thornton succeeds in making a success of the National system he will have earned the gratitude not only of this but of succeeding generations of Canadians.

To Peterborough people the announcement of the personnel of the Board is of particular interest, inasmuch as the list contains the name of Mr. Richard Gough, of Toronto, and formerly a well-known resident of this city. His many friends here will be pleased at his appointment.

REAL SPORTSMANSHIP.

The other day there were despatches from Galt and St. Thomas.

The first told of a wonderful reception accorded the Galt baseball team on its arrival home from Brantford, where that afternoon they had defeated the St. Thomas team in an important game.

Everybody in town turned out to welcome the victors and there were bands and cheering and jubilation far into the night.

That is easily understood. All the world loves a winner, and there is never any trouble in getting people to cheer the individual or the team on top.

The second despatch was far more unusual. It was from St. Thomas, and it described the return of the beaten St. Thomas team.

Instead of being greeted by a few taxi drivers and a policeman, as most losing organizations are received when they return from a disaster, they were welcomed by a cheering crowd.

The people of St. Thomas recognized the fact that they had fought a good fight and gone down with colors flying, and they paid them the tribute their effort deserved.

Galt may have won the baseball victory, but St. Thomas emerges with a large share of the laurels, so far as sportsmanship is concerned.

A city or town with enough community spirit to organize a reception for a losing team is a mighty good city or town in which to live.

THE NORTHERN ONTARIO CATASTROPHE.

Northern Ontario furnishes a terrible demonstration of the conditions that caused the present week to be set apart in Canada as Fire Prevention Week.

The awful forest fires which have wiped out Haileybury, North Cobalt and other New Ontario centres, taking scores of lives, were caused by somebody's carelessness.

Weeks of dry weather had left the bush like tinder, ready for the devastating march of the flames, but dry as were the woods, however, they could not set themselves on fire.

It required some thoughtless human being to do that.

Some hunter smoking as he walked through the woods tossed a lighted match into the dry leaves, or dumped the still smouldering contents of his pipe where the conditions were ripe for a fire.

Or perhaps a careless settler, ignoring the fact that the drought had made such an action perilous, undertook to burn slash and brush.

From some such cause as these originated the fire which has spread horror and destruction over large areas of New Ontario.

There is a heavy responsibility upon every man whom business or pleasure calls into the woods. The safety of hundreds of people may depend upon his actions.

Just now there are twelve forest fires raging in different sections of New Brunswick, and in every case the carelessness of hunting parties is assigned as the cause.

The authorities in Maine have threatened to bar hunters from the woods this autumn, realizing that they are a potential danger.

THE LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

The Stock Exchange Moratorium came to an end on September 1, and the first week has passed without the sound of the dreaded hammers.

It is one of the ancient customs of the London Stock Exchange that when a broker cannot meet his obligations, he is "hammered."

Two clerks or "waiters" go to tables in different ends of the Exchange. They strike three resounding blows with wooden mallets.

Then, in the dramatic silence that follows, they say: "Gentlemen! Mr. John Edward Blank begs to inform the House that he cannot comply with his bargains."

Forthwith the defaulting Mr. Blank and his clerks are debarred from all the privileges of the Stock Exchange. In other words, they are compelled, and their names are given to the daily press.

For eight years there has been no hammering. Many members have failed, but they have been allowed to slip out quietly, without any ceremonial of hammers and announcements.

In fact, there are 1,020 fewer brokers in the London Stock Exchange than there were in 1910, but those who have fallen out were not hammered. Many were killed in the war, and others were pinched out by the restrictions of the past eight years.

Now that the hammers are back, the brokers are congratulating themselves that the first week has passed safely. There were many rumors as to what would happen when the Moratorium came to an end, and none of the fears have come true.

It is now evident that the Stock Exchange has come through its eight years' ordeal without being impaired. It is as stable and normal as it was before the war.

The first week was far from being a week of failures. It was one of the liveliest and cheeriest weeks that London brokers have had, ever since the Kaiser led his armies into Belgium.

At last, Throgmorton Street is free again. All the restrictions are off. There is now business as usual.

There is a bull market, too. The prices of 387 securities have risen $110,000,000 in the past month.

There is almost a boom in oils and textiles. Railroad stocks have hardened at a high level. South African stocks are in demand. Almost every class of securities is improving, with the exception of rubbers.

The collapse of the German mark has not affected the Stock Exchange seriously, as the British holdings of German marks and bonds are not high, probably not more than $50,000,000.

Plenty of brokers are still bears at heart and believe that prices are being pushed too high; but the majority of brokers believe that the worst dangers are over.

The only downright pessimists in London at the moment are three Americans—Mr. Vanderlip, Governor Cox and Colonel House. These three gentlemen are announcing that the end of the world is at hand, but stocks have kept on rising during the week.

The outstanding fact about the London Stock Exchange, and the secret of its stability, is that it has no enemies.

It has the cordial good-will of the banks. It is not regarded as a danger-spot. It is appreciated, not disliked, by the great mass of the British people.

Last month, the Bank of England presented a silver Italian dish, of the early seventeenth century, to the Stock Exchange, as a remembrance of the close co-operation of the two institutions during the war. It was a graceful compliment that greatly delighted the House.

Happily, there is no blind antagonism to Stock Exchanges in England, as there is in the United States. There are no muck-rakers—no political wild men who win votes by roaring against the "Money Power."

No politician could get into Parliament by attacking the Stock Exchange. As well might he attack the Weather Bureau. Not even Lloyd George has ever flung a peroration at the heads of the London Stock Exchange.

The Labor Congress, which met during the week, passed a resolution in favor of a levy on capital, but it said not a word against the Stock Exchange.

The late Mr. Hyndmann, who was for 30 years the leader of the Marxian Socialists in England, was himself by profession a stock broker, and this fact did not interfere with his leadership of the "Reds."

The London Stock Exchange has been indispensable in building up the industrialism of Britain, ever since the first railroad boom of 1834.

It has had failures enough, and it has no fund to provide against losses, as Lloyd's has; but it is as solid and shock-proof as any other institution of the London Money Market.

Its most distinguishing feature, perhaps, is its combination of broker and jobber. Both are members of the Exchange, but the broker takes the order from the public, and gives it to the jobber to be executed.

Just as lawyers, in England, are divided into solicitors and barristers, so are brokers divided into two classes—those who meet investors and those who buy and sell.

The London Stock Exchange deals in more than 6,000 securities. It is an international market-place. It has facilitated the movement of capital throughout the world, and it has served four generations of buyers and sellers. It has good reason to think well of itself. —Herbert Casson in Barron's.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Bush fires—the dread enemy of Northern Ontario—have struck another deadly blow at the prosperity of that section of the province.

The worst feature of all is that the lives lost were due to manslaughter on somebody's part. Perhaps the careless individual who first caused the fire perished in the conflagration his own folly started.

The people of Ontario will expect prompt action on the part of the Provincial Government in assisting the inhabitants of the devastated area.

More power to the new Power Association. Perhaps it can help Peterborough to secure a better system of street lighting.

The World's Series meant nothing to Belleville folks yesterday. Beating the Hillcrests was far more important than any little struggle between the American and National Leagues.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

OF THE MURRAY REPORT

A pamphlet refuting in chapter and verse the very remarkable report of W. S. Murray of New York, concerning the Hydro-Electric System of Ontario, has been issued by the Provincial Commission. It shows the "expert" of the National Electric Light Association to be a mere special pleader for private ownership, employing the unethical methods of the pettifogger in the arrangement, treatment and presentation of facts in his possession. The quotation here following is from the foreword to the pamphlet, which is signed by Sir Adam Beck:

"Mr. Murray has made definite statements purporting to be true, which are at absolute variance with well known facts. He has misquoted statements, even replacing significant words therein with others. He has employed partial and misleading data, thereby arriving at conclusions which cannot for a moment be supported if the correct data be employed. He has presented grossly misleading statements respecting even physical facts within his knowledge, and he has made comparisons between entities radically different, when even a proper recognition of the real differences would have created an impression entirely at variance with what he has represented. He has inflated costs in a manner which falsifies the conclusions."

The very grave charges made in this paragraph are supported throughout the brochure by undeniable proofs. If the National Electric Light Association had hired a cheap attorney instead of a consulting engineer it could not have secured a document so plentifully supplied with studied inaccuracies. One sample will suffice: "The Commission," Mr. Murray states, "cannot be sued without a fiat from the Attorney-General, and to date no fiat has ever been granted." The Attorney-General has granted since 1912 more than 25 fiats permitting legal action to be brought against the Commission. He has withheld a fiat only once and in that case because the plaintiff had coupled the Province with the Commission in a manner which the Attorney-General conceived to be improper.

Since the Hydro-Electric System was established it has been assailed by all sorts of falsifiers, professional and lay. Its best defence against such attacks has been its monthly bills to consumers. Every consumer of "Hydro" light and power knows that he is getting reliable and standarized service at rates that are uncommonly low, and the audited reports of the Commission show that on these rate schedules most of the cooperating municipalities are piling up surplus and reserve funds far more rapidly that the most ardent advocate of cooperative municipal ownership considered would be possible.

Men associated with the Hydro-Electric System often find themselves in the state of mind of the old Scots minister, who was in the habit of making sotto voce comments on the Scriptures while reading in church. One morning the lesson was from the Psalms: "I said in my haste all men are liars," he read Then he added in his mumbling voice:—"Ay, Davit. An' if ye had lived in this parish ye cud ha' taken yer time aboot it."

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

"Leave it to me," he remarked. "No one will question him, and it don't make any difference whether he's seen anything or not."

Then, as he turned to Dupont, no recognition in his face, he spoke in English. "Hey, Jake Want to make some money—a lot of money?"

Dupont nodded eagerly. Renard indicated that he pack up his bag. Dupont obeyed. Renard went to the secret passage, motioning for Dupont to precede him. Stairs led down to a basement room, long abandoned, from its appearance. Then a newly excavated tunnel connected it with a timber-covered drain or sewer, dry now, and apparently dating back nearly to revolutionary days. Footmarks pointed off in both directions.

Dupont did not wait to learn Renard's further intentions, suspecting their nature. Unarmed, he turned suddenly, grasping the other man by the throat. Renard was taken by surprise. It had never entered his head that Dupont was other than he seemed to be. He dropped his electric torch, struggling desperately, but futilely. Attempting to pull away, he struck his head, collapsing limp in Dupont's arms.

Dupont trussed him with two handkerchiefs, gagged him with a torn strip o shirt. Then he dragged the body to a depression, where it lay more or less out of sight, all that could be done with the little time at Dupont's disposal. Chossing at random, he hurried to one end of the old drain, finding it masked by a thick growth of bushes and weeds, and emerging to the open air some distance from the little farm.

Circling around the house cautiously, he found Sam, Jake's partner. Instructing him to signal Jake, he arranged for the two detectives to explore the secret passageway, so that both ends could be watched. Then he hurried off to find a telephone, to hurry the arrival of the other operatives for the raid.

After phoning the agency, a sudden thought struck him. Violet He assumed that she was safe; he had felt that she would be safe until after the raid; but now a sense of uneasiness took hold of him. He called the Washington Square number rather apprehensively.

For a long while there was no answer. He insisted that Central ring the number. At last a male voice responded.

"No, this is Costigan Patrolman Barney Costigan What d'you want?"

"Patrolman—" He gasped. "Has anything happened?"

"Uh—who are you?"

"This is Robert Dupont. I'm living with Miss Sutton and I'm engaged to her neice. Now tell me if anytning's wrong."

"Gee" The policeman's voice was sympathetic. "You'd better come home in a hurry. According to the Swede girl.—who's off her nut now, and raving—the young lady was kidnapped late this afternoon by a big man in a limousine and a detective by the name of Clews We found Miss Julia Sutton in the parlor, in the wreckage of a lot of furniture, dead, throttled."

Inarticulate, dazed, not realizing what he was doing, Dupont started for Washington Square. Then he rembmered the raid and stopped. His men were waiting for him. Furthermore, a new hope caught him. He realized that Violet probably would be brought to this headquarters of the gang. It was too late to do anything for Miss Sutton. But Violet—

At the entrance to the secret passage he found Sam still on guard.

"Jake's at the other end," whispered the detective. "The rest of the men will be here in half an hour; Bill came in advance, by motorcycle."

"Give me your revolver," directed Dupont. His face was very grim. "And the electric torch," he added. "As soon as you are all here rush the place from four sides."

"Where are you going, Mr. Dupont?"

Dupont didn't hear. He retraced his steps of earlier in the afternoon and soon was poised beneath the cover of the supposed window seat in the house. He drew his weapon. He heard a confused murmur and bustle above. For a momen murmur and bustle above. For a moment he waited.

"The girl shall be a sacrifice," rang out one voice above the others, in deep, sepulchral tones; "she shall die to appease the wrath of the Devil God She shall die because we have not learned the secret of the map to the treasure in the Cavern of the Skull "

Dupont flung up the lid, jumpting out to face them. "Up with your hands, all of you "

Violet, held by Evil Eye, was close to the altar. Ranged about her were Case and Lydia, Vera, and Detective Clews. Dupont turned to the last in grim triumph.

"I've known you all along, Dupree," he muttered. "I let you think you had me fooled so I could follow you and learn the headquarters of the gang. But now it's all up. I've evidence on everyone of you—you, Dupree for the murder of Miss Julia Sutton."

"Not so easy as all that," came in amused tones from behind Dupont. At the same instant Renard's arms slipped beneath his, disarming him and catching him helpless with a full-nelson. "Who would think our peddler here was Mr. Dupont?" chuckled the fox.

KEENE'S ANNUAL EXHIBITION SCORED COMPLETE SUCCESS

Fine Weather Brought Out Crowd That Surprised the Directors—Exhibits Were Numerous and of Fine Quality.

MANY VISITORS.

The annual Agricultural Exhibition of the township of Otonabee, held at Keene yesterday, was marked by splendid weather conditions and an attendance which surpassed the expectations of the directors. Between eight and nine hundred people from the surrounding district took advantage of the fine day and the unfavorable aspect of plowing operations to pay a visit to the Keen Fair Grounds, which were crowded with long lines of parked motor cars. Visitors were present from Toronto and Peterborough, and 175 passengers arrived from Gore's Landing on the steamer "Geneva."

Preparations were under way on Tuesday, but yesterday was the big day of the Exhibition. Exhibits this year were declared by the directors to be excellent, particularly in the indoor showings of home-made cooking and fancy work, and of grains, roots and vegetables, with the best of quality and a large quantity in all these classes. There was a very fine exhibit of cattle, with one hundred entries in the different breeds; and the showing of horses, from the heavy draught to the light-weight drivers, was exceptionally good. Horses of the agricultural type were probably the finest of the entries, three teams of grey beasts for general purposes vieing with one another for the first prize. Red and blue ribbons were plentiful on the animals passed on the road home, one fortunate owner proudly driving a pair sporting a blue and white ribbon respectively, while a red and white ribbon trotted behind. Over against the fence, where the waiting horses were tied, a dark brown member whinnied loud and long at frequent intervals, refusing to be comforted until they brought her little colt back with a red ribbon fluttering against its soft chestnut cheek.

There were 80 horses entered, 35 swine, 35 sheep, 45 entries in the dairy products, 90 in the fruit and vegetables and 90 in the home-made cooking and preserves. Poultry entries this year were few in number, but what there were afforded fine examples of the barnyard kingdom, in some good examples of hens, ducks, geese and turkeys.

Miscellaneous Exhibits.

In the long main building, one side was devoted entirely to a wonderful and variegated exhibit of women's work—fancy articles of all description, cushions, linens and quilts worked in intricate and beautiful designs. Examples of penmanship—"The Pied Piper of Hamelin" with a bright red paper border and delicate blue bow—marked the children's section, while a perfumed section of flowers at the far end formed a bright spot of color. Painting, photography, home-made cooking in cakes, pies, bread, with pickles and preserves in glass jars, were flanked by monstrous squashes, potatoes and collections of different varieties of apples. The Singer Sewing Machine Company of Peterborough was giving an exposition of fine needlework with two machines here, and the Rural School Fair of the schools of the township was in progress along the other side of the hall; a miniature Fair that contained many of the elements of the larger one, and reflected great credit on the painstaking efforts of the boys and girls who provided it. Flowers in tall vases, cooking of all sorts, fancy work, collections of different woods and of marvellous paper concoctions, penmanship of the alphabet and the "Maple Leaf," painting and drawing, eggs in dainty cartons, manual training work in delicately-wrought ladders, various assortments of scrubbed-looking vegetables and Plymouth Rock fowl in separate crates, made a splendid showing for the children of the township.

Grafton's Display.

In the outside world, an especially attractive exhibit, spied from afar off when coming in to the village, was the section occupied by the Grafton Company, Limited, its open sides arranged in artistic fashion with painted backgrounds, against which were displayed the latest ideas in men's and boys' clothing, its gay red, yellow and green overhead signs topped by rows of flags that fluttered bravely in the breeze. Here there was an added attraction in the presence of two Peterborough dancers, Annie Logan and Mary Hemphill, doing clever Scotch and Irish dances in costume, to the music of the braw piper, David Grant, in full Highland tartan. A crowd gathered about this gay booth during the entire afternoon.

Three Peterborough auto dealers had exhibits here, in spotless, glistening cars that attracted many admirers. Messrs' A. Brown & Son had three samples of the McLaughlin make—a four-cylinder touring sedan, a four-cylinder touring car and a six-cylinder model. The Duffus Motor Sales had a tractor, a truck, a coupe and a touring car, and J. E. A. Fitzgerald was showing the Durant, in a four-cylinder sedan, a grey touring and a roadster with wire wheels.

Also the Midway.

The midway, with its "Silvia," the mind-reading lady, its "kill the cat" and kewpie doll attractions, was well patronized. The hot dog, ice cream cone, the colored balloon and pink lemonade men were doing a rushing business. "Have a drink of the orange," "See the lady mind-reader," "A prize for every one you play" were cries that mingled with the comment of the crowd on the judging in the ring, and the which of the horses racing by.

The Races.

In the free-for-all race, the first event of the afternoon, L. Ferguson of Peterborough won first place with Lena Rivers, 1-1-1; R. Elmhurst of Keene, second, with Polly Stout, 3-2-2, and W. Elmhurst, Keene, third, with City Princess, 2-3-3. Some excitement was afforded the spectators in the first heat, when R. Elmhurst was thrown from the sulky, and Polly Stout went on alone. Despite all efforts to stop it, the little black horse, with head up, tore around the course twice, to the plaudits of the crowd.

F. A. Easson of Keene was the winner yesterday of the annual open competition for the champion Shorthorn bull, receiving from Mr. W. H. Dunsford the silver trophy donated by the Canadian Bank of Commerce for this competition.

Second race—B. Hope, first; H. Elmhirst, second; J. Elmhirst, third.

The Directors.

Officers for this year who worked hard in the interests of the Exhibition were: R .A. Nelson, President; J. J. Moore, 1st Vice-President; G. E. Kent, 2nd Vice-President, and J. A. Drummond, Secretary Treasurer; D. Edwards, T. Thompson, W. T. Harrison, M.D., Alex. Wood, J. Smithson, Honorary Directors; R. Humphries, W. A. Nelson, R. E. Drummond, J. Manley, G. Adamson, D. Neish, S. Comrie, F. A. Easson, G. Howson, M. O'Keefe, W. A. Drummond, E. A. Wood, C. Nelson, A. Doris, M. Pimmett, L. J. Shaw, Directors; Mrs. H. McLaughlin, Mrs. S. Taylor, Miss M. DIVERTING GRAIN THROUGH CANADA.

United States Unable to Handle Big Crop.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—The Wall Street Journal publishes a special despatch from Buffalo reporting that diversion of export grain through Canada is being forced by inability of railroads to handle this year's crop by the normal route, through the Great Lakes to Buffalo and then to seaboard by barge or rail.

About 700 cars a day are normally used in this movement at this season. In the week beginning September 25, the railroads were able to place only 150 to 200 cars at the elevators each day, with the result that elevators here are about filled. The lake fleet is being delayed in unloading, but elevators have been able to handle between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 bushels a day.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—The petition for the recall of Mayor McLellan was reported to the common council to-day as being in order and complying with the act. The council thereupon fixed Monday, November 13 as the date for the recall election.

Delicious Cream

Use it on Fruits Cereals Desserts Puddings Pie or Coffee

RICH, wholesome cream makes all the difference when used with cereal, fruit, pie, puddings or coffee. Weak cream or milk often spoils them. But try Keepsweet Cream with any of these dishes and you'll declare you never tasted anything more delicious. Keepsweet Cream is so pure, so fresh, so beautifully rich and wholesome. It delights the palate and charms the appetite. Remarkably like "Devonshire Cream".

Guaranteed to Keep Sweet

Another splendid feature of Keepsweet Table Cream is that it will keep sweet and pure and fresh in its container for months on end. Isn't that remarkable? And think of the wonderful convenience of such a product! Nothing is added to it as a preservative and nothing is taken away. It is the whole cream, as separated immediately after the milking.

Of course, once you have opened the can, Keepsweet Cream requires the same care as ordinary cream. But, until opening, Keepsweet is guaranteed to keep sweet without ice or special care.

It is Fresh Cream

Keepsweet Cream is fresh cream and is all ready to use once the can is opened. Simply punch two holes in the top of the can, empty the contents into a cream jug and use. Don't add water or sweetening.

A Great Convenience

Wise housewives keep a supply of Keepsweet Cream always on their pantry shelves. It is always ready for use—breakfast, luncheon, tea, dinner, supper or midnight snack! And, in the event of milkman or iceman failing—or of the cream or milk souring—Keepsweet saves the day. It is a great convenience.

The Secret

The moment the cream is separated after milking it is at once pasteurized to temporarily prevent fermentation or souring. It is then homogenized, which makes the cream easily digestible. It is finally sealed in sanitary cans and then sterilized, container and all. This destroys absolutely every atom of germ life, leaving the cream 100% pure. The beautiful cream flavor is unaffected in any way. Keepsweet Cream keeps for months on end solely because of this marvelous purity.

Order a supply of Keepsweet Cream from your grocer. After tasting it, tell all your friends of its goodness. Keepsweet deserves and is fast attaining a wide popularity and reputation.

Keepsweet Milk A Wonderful Food for Children

It is a wonderful food for babies, growing children, invalids or the sick. In fact, it is the safest milk that can be recommended.

Keepsweet Milk is absolutely safe, as it contains not one atom of germ life, being 100% pure. Official analysis shows it as also containing all the food value of rich raw milk.

Do not add water or sweetening. Simply punch two holes in the top of the container, empty all the milk into a jug and use. Keepsweet Cream, mixed with Keepsweet Milk, produces a delicious light table cream of about 11% butter fat—the "top-of-the-bottle" grade—and cheaper than you can buy raw cream.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

So-called stomach troubles, such as? indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache, and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments, and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestents. Magnesia comes in several forms, to be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

and then went straight and voted against it. I personally regretted that. Promises of a future technical school won't do, for once the addition is made to the Collegiate they are likely to say that the need is over.

There is an election coming. How would it be to run a candidate just on the vocational training issue and show the world we want it. There are no part time issues here to meet the requirments of the Adolesent Act. A combination school would provide them. I believe there are 480 in attendance at the High school, and there are no vocational classes in Peterborough. If they are they are very inadequate. I noticed on the front page of the Examiner to-night an advertisement for the technical classes at night stating that pupils must register to obtain a place in the classes. This is proof of the needs of this city. I understand the night classes are attended by 500, and they are scattered all over the city. A combination school to accommodate 600 students should meet the requirements for the next ten years. I believe there are 137 pupils in the commercial department at the South Central school This also shows the need of vocational training facilities. As I said before every one can't belong to the professions, and that makes it all the more important why the industrial workers should have the advantages of a technical school.

Who Has Burning Sore Feet, Corns or Bunions?

Here is Wonderful News!—

"For many years the callouses on my feet, the burning, and corns between my toes nearly drove me crazy," says Mrs. Anna Beckman. "I tried all kinds of things without relief. Hearing about the quick relief and wonderful results obtained by dancers and athletes who used Gypsy Foot Relief, my husband brought home a box. I used it a few times as directed, and to my surprise, the burning and soreness stopped, and the callouses just peeled off in my fingers, leaving the skin smooth. The soft corns between my toes seemed to fade away, and now I feel as if I had a pair of new feet. Before I used Gypsy Foot Relief, my feet were constantly swollen, and now I can easily wear shoes a size smaller, with perfect comfort."

NOTE: Gypsy Foot Relief, mentioned by Mrs. Beckman, is a secret from the desert! Applied in a minute, relief comes a few minutes later—the pains from sore, tender burning feet, callouses, corns and bunions disappear as if by magic! No fuss—no bother—no plasters nor bandages to use, no liquids nor inconvenience. So wonderful are the reports from users of Gypsy Foot Relief, that druggists willingly give back the little it costs if it fails to give successful results in anycase. It is sold in this city by all good druggists including ing Toronto military district to send all available assistance to sufferers from forest fires.

MAY BLOCK NAVIGATION.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 5.— (Canadian Press.)— Owen Sound is this morning feeling some of the effects of the forest fires 250 miles north of here. A light north wind started to blow shortly after seven and in a short time the smoke became quite noticeable. In an hour it was impossible to distinguish anything more than a few hundred feet. Georgian Bay is covered with a heavy pall of smoke and unless there is a quick change in the wind, navigation will be very greatly interfered with.

ALL PASSENGERS SAFE.

TORONTO, Oct. 5.— (Canadian Press.)— Northern Ontario fire officials of the Canadian National Railways reported this morning that their train which left Winnipeg for Toronto at 10.50 Tuesday morning, is safe, and on its way to Montreal via the Transcontinental line. The train, which was due in North Bay at 10.30 last night, reached the zone of the fire south of Cochrane about four o'clock yesterday. It was seen that it was impossible to proceed south on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario railway, and the train was returned to Cochrane. After a few hours' delay it was despatched for Montreal via Hereby. Junction, on the Transcontinental line, which is now a part of the Canadian National Railway System. As far as can be ascertained there is no damage to the property of the railway system, and all passengers are safe.

The attendance last evening give the committee great encouragement to arrange for further entertainments during the winter season. A number of new members associated themselves with the Club last evening.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Petting is one of the greatest amusements of flappers and cake-eaters of today, but in few countries is there such freedom of speech and action as here.

In China, for instance, not only is lovemaking taboo among young people, but it is forbidden even to speak of love. An engaged couple may not mention their coming nuptials. All is attended to by the parents.

FIRE LOSSES IN RECENT YEARS

No Forest Area Suffered More Than Northern Ontario.

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—(Special).—Perhaps no forest area has suffered a greater fire loss in recent years than Northern Ontario, especially the district in which Haileybury is situated.

In the trackless wilderness where civilization has not yet penetrated, these conflagrations are a perennial occurrence, witnessed only by lone trappers and Indians.

But where there is a settlement and mining development on a general scale, as along the T. and N. O. Railway, these conflagrations leave a trail of tragedy and destruction in their path. In the dry summer weather, the frame structures of the pioneers provide even more inflammable material than the surrounding forest.

A spark from a locomotive, or a camp fire left smouldering, is fanned by a sudden breeze, and then the fire demon is let loose to work havoc all up and down the line of railway that marks out the pioneer settlements.

Then the fire-fighting organization of the Province and the local points is powerless; then either the fury of the flames must spend itself or the elements that started it, assume a different form, and hot, dry weather gives way to rain that lifts the curtain of smoke that hangs over smouldering towns.

On August 21, 1906, a fire starting in one of the stores, nearly wiped out the whole town. Sixty-six business buildings and ten fair-sized residences, as well as seven acres of shacks, went up in flames.

The most disastrous fire in Ontario's history was that of 1911, when on July 11 and 12 all of South Porcupine, Cochrane and Pottsville were destroyed. Altogether 98 lives were lost.

The total loss to property was estimated at over $2,000,000. The forest was in fire for a distance of 150 miles between Cobalt and Porcupine, while isolated areas between North Bay and Cobalt were swept by minor conflagrations.

Relief Operations.

Attorney-General Raney, who with General Victor Williams, is directing the Ontario Government relief operations, has, with other Cabinet Ministers, been working with untiring energy since the news of the north country holocaust first reached Toronto.

Dr. McClenahan, of the Provincial Health Office, has also gone to the stricken area with the relief train, along with two red cross nurses, and equipped with medical supplies.

The Grand Trunk railway officials have assured Attorney-General Raney that they will rush the relief train through to North Bay in seven hours.

Premier Drury in person is at North Bay, and Hon. Beniah Bowman, Minister of Lands and Forests, left on the relief train for the scene this morning. The relief committee, headed by Arthur Hewitt, which looked after the last north country fire, was called together as soon as the news reached the city. They have worked unceasingly, with the result that two carloads of food of all kinds is speeding on the relief train to the homeless people of the northland.

SAGE AND SULPHER DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Colour, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredient at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, and attractive.

Haileybury, North Cobalt and Other North Ontario Towns Are Wiped Out

ness with which the blow fell on Haileybury, it is impossible to get authentic details as to the extent of the damage. Wild rumours are around. The smoke is so thick that one cannot see. The fire was seen to sweep right through the central section of Haileybury from the station down to the wharf. An enormous crowd of people was seen on the wharf and the boat taking them off. I cannot find out if all were taken away. The south end of Haileybury is blazing, and the fate of the north end is not known but it is reported to be safe. The hospital was safe at the last reports. The fire is believed to have been started by a Haileybury man burning potato tops. A terrific fire sprung up, and started the bush fires.

LATER REPORTS SAY HOSPITAL IS GONE.

Other towns reports ablaze are Englehart, Earlton, Elk Lake, and Heaslip. Bush fires stretch from Latchford to about Matheson. In this stretch no real rain has fallen for a month. North of Matheson there was a big rain storm on Sunday and that country is probably all right. There is no report from Kirkland Lake and no wire communication from north of Cobalt. Trains cannot get through. Ashes are falling thickly in Cobalt.

All Haileybury, except a handful of houses from the Dave Angus residence to Fertand Place, hospital, cathedral, schools, hotels and entire business section, is nothing but bare ground. Terrible anxiety is felt for the fate of the sisters in the Roman Catholic Hospital of Providence who stayed nobly by their task removing patients though the building was in flames, and the whole section around about a seething furnace. When last seen they were taking refuge by the side of the road, and it is feared that the heroic band has been burned to death.

The number of fatalities in the the destruction of Haileybury can only be guessed, but your correspondent saw half a dozen people fall in the flames or dead by the roadside, and so must presume that the death list will reach a score, as he was unable to reach the centre of the town. In fifteen minutes after the fire jumped the railway track a thousand buildings were ablaze. The wind was terrific, a sixty mile and hour gale blowing.

FARMERS STARTED FIRES TO CLEAR THE LAND

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 5.— (Canadian Press.)— A special despatch to the Ottawa Journal from its North Bay correspondent says that a large fire fighting party left there last evening for the north where extensive fires are raging. Thornloe and Uno Park, according to the report, had been wiped out. The Toronto and Northern Ontario Railway buildings at Haileybury had been burned at the time of filing and the flames had secured a foothold in the centre of the town. Wire communication with the east had been suspended, all despatches being routed through Winnipeg. The fires, according to the despatch, had been started by farmers clearing land.

VAST AREA ABLAZE.

FORT FRANCIS, Ont., Oct. 5.— (Canadian Press.)— Forest fires in the neighborhood of Fort Frances have been running for the past two days. The country north and west of here is all on fire, but so far no serious damage has been reported beyond destruction of some hay and cordwood.

The situation across Rainey River in the neighborhood of International Falls is serious and a heavy loss of property is reported. The school at Ericksburg, 12 miles south of here, has been destroyed.

E. W. Backus, Minnesota lumberman, lost hay, buildings, and all supplies in one lake logging camp. No serious fires have been reported in the western portion of the Rainy River district.

TWO BLOCKS REMAIN.

COBALT, Oct. 5.— (10 A.M. Despatch.) — Correspondents went through the still blazing ruins of Haileybury through the night, and estimate the property loss at two millions out of a total valuation of two and a quarter. Only two blocks of residences along the lake shore remain. They do not believe Haileybury fatalities more than 10 or 20. Practically all the people are out of Haileybury, motor cars taking them to Liskeard, as fires burnt practically all North Cobalt, through which the Cobalt road passes. All at "Mileage 104" are gone. It is believed the total loss throughout the country, Cobalt to Englehart, is four to five million dollars. First relief train with about 500 aboard, is just pulling out of Cobalt. Three other trains on their arrival from North Bay will be held till morning, except in the case of emergency, North Bay fixing accommodation. Cobalt, due to the valiant efforts of fire fighters, is safe at the moment. The wind is still high and fire is about the town, but nothing particularly serious. All English-speaking men remaining in town, but infants and little children are being taken out because of the smoke.

RELIEF TRAINS ON WAY.

LACHFORD, Oct. 5.— (Canadian Press.)— Relief train number 1 left Cobalt early this morning filled with over 1200 homeless persons from Haileybury and many who are leaving Cobalt to escape the stifling smoke. The situation is reported here to be considerably brighter at Cobalt, fires having subsided in that vicinity. It was learned here that some remarkable escapes are on record among the exploits being transfer of patients from the Haileybury hospital to Cobalt in motor trucks. They were placed on the station platform to be removed to North Bay as soon as possible. So far as is known exodus from Haileybury of the entire population was effected without loss of life or serious injury to anyone. Loss of personal and public property will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

At New Liskeard it is reported here the hospital fell to the flames, but owing to lack of communication this cannot be confirmed.

THIRTY DEAD.

NORTH BAY, October 5.— Canadian Press. — Further reports made by George W. Lee, chairman of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, concerning fires now raging in the northern country, indicated that over 500 people have been rendered homeless. It was impossible to obtain details early this morning concerning the loss of life but the reports received here indicate that thirty are known to be dead. It is feared that full reports from the devastated area will increase this figure. Some of the deaths occurred in Englehart.

NEW GENERAL MANAGER

The former directors of the Grand Trunk system, whose resignations were accepted yesterday, are — Sir Joseph Flavelle, Major G. A. Bell, H. C. Dupuis, E. L. Newcombe, and A. J. Mitchell.

The resignations of the old Canadian Northern Board are automatically accepted, the Order-in-Council creating the Canadian National system having been the first action taken under legislation passed some time ago to provide for creating the joint system.

Until yesterday's Order-in-Council was approved, it was said, the Canadian National System had really been but a name.

Why Outsider Chosen.

The objections which had been raised to the Government going outside of Canada to secure an executive head of the National System were answered by the Prime Minister, in the course of his statement to the Canadian Press following the appointments. The Government, he said, had been faced with a difficult problem in regard to taking a man from one of the Canadian roads. If a man from the C. N. R. were chosen there would probably be a charge that the National system would continue to be under Mackenzie and Mann influences. On the other hand, if a man from the C. P. R. had been appointed, the charge would have been one of C. P. R. domination. These among other reasons had caused the Government to look about for the best man who could be secured outside, and finally the choice had fallen upon the president appointed yesterday.

"What the system really needs," declared the Righ Hon. Mr. King, "is a big capable man from the outside to act as an umpire and to see that the whole thing is properly administered. I think we have found that man in Sir Henry Thornton, who has an excellent record as a railroader, and whose integrity is highly praised everywhere."

Let His Deeds Speak.

The new president of the system, who was in the east block when the Prime Minister announced his appointment, was afterwards introduced to the newspapermen present, and talked briefly with them.

"I would rather let my deeds speak than my words," he said, in answer to one of many questions asked of him. "We all must tackle this problem with the idea that we are going to make the system a great public utility without it becoming a drain on the public purse."

"But you are hopeful?" one of the correspondents asked.

"If I were not, I should not be here," retorted Sir Henry with a smile.

Asked if he knew the system, the new president replied that he knew the Canadian Railways generally, but not in detail. He had spent several summers in Canada while engaged in railroading in the United States when he stayed with a cousin, the late Colonel McGill, then Commandant at the Royal Military College, Kingston.

Sir Henry said that he had resigned his position with the Great Eastern Railway by cable yesterday afternoon, having, of course, informed his directors before leaving England that he was likely to accept the position here, but that he would return to England at once to close up his agairs there.

Returns in Month.

"I will be back in Canada within thirty days, ready for work," he said, adding that in the meantime the new directors would make the annual inspection of the system.

Outside of Politics.

In introducing Sir Henry to the newspapermen, the Prime Minister pointed out that the Act provided that the members of the Board must not be shareholders in or connected with companies in any way dealing with the railways in question or selling them supplies. This had been observed, said the Prime Minister, both in regard to the executive head and also to the other members of the Board.

The Prime Minister also stressed the fact that Sir Henry Thornton was the man responsible for the administration of the railways. They would be operated without any interference from the Government, and must be kept outside of politics altogether.

JUDGE CHOQUET RESIGNS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—Judge F. X. Choquet, who has been judge of the juvenile court here since its inception in 1912, has resigned as judge of the extradition court.

Chief Justice Decarles of the Court of Special Sessions, will succeed Judge Choquet in both capacities.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXECUTIVE MET AT MILLBROOK

Will Observe World's Temperance Sunday, October 29 — Discuss Plans For New Year's Entertainment.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 5.—The regular quarterly meeting of the Methodist Sunday school executive was held on Tuesday, October 2nd, at 8 p. b., the superintendent, Mr. F W. Fallis, occupying the chair; in the absence of the secretary, Mr. Rowland, the duties of the office were fulfilled by Mr. W. G. Hetherington. The meeting was opened with prayer, after which the minutes were read and confirmed. Mrs. P. Stinson was appointed delegate to the annual convention of the Ontario Religious Council which meets in Massey Hall, Toronto, the last week in October, with Miss A. Stewart as the alternative. It was decided to observe the World's Temperance Sunday (October 29) by using either the programme sent out by the Dominion Alliance ,or that prepared by the Social and Moral Reform Department of our own church. This being the last regular executive meeting for this year, the superintendent wished to be instructed re lesson helps to be ordered for teachers and scholars. The school has always allowed the teachers to choose what helps they preferred for themselves and for their classes preference being given those published by the Methodist Book Room providing these were considered equally good with others procurable from the States. This plan will be followed aagin for next year's supply.

Considerable discussion took place re programme for the annual entertainment always given by the school at New Years, but in view of the shortage of fuel, a considerable amount of which must be burned in heating the church for practices should the scholars be trained, and also the fact that several of those most experienced in this work would be unable to assist this year, it was finally decided, on motion, that the matter be left in the hands of the dramatic club with the request that they provide the programme. Funds are rather urgently needed for various necessary expenses, and it has been found by experience that a play, given for two nights, nets a larger clear balance than any other form of entertainment. Rev. S. W. Fallis, of the Methodist Book Room, Toronto, is to have charge of the services on Anniversary Sunday, December 31st. The programme committee was reappointed for another year with the addition of Mrs. P. Stinson and Miss Stewart, who take the place of one or two who have withdrawn. The matter of rewards for regular attendance, reciting verses, etc., was also taken up ,and arranged for, the hope being expressed that now the lessons are again in the New Testament more verses will be memorized; the long verses and difficult words of the Old Testament rather tend to discourage the younger scholars from attempting to learn them.

Fourteen of the teachers and officers were present at the meeting, which was dismissed with prayer by Mr. Fallis.

not discussed, however, the chairman remarking that it was regrettable the power had been taken away. At the same time there was the other point of view that the power of suspension so placed might be put in the hands of the wrong man.

For the rest ow the sitting the conference discussed technical topics to be brought up in the coming conference on postal matters between representatives of the Canadian and United States Governments. The suggestion was made that rates on newspapers and magazines containing more than a certain proportion of advertising matter, should pay a proportionately higher rate. But the suggestion met with considerable criticism. A formal vote on it was not taken.

COAL SITUATION AT MILLBROOK.

Council Reaches Out For Supply at Intervals — Millbrook News.

MILLBROOK, October 5. — The Council held their regular meeting on Monday evening, Reeve Wood in the chair, present Councillors Sayles, Lang, Eakins, and Stinson.

Minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed. The fuel situation was discussed at some length, the clerk being instructed to write the Fuel Controller at Toronto re the possibility of the Council obtaining supplies of coal at intervals, what quantities would be available, etc., the Council to take further action if this were deemed necessary, when the information asked for was received.

Councillors Lang and Stinson were appointed a committee to keep in touch with the situation re prices, etc., comparing conditions in this respect in other places with those prevailing locally.

Other business in regard to the gravelling of Allen's Hill, which is not as yet completed in this respect, and some immediate repairs to the road leading to the Fair grounds, also received attention.

The usual accounts were ordered paid, and the Council adjourned to meet again at the call of the Reeve.

At Power Meeting.

Fine Weather Helps.

The fine weather of the past week or two has greatly aided the farmers of this vicinity in their work. The harvest is practically all in except an occasional field of corn or buckwheat, the root crop, and the apples. Silo filling is being carried on on many farms at present, the corn crop apparently being better than was anticipated earlier in the season. The Dominion Department of Agriculture, in a recent bulletin, urges that the corn be kept well tramped while filling the silo, and that two silos of smaller capacity are better than one large one from the standpoint of economy. Ploughing has been held back in many cases for lack of rain, characterised as "poor" owing to the hardened condition of the soil.

Fall wheat is up in many fields, the danger now being that the continued warm weather will cause it to be too far advanced for safety when the heavy frosts come.

CARING FOR FARM LABOR IMMIGRANTS.

News despatches record the arrival of a splendid aggregation of the farm type of labour in the third-class immigrants to Canada by recent ships. A feature of the reception given them during their stay in the Immigration Buildings at Quebec is the attention afforded them by the ladies in charge of the National Red Cross Nursery. Presided over by Miss Tremaine, who was specially decorated during the war by King George Fifth, the work is facilitated by the assistance given by Miss Perry, Secretary of the Y. W. C. A., working in conjunction with Canadian Pacific Railway officials, to give the third-class arrivals all the comfort possible. Money is advanced in cases of need to those who lack the necessary amount to take them to their destination.

Just now Miss Perry is anxious to get in touch with a Russian girl settled in Canada, Irene Cybulska, to put her in touch with her aunt, Miss Thievart, who lost all her relatives, killed by the Bolsheviks in Russia.

The city or district in Canada to which these people are going is advised by the Red Cross authorities of their intention, and the Red Cross nurse in the district, if there happens to be one, has all information given her in case of sickness in the family, so that she may render assistance on their arrival. This is one of the duties of the Peterborough Red Cross nurse, Miss Pike, who is supplied constantly with data in regard to newcomers to Peterborough from the Old Land, and has already rendered valuable service along this line in several instances.

HE SHALL PROSPER.

And he shall be like a tree, planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth its fruits in its season; whose leaf also shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.—Psalm 1 : 3.

STATE PROTECTION OF ILLEGITIMATES.

There have always been from time immemorial women who considered the granting of the franchise to the fair sex as an almost immediate and universal panacea for the many ills from which the world suffers. "If women had the vote" everything would be different, according to these hasty speakers. Many things are different, possibly, since women have had a say in the framing of the country's laws, but the assumption that everything would be immediately set right forthwith was based on the false assumption that all women would think right, and that all women would think alike. That this is not the case is easily proven by a casual glance at any one of the questions that are argued and discussed at women's gatherings, with the attendant arguments pro and con that agitate feminine minds as well as masculine intellects. For instance, the legislation on illegitimacy that provided so much talk and discussion for women's societies all over the country. To enforce state protection for the child of unmarried parents was the platform cry of the women who urged its enactment. Then we find a speaker addressing a convention of graduate nurses on this question as follows:

"Glad of the opportunity to address so many women, Mrs. Secord brought up the new enactment of illigitimacy. There was a danger in this recent Ontario legislation of making women chattels of the state. There were several classes of women who were under state supervision already for one reason or another. Calling the 'Bill 109' a travesty on marriage, Mrs. Secord explained the stand the Brantford Council of Women was taking on this matter, scoring the bill scathingly. The only answer that had ever been obtained in response to their questioning from the framers of this law was 'the child.' She appealed to the nurses to ask the Government of Ontario to change this obnoxious act."

The action of the Brantford women was based on the assertion that the bill discriminated against children of legal marriages, in favor of children of illegitimate birth, whereas a speaker in a local women's society, when referring to this complaint, regarded it as hasty and ill-advised, the bill, in her opinion, making all provision for legally-born children before others were considered a charge on a man's estate.

Then we find a lady at another convention scoring the present-day fashions in dress, and a prompt rebuttal being made by another member that these same fashions were sensible and attractive in the extreme. So it goes.

LATEST TOG

New Skirt and Blouse Sh own; Drapes and Yokes in Sty le.

A new skirt and a new blouse are being shown for afternoon wear during the coming season.

The materials most used are the crepe silks and such fabrics as silk duvetyn. As both blouse and skirt are often made of the same material the costume has much the appearance of a dress.

ANNUAL MEETING TEACHERS' GUILD.

The annual meeting of the Women Teachers' Guild was held in Central School on Thursday, September 28. Encouraging reports of the year's work were read by the Treasurer and Secretary.

Monthly meetings were held during the year at several of the city schools, and these were interesting and well attended.

In October a reception was given to Miss Stead, Secretary of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations, who gave a short talk on the work of this efficient organization.

During the year the local society had seventy-four members, and through their efforts a successful year's work was accomplished.

In April the annual spring festival was held under the able direction of Miss Rannie. From this a large sum of money was realized, and contributions were made to several local causes. Fifty dollars was donated to the Peterborough War Memorial Fund and forty-five dollars each to the Well Babies' Clinic, Health Association and Children's Aid Society.

The election of officers for the coming year then took place, the President, Miss Runnings, presiding. The following officers were elected:

President—Miss Bonnycastle.
1st Vice-President—Miss Murphy.
2nd Vice-President—Miss Riley.
Secretary—Miss Wilson.
Treasurer—Miss Collinson.

Miss Ellen Eagleson gave a much appreciated vocal solo, and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

OPOSSUMS NURSED IN MOTHER'S POUCH.

The opossum, in structure a unique mammal of North America, belongs to the strange, ancient order of pouch bearing mammals now found in large numbers only on the continent of Australia and some adjacent islands.

An adult opossum weighs about 20 pounds, but the young at birth are not bigger than baby mice. They are at once transferred to the pounch of the mother, where for about five weeks they are fed by the milk of the mother without leaving their safe and warm incubator. After some time they begin to explore the outside world; but they do it on the back of their mother, clinging to her fur with their tails coiled around their mother's tail, the mother presenting now a most curious aspect of a walking nursery.

The opossum eats everything that is edible. Bulbs and roots, eggs and young birds, and all kinds of fruit. Its fondness for the wild persimmon is proverbial. It has no aversion to fresh chicken, and it is a prolific breeder.

No other American animal has given rise to a proverb which every child understands.

GRADUATE NURSES NOMINATE OFFICERS.

At the meeting of the Peterborough Chapter of the Graduate Nurses of Ontario, which took place at the Tiffin Tea Room on Saturday afternoon last, nominations of officers for the ensuing year took place, election of same to be made at a meeting to be held on the last Thursday of this month.

A letter in connection with the proposed war memorial to be erected by the nurses of Ontario at Ottawa was read. The nurses at Nicholls Hospital recently held a garden party in aid of the fund, and the meeting of the graduate nurses on Saturday decided to make arrangements for giving a dance to raise funds for this purpose.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Miss M. Ferguson, President of the chapter, acted as hostess to the twenty or more nurses gathered together in the Tiffin rooms, at a pleasant afternoon tea. A vote of thanks to Miss Ferguson was moved by Miss F. Dickson and and seconded by Miss M. Foote.

FINGER-NAIL BLEMISHES

A great many women feel that the little white moon-shaped marks at the base of the nail are blemishes that should be removed. Most nails have this but not all. I wish that those who do possess these marks would get over the idea that they are blemishes. First of all, nothing can be done to eliminate them, and secondly they are rather attractive.

A great many nails are subject to curious little white spots. These appear, grow as the nail grows and finally are filed off. There is always a great deal of discussion as to what causes these tiny marks. One beauty specialist said it is the result of a stoppage in flow of nutrient juices. Others say it is poor circulation, and still others that it is too much lime in the blood, or else that the marks come from bruises.

If the nails are well cared for and well shaped, such marks are too tiny to bother about. If you really feel badly about them, make a little paste out of turpentine and myrrh and spread this over the nails at night. Remove it in the morning by rubbing with a little olive oil.

The worst disfigurement that a nail can have is a series of ridges. These can be filed off by rubbing the nail with wet pumice stone, afterward polishing with a buffer and rubbing with cream so the nail will not be too dry.

A bruise will make a nail ugly, sometimes will badly disfigure it. If you have bruised the nail hold your finger in water as hot as you can stand it for half an hour. This will prevent the blood from settling under it and turning it black and blue.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Our modern Custom of throwing shoe at a wedding may be an outgrowth of an old practice, still followed in Egypt, which requires the father to give his new son-in-law a slipper.

A woman is regarded as property and the exchange of the slipper denotes that the authority over the woman now passes from the father to the husband.

BANANNAS

Banenna handkerchiefs are used in a number of ways this season, one of the favorite ones is to tie it carelessly aborut the throat, though some are tied about the wrist. As hat bands and turban materials bandannas are very popular.

Fat That Shows Soon Disappears.

Prominent fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden, a hindrance to activity, a curb upon pleasure. You can take off the fat where it shows by taking after each meal and at bedtime, one Marmola Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription from which they take their name. Buy and try a case to-day. All druggists the world over sell them at one dollar for a case or you can order them direct from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. You can thus say good-bye to dieting, exercise and fat.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

To give a waiter or a porter a tip entirely out of proportion to the service he has rendered is vulgar and frequently wins only derision from the reicpient.

All tips and gratuities should be with the least possible ostentation.

Giants Win First Round of World Series Duel--Other Sports

BEST FIGHTERS WON COMMENT OF McGRAW

Got the Breaks in First Game of Series, and Fighting Power Earned Them Victory — Just Stuck Out Their Bats.

YOUNG'S GREAT PLAY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The fighting power of the Giants carried them to victory today over the Yankees in the opening game of the World Series, in opinions expressed after the contest by the rival managers.

"The man who has the best fighters wins the most ball games," said John McGraw, manager of the Giants, between chuckles of delight over the victory.

BUSH.

"Joe Bush was working fine, although I don't believe he had much stuff on the ball, so I told the boys, after the Yanks had made two runs, to just try and meet the ball—just to stick out their bats. That's what they did in the eighth inning and that proved my belief that Bush was using nothing but speed.

"I'll admit that we had the breaks of the game, and that the Yanks might have had five runs but for some lucky, sensational plays.

Miller Huggins, the Yankee boss, had no excuse for Bush's cracking in the eighth inning.

"The Yankees," he said, "should have had more runs. Young's great somersault catch of Scott's liner in the fifth with two on the sacks won the game for McGraw's men. If it hadn't been for that catch, we would have made at least two more runs. But it happened.

"Last year we learned that the Giants were a team of fighters and we appreciate their power on the offensive."

Some of High Lights.

The winning machine climbed up the hill in low speed. Early in the game, while Bush and Art Nehf, the Giants' southpaw, were fighting a scoreless duel, the Nationals couldn't score with two successive singles. In the seventh inning they banged out three one-baggers in a row and couldn't score. The Giants simply went back in the eighth inning and kept on pounding out one-baggers until it was impossible for the stubborn Yankee defense to prevent them from crossing the plate.

Nehf, mixing his slow ball with his speedier service in a baffling medley had the Yankees pretty well subjugated until Witt broke through with his triple. McGraw removed him in the third for a pinch hitter, Earl Smith, who went to bat after the Giants, with one out, had filled the bases on successive singles by Kelly, Stengel and Snyder.

At this point came one of the big moments of the game. Smith crouching down like a golfer about to putt, bided his time until the count stood three balls and two strikes. The Giants were two runs behind. Bush flung the next ball straight over the plate. Smith hit to Scott at short, who threw to second, starting a double play that once more smothered a Giant assault. It was from this setback that McGraw's men — Bancroft, Groh, Frisch, Meusel and Young—came back in the eighth inning and pounded out the hits and sacrifice fly that brought victory.

Yanks Perfect in Field.

In the field the Yankees played perfectly from start to finish, in a smooth, steady manner. The Giants were different. Their defence was made up of flashes and flaws alike. Young made two errors, one of them costly, but he also heard the cheers of the crowd for his catch and throw of Scott's hard line that came in the fifth inning with Yankees on first and second. Young slid to the ground as he caught the drive at his shoe tops, but, rising quickly, he threw it to second where a mere touch of Frisch's foot to the bag was enough to complete a double play, as Bob Meusel, thinking that Scott's blow a clean hit, had never stopped racing toward home after leaving second.

Bancroft, too, was a hero in the field. In the third he ran into centre and with his back to the diamond gathered in a fly from Bush's bat. Later, after Witt's triple, he stopped a hard blow from Dugan and by a quick return to the plate enabled the Giant catcher and third baseman to trap Witt.

In the ninth another fine flash by the Giants' defence sank the last hope of the Yanks. Pipp had started a comeback rally with a single. Meusel sliced a hard one toward the right field, but Frisch with a fast hop and leap grabebd it and doubled Pipp at first. Schang was an easy infield out and the game was over.

The Attendance.

The Polo Grounds were packed. The day was fair and so warm that many in the bleachers sat in shirt sleeves.

To-day's paid attendance 36,514—was greater than that at any of the eight games which the Giants and Yanks fought out at the Polo grounds last year for the world title. The receipts amounted to $119,036, of which the players will share in $60,708,36, each club $20236.12, while the baseball commissioner's office will receive $17,845.40.

HILLCRESTS LOST IN BELLEVILLE

Result Makes a Third Game Necessary to Break a Tie — May Play Off in Peterborough.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 5.— (Canadian Press.)— Between five and six thousand fans, including hundreds from Toronto, witnessed defeat of Hillcrests here yesterday afternoon by 9 to 8 in the second game of the O.B.A.A. semi-finals. It was the largest crowd that ever saw a baseball game in Belleville. Result makes a third game necessary to break the tie ,each team having won one game each. It is likely that this will be played off at Peterborough. Lancaster lasted seven innings on the mound for Hillcrests and and in the eighth walked Casey. He was replaced by "Cannon Ball" Scott, who let in four runs, besides walking two men. Williams, the local Indian, pitched one of the best games of his career, and struck out 9 men. Hillcrests got nine hits and Belleville seven. Locals had six errors and visitors 5. By innings:

McGRAW DEVELOPS PLAYERS BUT HAS BEEN FORCED INTO MARKET FOR OTHERS

Manager of the Giants Has Only Four "Regulars" on Present Roster — Others Traded or Bought to Meet Competition of Yankees For Local Patronage.

PURCHASED PITCHERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(Associated Press).—In late years Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants has almost ceased to develop young ball players, and due somewhat to the local competition of the Yankees for the city's patronage, has been forced more and more to go into the marts and buy his pennant winners with the coin of the realm.

McGraw has developed marvellous players and has combined them effectively in his time, but of the present team only four of those who can be classified as "regulars" received their tutelage from John J. Mc. The others were bought or traded from other major league clubs or picked up as virtually finished products from the minors.

Of the first string pitchers Arthur Nehf and Jess Barnes, veterans of last year's series, and Hugh McQuillan, were obtained from Boston. Catcher Frank Snyder was taken from St. Louis several years ago. Earl Smith made a record in the International League, but he bears the trademark of a McGraw product.

At first base George Kelly learned most of what he knows from McGraw, as did Frisch, the regular second baseman. At shortstop Captain Davy Bancroft came from Philadelphia and at third base Heine Groh, once of the Giants, has spent too much time in Cincinnati to be included among the home-grown.

Nor is McGraw's record bolstered by the insertion of Johnny Rawling into the infield. He has been there much of the summer, due to the series of injuries to Groh. Frisch has gone from second to third and Rawling has subbed at second, but, like his mate at shortstop, Rawling came from the Quakers.

In the outfield only Ross Young is considered a McGrawite. "Irish" Meusel came with the troop from the Quaker City, as did Casey Stengel.

The quartet of men that McGraw trained who are on the team, however, are near to the top of the league at their positions.

SATURDAY GAMES IN RUGBY LEAGUE.

Crescents Play Excelsiors. Belmonts and Collegiate in Second.

Saturday marks the third week of play in the City Rugby League, and although Dr. Wood had hopes of securing Riverside Park for both the scheduled games, Mr. Alex. Kay said last night that if the Hillcrest-Belleville play-off is not moved to Peterborough, the C.G.E. team will have the grounds for their game in the semi-finals of the Intermediate series of the O.B.A.A. It was not decided last night just where the games will be played, therefore, but the Rugby club surely has the right to expect the use of either the Oval or King Edward Park.

In the first game, Crescents will meet Excelsiors, the League leaders, and in the second, Belmonts are drawn against Collegiates.

ANOTHER TROTTING RECORD LOWERED.

"Peter Manning" Hangs Up New Mark Over Recent Performance.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—Irving Gleason's "Peter Manning," driven by Thomas W. Murphy, lowered the world's record for trotters to 1:56 3-4 here yesterday afternoon in a race against time, beating his own record of 1:57 at the recent Columbus meeting. W. B. Dickerson's Nedda, driven by Harry Fleming, lowered the record for trotting mares to 1:58 1-4, beating the record of Lou Dillon made at Memphis 19 years ago.

Peter Manning trotted the first quarter in :30, the half in :58 1-2, the three quarters in 1:27 1-2, and finished the mile in 1:56 3-4.

Nedda's fractional time was :29 1-2, :58 3-4; 1:28, and 1:58 1-4.

PITCHER CARRIED FROM THE FIELD

Accident in First Little World Series Game Won By Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Banging out fifteen base hits and overcoming a three run lead which St. Paul secured in the first three innings, the Orioles, champions of the International League, crushed the American Association flag winner in the opening game of the Little World Series here yesterday afternoon, 9 to 4.

With the score standing 4 to 4 in the seventh inning, McAvoy of the Birds, broke up the game by crashing a home run into the right field bleachers, scoring Bentley, who had doubled, and Boley, who had walked, ahead of him.

In an effort to check the slugging of the Birds, Manager Kelly of St. Paul, called out five pitchers. Sheehan, hurling ace of the Saints, was knocked from the hill in the fifth inning. Hill, Martin, Merritt, and Rogers followed in succession. All were hit hard and Merritt was actually knocked from the box after he had pitched to one batter, Bentley driving a liner back at him, which cut a deep gash in his cheek. He was taken from the field.

Jack Bentley, Oriole southpaw, pitched the entire game. The Saints piled up an early lead by hitting him hard in the first three innings, but after the Birds tied the score in the fourth he settled down and held the visitors safe. Score:

St. Paul ... ...201 100 000—4 9 1

HOLDING AND OBSTRUCTING.

Holding is defined as using the hands or arms to grasp an opponent. It shall be illegal at all times, except in the case of a player who actually tackles the ball carrier.

Use of Hands and Arms.

After the ball has been put into play:

2.—Players of the side in possession may use their hands and arms for the purpose of breaking through to follow down a kick. (The kicker's side shall be considered as the side in possession.)

Note.—Except as in (1) and (2) above no player of the side in possession shall use his hands and arms to interfere with an opponent or to push him away from the play, except that the arm if close to the body may be used.

3.—Players of the side not in possession may use their hands and arms to get at the ball or the player carrying it, but they shall not tackle or in any other way hold their opponents, except in an actual attempt to tackle the player who is carrying the ball.

4.—No player of either side shall encircle in any degree any part of an opponent with the arm or arms, except in making a tackle of the ball carrier.

5.—No player of either side shall use the arms in any way to lift an opponent in blocking.

Obstructing or blocking or charging against an opponent is illegal, except during a scrimage. Except where the use of the hands is permitted, as mentioned above, no player shall obstruct, block or charge against an opponent except with the body, the arms being kept close to the body. (See rule re off-side interference in scrimmage for exception cited in this clause.)

In case of a kick-off, free kick and kick from scrimmage players of the side not in possession of the ball when the kick was made may block an opponent, but such blocking or obstructing is permissible only:

(b) Free kick, only on a line with the spot where the kick was awarded.

(c) Kick from scrimmage, only within one yard of the line of scrimmage. In the case of a formation for a kick from the scrimmage the players of the side in possession may block their opponents, providing the blocking is done by the players on the ground they occupy and while standing still.

Penalty: (a) The player of the side in possession offending this rule shall be ruled off for not less than three minutes, and the loss of one down and fifteen yards shall be awarded against his team, excepting if the offence occurs on third down, when the player shall be ruled off and his team shall lose possession of the ball.

(b) If offence is created by a player of the side not in possession, that player shall be ruled as in (a) and his team shall lose 15 yards.

Should a violation of this rule be committed when neither side is in possession of the ball, the offending player shall be ruled off and the ball shall go to the side not offending as first down where the foul occurred.

Dempsey vs. Siki! "Jack'd Kill Him!" Ring Experts Say

By BOB DORMAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The victory of Battling Siki over Georges Carpentier has left the pugilistic world of New York gasping for breath.

Not that astute fight promoters are so neatly out, but that they have been able to cable at least a half dozen challenges to the newly risen French star on behalf of their pet charges. To most of them, however, the name Siki was just that—a name—and nothing more. Neither had any of them supposed it was a name worthy of their slightest consideration.

Al Lippe, manager of Jeff Smith, the middleweight, knows Siki perhaps better than any man in New York.

He saw quite a bit of him when in Paris last spring, and he says:

"I could hardly believe my ears when I heard that Siki had defeated Carpentier.

Only a Middleweight.

"He is not more than 5 feet 8 inches tall.

"He never has received any consideration from Europe's shrewd fight managers, being passed from one to the other as they needed a meal ticket.

"A thousand francs was the most he ever received for a fight and generally his purses ran about 200 to 300 francs.

"He knows absolutely nothing of the art of self-defense, though he has a terrific kick in either mitt.

"His idea of fighting is to stand up to the other fellow and give and take until one of them goes down and out.

Limit of Brutality.

"To match him with Dempsey or Wills would be the limit of brutality. Either one would kill him in one round.

"By sheer slugging he managed to win the French heavyweight title, defeating Paul Hams, and by this victory over Carpentier he has the light heavyweight championship of the world.

"But all the men he has beaten have been of very small calibre except Carpentier, and his condition was questionable.

"There are at least a dozen middleweights and light heavyweights in America who could defeat him.

"He is coal black in color and a very neat dresser.

SIKI

"Most of his time is spent with his wife, a French girl, making the rounds of the Paris cafes and the boulevards.

Sees All His Fights.

"She sees all his fights, and is the boss of his training camp when he can be induced to train, which is not often, as he is very lazy.

"He came to France with the French colonial troops from Senegal, and served with distinction throughout the war.

"But to bring him to this country to fight Wills or Dempsey would be nothing short of murder."

THE BIG GAME HERE SATURDAY

Hillcrests and Belleville Will Clash at Riverside Park.

The biggest diamond battle of the year will be staged at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon when the famous Toronto Hillcrests will clash with Belleville in the third game of the series, with the Central Ontario League winners.

Belleville, after losing the first game 18 to 2, turned the tables on the Hillcrests yesterday, winning 9 to 8.

Peterborough was lucky enough to get the play-off. Or perhaps it is more truthful to say that Jake Solomon and Ward Patterson put up such a battle on behalf of the city that Peterborough was selected as the locale for the final event.

A record crowd will be in attendance. There will, of course, be hundreds from Belleville and Toronto, and towns all over the district will be represented while Peterborough fans will be out in flocks.

HOME BREW CONCOCTIONS LABELLED GENUINE WHISKEY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Canadian Press.—Prohibition commissioner Hayes says that reports received by him show that empty bottles on which are labels of genuine whiskey are being imported from Canada and sold to bootleggers. Inquiry by customs officials elicited the information that the bottles are shipped to a chain of stores ostensibly for "bottling vinegar." The bottles, according to Commissioner Haynes, are of the type of well-known brands but are peddled with home-made concoctions of denatured alcohol or moonshine.

The same condition exists on the Mexican border.

Commissioner Haynes also makes note of the fact that home brew is becoming unpopular in Canada among border residents, according to a statement by the collector of customs and inland revenue at Windsor, who states that several home brew supply stores along the border have closed in the last few weeks.

FURTHER REDUCTIONS IN PRICES OF FORDS

These new prices are the lowest in the history of the Ford Motor Company. The new price of $495 for the Ford Touring Car and $455 for the Runabout represents a $40 reduction from the present price of each of these models. There is a $60 reduction from the present price of both the Coupe and the Sedan, $30 reduction on the Truck and $50 on the passenger car chassis. The present price of the Ford Touring Car is a reduction of 33 per cent. from the peak price of 1920, when shortage of materials, etc., rendered higher prices on Ford cars imperative.

This announcement has great significance because it marks a new valuation record for automotive products. Ford products are now selling at the lowest prices in history.

A comparison of Ford prices with the prices paid for other staple commodities shows that Ford has effected the greatest decrease since 1919 when all prices were at the peak—

Fuel and Lighting approx. 14.3 per cent higher.

Ford touring car 33.3 per cent. lower.

The price for the touring car is the same as in 1916 but the touring model has many new features including one-man top, sloping double ventilating windshield, demountable rims, tire carrier, improved upholstering and seating arrangements.

JACK HOLT AT THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT IN "WHILE SATAN SLEEPS," ALSO A CHRISTIE COMEDY FEATURING DOROTHY DEVON, ENTITLED "FAIR ENOUGH." — OTHER SHORT REELS OF QUALITY.

Holt a Fighting Parson.

Unique Role for Star in Picture "While Satan Sleeps."

Jacl. Holt has the unusual role of a fighting parson in his latest Paramount picture "White Satan Sleeps." He is not actually a parson in the story, for he only assumes that disguise in order to safely spy out a little town which he and his pal plan to rob. But even at that, there is no disguise in the way he fights, especially when a dying girl shows him the error of his ways and another beautiful girl proves to him that she loves him for the man he appears to be. Then he fights not only his enemies, but wages a terrific battle for the regeneration of his own soul. Which is all by way of saying that the picture is one long punch from beginning to end, and that it teems with heart interest. Fritzi Brunette plays opposite the star.

HENABERY PLAYED ABE LINCOLN ONCE.

Director of "While Satan Sleeps" Was Capable Actor.

Joseph Henabery, who directed Jack Holt in "While Satan Sleeps," has not always been a megaphone artist.

"Joe," as he is familiarly known at the studio, used to be an actor—in fact, he was the original Abe Lincoln of the screen in "The Birth of a Nation."

"Not only does Joe possess features like those of the Great Commoner—he also has his disposition," according to the members of the Paramount stock company cast of this new picture who worked under his direction.

The picture is a screen version by A. S. LeVino of Peter B. Kyne's story, "The Parson of Panamint." Fritzi Brunette is leading woman, and an excellent cast are seen in the supporting roles.

MISS DEVORE "JAIL BIRD" IN NEW CHRISTIE COMEDY.

Dorothy Devore in the latest educational Christie comedy, "Fair Enough" plays the role of a "Jail Bird" in a story of many novel twists. Both she and the leading man (Earl Rodney) spend much of their time in jail, because when they are first landed there they occupy adjoining cells, and they like their meeting so well that the only thought each has on being freed is to get back as quickly as possible.

There's a suggestion of a novel way for a fellow to meet a girl in this picture, too. Dorothy meets her hero while driving her speedster across a railroad track, when the hero's hat blows off and she puts on a wild race with the train to restore it to him.

AT THE GRAND.

FAREWELL REVUE TO-NIGHT

To-night at the Grand will start the last three days of the popular Jimmie Evans' Musical Revue, which has been such a treat for the theatregoers of Peterboro for the past five weeks. We will all be sorry to see this splendid little company leave the city, and it is to be hoped that the management will try to bring them back later on in the season for another run, and feel sure the great impression and satisfaction they have given during the present run will mean capacity houses should they return.

The special offering for these last three farewell nights is entitled "Auld Lang Syne" and Jimmie promises a number of surprises in this Revue that will leave all their friends happy when they say farewell. The high standard of this splendid attraction together with the cleanness of every Revue presented is to be commented on in no small measure, and Mr. Evans deserves the best wishes of every theatre goer in Peterboro, and feel sure in adhering to his present policy of a good clean evening's entertainment at popular prices, his success is assured in any city he plays in Canada. All we can ay is:—Don't say Good-Bye Jimmie, just "Au Revoir".

"LISTEN TO ME".

A cleverly conceived idea on the subject of re-incarnation is the theme upon which the story of the musical extravaganza, "Listen to Me" is founded. his new musical play is coming to the Grand on Monday, October 9th.

Charles George, who wrote the book, lyrics and music, confined the novel story to two acts and seven scenes in which the characters are re incarnated in keeping with their surroundings. In the first scene the characters appear in the form of condemned beings awaiting punishment in the Devil's blazing inferno.

Movie stars, actors, chorus girls of misdemeanor and others who have committed sins of minor importance on earth, are assembled to receive sentence at the bar of J. Lucifer Devil in his majestic palace of Hades One of the immortals contrives to avoid penance by seeking possession of Satan's coveted formula which transmigrates and re-incarnates. Obtaining the essential mediums he applies them to Hades and its personnel whereby the situation immediately dissolves into the land of the midnight sun, where polar bears solemnly trample the desolate waste of ice and snow. Ovens and crucibles transform into glaciers and icebergs, the quivering waves of heat into blinding snow flakes, and the immortals into beings of the frigid pole, indulging the robust manoeuvres of a midnight frolic. While the ramble of gaiety is in full away, the immortal comedian realizes the imperfection of his handywork and once more applies the re-creating formula to the cause. The arctic transforms into Bon Bon Land and the beings into candies,—"ponies" become bon-bons and characters to gum drops, peppermint sticks caramels, wintermints and chocolate drops. This novel idea beautifully costumed offers one surprise after another until the finale, where little letter carriers swarm cupid's post-office at the dress rehearsal of a theatrical enterprise and an amazing revelation plausibly accounts for the fantastic theme of this novel production.

The capable cast includes besides Joe B. McGee who is in the leading comedy role, Betty Down Martin, Barbara Bronell, Bessie Delmore, Ross Robertson Chester M. Gates and a clever chorus.

The score or more musical numbers include "Listen to Me"; "Where Is the Girl for Me?" "Our Bungalow in Wintertime"; "The Devilish Blues "Doctor Cupid" and "Letters."

Here's the Happy Way to Rid Yourself of Constipation PERMANENTLY!

Bran is the most wonderful health food known! Nine-tenths of human ills would be eliminated .. all the people would eat bran regularly, because bran corrects constipation! Constipation can be blamed as the starting point of 90% of the sickness!

Bran in deliciously palatable form—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled—will give permanent relief from constipation if eaten regularly each day. We guarantee that results will prove astounding if at least two tablespoonfuls are eaten daily. Chronic cases should use as much as is needed.

Physicians indorse the use of Kellogg's Bran for constipation. It is not only surely effective as a permanent relief if eaten regularly, but it is the ideal way to correct constipation through food!

Kellogg's Bran is not a cathartic—it is nature's food that will not only delight your palate but safeguard your health! Start the children eating Kellogg's Bran. It builds strong bodies! Serve bran to your family as a cereal or on other cereals! Use it generously making muffins, macaroons, raisin bread or in a hundred appetizing ways! Pancakes made of Kellogg's Bran are the best you ever ate!

The big thing is to get Kellogg's Bran into your system quickly! Get it at your grocer's. It's wrapped "WAXTITE."

P. S.—Pimples are caused by constipation. Kellogg's Bran will clear them up and also free your breath from intestinal odors.

WEDDING BELLS

CONLIN—MacGREGOR

A quiet wedding was solemnized Monday morning in St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, when Marguerite, daughter of Mrs. William MacGregor and the late William MacGregor formerly of Peterboro, became the bride of Wilfred Vincent, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Conlin, Major street, Toronto.

The bride looked lovely in a periwinkle frock of georgette over satin cascading frills edged with silver forming the sleeves and skirt. She wore a large picture hat of silver cloth, with periwinkle and rose-tipped orchids edging the brim and the groom's gift, a pearl necklace. Her bouquet was of pink chrysanthemums with floating ends of pink and white chiffon.

The bridesmaid was Miss Marguerite Mulhall. She wore a French beaded frock of champagne crepe de chine, and a large black picture hat of chiffon velvet and lace. She carried golden chrysanthemums tied with yellow tulle and carried the groom's gift, an amber and gold rosary.

The groom was attended by Mr. Archie MacDonald.

HOWSON-CRAFT

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Mark street Methodist Church, when Christopher Howson, the only son of William J. Howson, Otonabee, was united in marriage by Rev. G. E. Ross to Edith Craft, daughter of Robert Craft of Douro. The church was beautifully decorated, having two arches; the one over the bridal couple was made of evergreens trimmed with flowers, and the other which was over the choir was made with autumn leaves. The pulpit was also prettily decorated. The contracting parties were unattended except by a little boy, who acted as a page for the bride. The bride, who was conducted to the altar by her father, was attired in a suit of brown velour, trimmed with fur and a hat to match. While the register was being signed Miss Ruth Ross, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Ross, recently of Winnipeg, very beautifully sang "Because".

Mr. and Mrs. Howson left for a short honeymoon trip and will reside in Otonabee on the farm. The young couple are both members of Mark Street Methodist Church and enjoy the esteem of the community and of a large circle of friends.

HUTCHINGS—WARD.

At Knox manse this morning, Oct. 5th, Mr. Edward Thomas Hutchings and Miss Ruby May Ward, both of this city, were united in marriage. The attendants were Miss Lottie Saxby and Mr. William Ingram. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jas. A. Mackenzie.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchings left on the noon train for Toronto, Niagara and Chicago. On their return they will make their residence in the city.

RECIPES

PEACH MOUSSE

By Bertha Shapleigh

This dessert is particularly good with fresh peaches, but may be made with canned ones. It may be frozen in the freezer can, or in a mold which is watertight, packed in a pail. The vacuum freezer is a good freezer for a mousse.

6 or 8 large, ripe peaches
Sugar for sweetening
1 pint cream
½ cup powdered sugar
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1 teaspoon gelatine
1 tablespoon cold water

Slice peaches and cover with sugar. Beat cream until stiff, add sugar and flavoring and gelatine which is soaked in the cold water and dissolved by placing over hot water. In the mold place a layer of peaches, a layer of cream, and continue until all material is used. Cover with a piece of buttered paper before placing on the cover of the mold. Pack in ice and salt, using two parts ice and one part salt; allow it to stand three hours.

Call Money 4 per cent.

By Stuart P. West.

On the stock exchange it was simply a case of renewing a forward movement which was interrupted a month ago because it had been going ahead too fast and because the speculation for the time being had been overdone. A situation of this sort always calls for readjustment, and the reaction which set in after Labor Day and continued up to the close of last week would undoubtedly have come about under any circumstances. But it was helped along by the crisis which developed for a week or so as the result of Turkish demands upon Thrace and the menacing military moves at the Dardanelles.

BARING'S LETTER.

NEW YORK, October 5. — Grain —May wheat reacted a fraction, and should prove a purchase around 107.

Stocks: I said yesterday that there would be a further bulge to-day, and then a moderate reaction which should carry it over into Thursday. I think the general list should react about a point further, probably in the afternoon, and then I look for new high prices by the end of the week.

Marine pfd. which I have been urging you to buy every day for the past three weeks, was the star performer to-day advancing 3 half-points. Don't take profits yet. AIC also rose a point and should cross 40 on this move. Later on it should go to 70 or 80. Rubber 1st pfd. sold at 100 to-day and I think it will pay the regular dividend to-morrow as I told you a few weeks ago, when they knocked it down to 93.

Pacific Oil (P.F.) sold above 60, and I do hope that you bought it around 55 and lower as repeatedly advised at the time. Should go to 70.

Famous Players which I had told you to buy back at 95 sold near 99 and you will probably get 103 for it again.

Smelters which I had told you to buy around 60 sold near 63, and should go close to 72.

SY rose nearly 4 points to 57 3-4 and former bullish advices stand.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST GOLD MINE.

Simmons, Agnew & Company, Toronto stock brokers, have just issued for free distribution an important historical record in book form covering the story of the world's greatest gold mine. Obviously this relates to the Hollinger property at Timmins, Ontario, in which a quarter interest was sold for $55.00. Mining authorities now place valuation on the company's potential ore reserves at only a little less than a billion dollars. The story of Hollinger's development from a prospect to its present pre-eminence is one of Canada's most interesting industrial romances.
